

THE STORY

Of the MASSEY-HARRIS CULTIVATOR and how it grew into popular favor in all lands and in all climes

Reads Like a Novel.

First of all it won the admiration of Canada's best agriculturists, and soon the farmers of old England claimed it as a new-found friend, while the Australian and New Zealander put it to several unexpected uses. To-day men of many languages ride this wonderful Cultivating Machine over their fields, and it may be truly said that the sun never sets on the lands stirred up to its warming and life-giving influences ready for seeding by this king of Cultivators.

HOW IT LOOKS AT WORK IN THE FIELD.
