PUBLICITY STOPS DOG POISONING ON WILSON AVE.

Humane Society Offers Reward for the Conviction of Miscreants.

Publicity given by The Advertiser has stopped the dog poisoning which was rampant on Wilson Avenue, West London, a few days ago. Inspector George Tustin reported today. A close watch is being kept on the district to see that there are no further cases of this kind. The Humane Society, at its meeting last night, offered a reward for information which would lead to the conviction of persons poisoning the dogs.

During the past month 314 cases were dealt with by the society, and it was found necessary to destroy 124 animals. Some of these were dogs and cats which had not received proper care from their owners and had contracted diseases.

PARTY OF IMMIGRANTS EXPECTED ON MONDAY

Many Applications From Farmers for Services of These Men.

John Farrell, of the London office of the Ontario Immigration Department, has received a telegram announcing that the steamer Canada is expected to arrive at Quebec on Saturday evening with a large number of agricultural immigrants on board, having been detained owing to weather and other causes.

The immigrants, who are bound for Western Ontario, are expected to arrive on Sunday evening or Monday morning, and will then be ready for distribution to the various farmers in the district who are applying for their services.

Mr. Farrell has received a good many applications for these men, and is busy in fixing up the different engagements.

BRICKLAYERS REFUSE TO ACCEPT ANY CUT IN PRESENT WAGE

Mason Contractors Suggest Reduction of 10 Cents an Hour.

Bricklayers in this city refused to accept a cut of ten cents an hour in their wages when this suggestion was made to them by the local mason contractors at a conference on Wednesday night last. The masons are now receiving $1 an hour, the rate fixed by a wage agreement made at the first of the year.

The contractors claimed that if the men would work for 90 cents an hour they would be given the building trade, benefiting both the men and the employers. It was said that the high rate of pay was a barrier to considerable building operations which were planned as being held up by the high cost of construction work.

The men in their turn claimed that it was not the high cost of labor which delayed building operations, but the high cost of materials generally. They argued that the wages paid in London are not as high as the scale paid in several other Canadian cities. They believed that any reduction in wages would have a detrimental effect on the trade in London for many of the younger men would be tempted to leave the city.

Ottawa is 280 miles from this city, and under favorable conditions it was expected that the men would be able to be accomplished in little over two hours, but the visibility being low on account of the wet weather, this rate of speed could not be attained.

This is the first time within the history of the city that a survey of this kind has been made, and the result of the experiment in combining aerial work with land surveying is likely to prove interesting.

APPROVE OF MODEL TOWNS AND VILLAGES FOR RETURNED MEN

Local Veterans May Pass a Resolution at the Next G. W. V. A. Meeting.

The scheme brought before the committee on soldiers' re-establishment of the Federal Government, that model towns and villages for returned soldiers similar to those in England, be built in Canada, has met with the approval of local veterans. The suggestion was brought up by H. M. Mowatt, member for Parkdale, Toronto, on Thursday. It is the opinion of local veterans that it is quite possible that the need of good housing both in city and country.

"A number of returned men in London would take up farming if proper housing could be had," said Secretary J. W. Cunliffe, of the local branch of the G. W. V. A. "There are numerous immigrants come to this district to farm, but when they see housing is not provided they stay in the city."

It is quite possible that at the next regular meeting of the G. W. V. A. a resolution will be drawn up asking that the scheme be put in effect.

The heavier soils naturally have suffered most in this regard, while the sandy parts have seen work completed. In some cases it is feared seedling will have to be done over again. Fall wheat looks well and spring wheat, where conditions have been favorable, is showing above ground. Pasture and fruit look well. Collections are still only fair.

AIRMEN COMPLETE SURVEY OF CITY; LEAVE FOR OTTAWA

Atmosphere Unusually Clear Thursday, Making Work Easier.

Capt. H. L. Holland of the operations branch, Canadian Air Board, and his colleague, Lieut. Owen, air photographer, returned to Ottawa this morning, after having completed their aerial survey of the city of London. It was at first expected that this operation would take several days, but the weather conditions on Thursday were of such an ideal nature that practically all of the photographs necessary for the making up of the mosaic map of the city were successfully secured.

