The Teacher's Anatomical Aid

This is a valuable collection of engraved plates and manikins, illustrating human anatomy and physiology, and showing the effects of alcoholic drinks and narcotics on the system. There are also plates showing the evil effects of cigarette smoking, painted from original subjects at post-mortem examinations.

Advantages of The Teacher's Anatomical Aid—It is larger than other anatomical works. Its workmanship is in every way superior. The charts and manikins are enclosed and protected in an elegant wood panel cabinet, that is an ornament to any schoolroom. When enclosed everything is thoroughly protected, and with ordinary care it can be used profitably in any schoolroom for at least ten years. It contains ten large plates, 25 x 42 inches in size. Besides these plates, there are complete manikins of the human body, the head, the eye, the tooth, the lungs and heart, and the larynx. Write for circular and prices on this "Aid."
