Connolly Committed. Milton Connolly was committed last Friday, at Kentville, for trial at the June term of the Supreme court to answer to a charge of having murdered Oliver Fuller, at Avonport. The evidence hangs on footprints found in the snow when the murder was discovered. Some of these between Connolly's home and Fuller's house have been sworn to as Connolly's. If other prints at the Fuller house are proved to be identical then it looks bad for the prisoner. He was not seen to pass the fatal house, while meny saw him to there on the day of the murder. The motive for the murder may have been a wordy quarrel. Thirteen pounds have been a wordy quarrel. Thirteen pou of butter were missing from the murdered man's house, and it may have been that Fuller on discovering his loss accused some one of taking it, who in passion or through fear used the bloody axe. While Connolly awaits trial a sharp look out will be maintained for evidence of guilt in other quarters. Before being sent up he pleaded "not guilty."