The atmosphere was unusually clear, although that cloud hung low, and no time was lost in carrying out the survey. The bank of clouds was only about 5,000 feet above the earth, so that it was unnecessary for the airmen to fly at a large number of altitudes, which was possible to carry on the work.

The operations of the aerial photographers attracted a considerable amount of attention in the city, and the movements of their aeroplanes as they circled around in close proximity to the clouds excited the utmost interest.

Ottawa is 280 miles from this city, and under favorable conditions it was expected that the men would be able to be accomplished in little over two hours, but the visibility being low on account of the wet weather, this rate of speed could not be attained.

This is the first time within the history of the city that a survey of this kind has been made, and the result of the experiment in combining aerial work with land surveying is likely to prove interesting.

VICTORIA SCHOOL PLANS WILL BE GIVEN FINAL CONSIDERATION TODAY

Number 2 Committee, Board of Education, Meets This Afternoon.

Plans for the new Victoria School will be given final consideration by No. 2 committee of the board of education this afternoon. They will then be referred to the board, which holds its regular meeting Tuesday. It is probable that the committee will be given authority to call for tenders.

Members of the committee will have an opportunity to make a careful examination of every detail of the plans before passing them on to the board. The structure will entirely replace the present Victoria School. Last year the board considered making additions to the old buildings, but when tenders were called it was found that that would cost too much for the slight improvement it would make, and it was decided to erect an entirely new building.

It is estimated that this can be done for $185,000, and will be completed and ready for occupation, it is likely that the old school will be torn down, and the space which it occupied included in the playground of the new school.

London Members Also Approve of Proposed Organization to Combat Venereal Diseases.

At a meeting of the Social Service Council held Thursday night in the Y. M. C. A., a resolution was passed supporting the proposed organization for combating venereal diseases as follows: "That the Social Service Council of London express its pleasure at the prospects of organization of a council for combating venereal diseases, and pledges its hearty support to such an organization." Dr. W. H. Hill introduced the subject, and has also been instrumental in getting such an organization started.

The following were appointed delegates to the annual convention of the Ontario Social Service Council to be held in Peterboro on May 8, 9, 10: Rev. D. C. MacGregor, James Gray, president of the local council; Rev. M. Kelly, Rev. Dean L. N. Tucker, Rev. R. G. Paever, Harry Wray, W. E. Kelly and Rev. T. D. McCullough.

Rev. T. D. McCullough, the secretary, gave a report on the progress of the social survey, which was held in the latter part of last year. Mr. McCullough stated that after the industrial relations committee had turned in their report, the matter would be compiled and printed in pamphlet form for the use of the general public, giving them interesting information regarding the city.

Three Get By With Excuses, But One Man Fined $3.

J. J. Gilmour appeared in police court this morning because he failed to have three lighted lamps on a parked car after dusk and before dawn a few nights ago, and was fined $3 and costs. He claimed that the same consideration should have been shown him as was shown other motorists. Others had been warned when their lights were out, but he had not been notified at the time. As the case had been adjourned three times, the court thought that the defendant had been shown considerable consideration.

William Abell drove a car about the streets without 1921 markers. He pleaded that he was going to get them and rather than walk had driven his car, but had 1920 markers on it. He was ordered to go after he had paid the cost of the new markers.

Earl Lounsbury, charged with a similar offence, was dismissed when he explained that he had lost his markers on the road between Lucan and London.

Allen Hopper was allowed to go because he had been summoned to court by mistake. His car did not bear the number that the officer had recorded in his book. Another man who was charged with the offence was fined $3.

BRANTFORD RESOLUTION IS "RATHER RIDICULOUS," SAYS REV. McCULLOUGH

First Congregational Church of Telephone City Wants "Drys" to Dispose of Their Stocks.

The congregation of the First Congregational Church at Brantford passed a resolution at a meeting on Thursday night that all the members "to be free from the taint of alcohol dispose of any alcoholic beverage they may have in their cellars, and send it to the hospital, sanatorium or institutions."

Rev. T. D. McCullough, who was secretary of the London Prohibition Association, stated that in connection with London he did not think that any who were members of the church should be hypocrites to the extent that they would vote dry, and yet have a store of liquor in their cellars to amount to anything, and looked upon such a resolution as "rather ridiculous."

