

CLIPPINGS.

An American paper says:—Several more shiploads of Mormon victims have recently been landed on our shores from Great Britain and Scandinavia. A contemporary asks, very pertinently: Inasmuch as it is very well known that these wretches come here with the intention of violating the laws of the country by practising polygamy, why are they allowed to land? If we can stop Asiatics and European paupers, why can we not stop these Mormon proselytes, who are rapidly filling up not only Utah, but Idaho and Nevada, and are even extending down into Arizona and New Mexico.

The Sultan, it is said, has given permission to a Syrian Syndicate to build a railroad from Acre, on the Mediterranean, to the banks of the Jordan, south of the Sea of Galilee, and then to Damascus. This however is not all. An English company has actually been organized for the purpose of cutting a canal from Acre to the Jordan, of cutting another canal from the Dead Sea to the Gulf of Akabah, on the Red Sea; of flooding the Lower Jordan, and by these means of making a new waterway between the East and the West.

The Marquis of Lansdowne, who has been selected to succeed the Marquis of Lorne, as governor-general of Canada—a much-coveted post—is a scion of a noble house and honorable lineage. The grandfather of the present marquis was a "Rupert of debate" in the house of lords thirty years ago, and had a somewhat singular method of preparing himself for a great speech. It was his custom, on the afternoon of an impending debate in the house, to walk around the garden in the rear of Lansdowne house in Piccadilly, muttering to himself, cane in hand, and to switch off tops of flowers or whatever had an upright stalk, as if chastising imaginary enemies. The faithful old gardener felt so chagrined that he would retire to hide his vexation, knowing the danger of disturbing his master in a reverie of excited thoughts. The present marquis, when a child, was so scrupulously tended by a doting young mother that neither cream nor butter was allowed to pass the infant's lips lest it should spoil a delicate complexion. The natural result was a debility and sickly paleness which warranted invoking the advice of the queen's physician, Sir Benjamin Brodie. This eminent Esculapius immediately created a revolution in the nursery by prescribing rich cream and fresh butter ad libitum. The nurse was instructed to allow the little fellow to steep his chubby fists and arms, to the elbows, if the nascent lord should feel so disposed, so that grease might enter the system at every pore. The sequel showed a healthy, bouncing lordling. His father, Lord Shelburne, was the eldest son of the former marquis, and the present marquis' title as the eldest son of Lord Shelburne was Lord Clanmorris, so that the dignified title he now wears is his second name.