CALL TO DUTY STRONG IN SERGEANT TOM FISH

Working in Garden When Drunk Hove Into View—Arrest Follows.

Benjamin McKaig pleaded guilty in police court this morning to obstructing a police officer in the discharge of his duties, but was allowed to go with a warning when he stated that he did not know that the complainant was an officer.

McKaig's son, who pleaded guilty to being intoxicated and was fined $10 and costs, was walking past the home of Sgt. Thomas Fish when he was arrested. The officer was working in his garden when he saw the prisoner, and went out to the street and apprehended him. The father interfered, and so was summoned to court. He said he had no intention of committing an offence, for he had known that Sgt. Fish was an officer he would not have bothered him.

INTERESTING TALK ON WORK OF SUNDAY SCHOOL TEACHERS

Sunday School Exists to Instruct in Righteousness, Says Rev. Mr. Clarke.

Two very instructive and interesting lectures, one by Rev. A. L. G. Clarke, and the other by Lieut.-Col. W. J. Brown, constituted a treat for those who attended the annual meeting of the East Middlesex Deane Sunday School Association in Christ Church last night.

"The Sunday School exists to instruct in righteousness," said Rev. Mr. Clarke, discussing the subject. "How can we make our Sunday school teaching effective? It aims more at moral training than intellectual training." Love of work, love of the child, and love of Christ were the requisites of a good teacher.

He urged that a teacher not only prepare the lesson from week to week, but learn the whole scope of the work for the year, in order that a broader view of the work might be obtained.

A reference library is very necessary in a Sunday school, he stated, and added that a good dictionary and handbook on the life of Christ should be on its shelves.

Child Study Difficult.
Dealing with the child material was a very hard matter. The child was neither a little man nor in the romantic stage. The children were of an infinite variety. They had no idea of sequence of time or any other sequence, so that they could not be taught by following the work according to time. The lesson had to be approached from the standpoint of the children. There would be a lot of things in a lesson that the teacher would have to leave out, as the children could not grasp them all in a half hour.

He said that the teacher should inspire confidence in the child, by not making promises that he could not keep, and by setting a good example in deed and word.

He advised that the teacher co-operate with the home and enlist the support of the home in the teaching of the child.

An Unsolved Problem.
Speaking on "The Sunday School and Grown-up People," Lieut.-Col. Brown said that it was with a great deal of diffidence that he discussed the subject as the problem was an unsolved one.

Christ should be taught by one's works and life. The difficulty with the church was that the congregation depended on the clergyman for almost everything. "We think that because they are trained they can do it alone," he remarked.

"The church is simply an organization of Christians banded together to carry out Christ's work. 'The world was looking upon it today. A great many people have been coming to the church, but the church has lost its grip and was not able to solve the problem. Books could be found which say that the church is deteriorating. This, he said, was the wrong point of view.

The responsibility was placed on the shoulder of every Christian. "If we can place the proper emphasis on home life we can save civilization. Home life was destroyed by its home life. The earliest Christians had grappled with the problem. Marriage had been made sacred instead of just a contract.

Divorce Means Chaos.
At the rate divorces were being granted in the United States at present it had been figured out that by 1950 every couple in the United States would have a divorce. "That simply means chaos," he declared.

The Sunday school was said to be part of the church. The Sunday school today was the church of tomorrow, and it needed the best of attention. Too much assistance could not be given it.

He bore out the assertion of the former speaker that the co-operation of the home was necessary. The colonel stated that the problem was going to be tackled in this city. Hand-picked bodies of men and women from each church to study the problem were necessary. He suggested that a census of the people of a parish be taken and the extent of their education be ascertained so that it might be known what class of people were being dealt with.

Secure Suitable Teachers.
P. D. Mitchell, B. A., who was in the chair, said that as long as suitable teachers could be secured, the attendance would follow. He was of the opinion that a fee should be attached to the course for teachers to insure their attendance at every meeting during the time the course was being given.

Mr. Mitchell who was president of the Deane Sunday School Association for the past year was returned to office
