

A KENTUCKY PLANTER SELLING HIS DAUGHTER.—The Bayou (Ohio) Journal relates an affecting and highly romantic incident which recently transpired in Kentucky. It is as follows:—“Near Louisville, Ky., lives a planter of wealth and standing. He was the possessor of a hundred negroes, and he was not a man of a thrifty, money-making disposition. He had never been married, and was an incorrigible bachelor of fifty. His house was managed by a young lady of about twenty, his daughter by a quadroon, whose complexion was lighter by half than his in whom the negro blood was more prominent. The mother died ten years ago, leaving her daughter with its father's solemn promise that she should be educated, and should live as a free woman rather than as a slave, and that she should pass as his daughter, as she was. The planter gave this promise, because he had been really attached to the dying woman, and was greatly attached to his beautiful child. And so she grew up, radiantly beautiful, receiving a reasonable education, all that her father could give, and in time took the management of his household. She never knew that there was any negro blood in her veins, and never dreamed that she was a slave. Last fall a series of misfortunes overtook the planter. His house burned down and in it the notes, books and papers that composed a large portion of his fortune. His crops failed to a great degree, and some heavy speculations in which he was engaged resulted disastrously. Added to all this he had lost heavily at play, the besetting sin of Southern gentlemen, and had completely exhausted all his ready means, and found himself in a terrible situation of having more money to pay than he could possibly raise in a given time. He applied to his attorney for counsel in his extremity. The attorney after examining the situation of his affairs, advised him to sell off a portion of his negroes. A list was made out, and every head that could be possible spared was put down. After all was done, and the most favorable prices for them, the aggregate fell five thousand dollars short of the sum. The attorney remarked quietly that he had not included all that could be spared. ‘I have put down all I can dispendo with,’ replied the planter. ‘I do not see Mary the housekeeper's name in the list,’ replied the lawyer. ‘She, if offered to the right person, would make up the deficiency. I would give that for her myself.’ At any other time the planter would have taken the suggestion as an insult, but necessity is a hard master, and he grasped at the idea, and before an hour the transaction was closed. It troubled him not a little to disclose the matter to her, but the fear of bankruptcy and ruin drove him to it. The poor girl's horror and distress may be imagined. She had known nothing but happiness, and now was to be plunged into the deepest and most hopeless misery. She had been sold, and was then the property, soul and body, of one who purchased her merely for the gratification of his lusts.—The idea was too horrible, and she swooned, remaining almost delirious for several days. There was another upon whom the intelligence came with crushing weight. A junior partner in a produce house in Louisville had frequently visited the planter's house on business, and struck with the beauty and intelligence of the supposed daughter, had become enamored, and after prosecuting his suit a proper time had declared his passion, and unknown to the father the two had betrothed themselves. As soon as possible after her father had told her her fate, she despatched a messenger to him, stating the facts, and imploring him to save her from the fate that awaited her. Though thunderstruck at the intelligence that his affianced bride was a slave, and had just been sold to a fate worse than death, like a true man he determined to rescue her. That night he saw her, and a plan was formed for flight. The day she was transferred to the possession of her purchaser they fled, and in due time arrived at Cincinnati, where they were married. The lawyer, as soon as he learned of the flight of the young woman, commenced active measures to recover her, but through the aid of watchful friends she and her husband foiled their pursuers, and in a short time reached Canada and settled in Toronto where they are now residing.”

CLERICAL TRANSGRESSORS.—Rev. Dr. Christie, aged 75 years—a minister of the Reformed Covenanters' Church in New York—was deposed from the Ministry a few years ago, for having committed adultery with the widow of the Rev. Dr. Rooney. Christie's wife has for a long time been bed-ridden; and in one of his letters to Mrs. Rooney, used as evidence against him, he said that she was getting better, but it was not his fault. The United Brethren Society at Marion, Linn county, Iowa, have suspended Rev. Wm. D. Tilbury from the ministerial office for gross misconduct, such as theft of $5 from one of his parishioners—buying lumber and refusing to pay for it—selling two or three dollars worth of stockings and mittens, the manufacture of a poor widow woman, and defrauding her out of the money, &c. The Second Associate Reformed Presbytery of Illinois a few days ago deposed from the ministry the Rev. Sam. Glover, Pastor of the United Presbyterian Church of Peoria. He was found guilty of a breach of the seventh commandment, and of other crimes.

NOVEL GROUNDS FOR DIVORCE.—A woman in Cincinnati recently made an application for divorce on the ground that her husband was a confounded fool. The magistrate informed her that if that were to be a valid reason in law, half the married women in Poreopolis would be legally entitled to a matrimonial separation. The woman appeared comforted by this assurance—wretchedness is always alleviated by numbers—and departed in an improved frame of mind, and with a touch of consolation.

A NEW NEGRO LAW IN NORTH CAROLINA.—Two bills are before the Legislature of North Carolina, now in session, which taken together, give to the free colored people resident therein, the choice of removing out of the State within two years, of choosing an owner for themselves, or of being sold at public auction for the benefit of common schools.

The Herald has another explanation of the new Bible cry. It supposes the three hungry lawyers have got hold of the assets of some bankrupt Bible dealer, and wish to create a market for the article. We commend them to read Mrs. Viole's ‘Following the Drum,’ where they will find that Bibles are sadly wanted in some parts of Texas. The N. Y. Herald says:—“The education of youth is placed in the hands of men who ought to take the place of the pupils in the primary schools—of men who do very well as dealers out of provisions, liquors, or as bullies in ward meetings, or pimps and touters for gambling houses, but who are, to use a mild expression, somewhat out of their element when they attempt to direct the most ordinary educational institution. In order to hide the weakness of the System, we have a grand outcry about the Bible in the schools, when the truth is that the schools are already overburdened with books of all sorts, which are not of the smallest possible value to the scholar, who is supposed to acquire the rudiments of an English education.—These text books are introduced to favor some publisher, who divides the profits of the job with the school officers, and it is very probable now that some shrewd bootlegger has a lot of Bibles on hand, on which he desires to realize at the city's expense. People who are so good natured as to believe that they are voting upon a question of morals and religion, are simply throwing some thousands of dollars into the hands of corrupt political hacks and their needy accomplices.”

According to the Chicago Journal, a dishonest servant girl, who was in the habit of sporting immense hoops, was discharged by her employer, and soon missing articles, despatched an officer after the girl, who was arrested, and a woman was employed to search her, with the following result:—“A bag of buckwheat, a quantity of flour, a small can of milk, several pounds of sugar, a package of tea and a jar of molasses, actually pinned to her petticoats and hanging upon her corsetline. A further search brought to the light a large quantity of cakes concealed in her bosom.”

A MAN FOR ANY PLACE.—A Western paper has an advertisement thus worded:—“Wants a situation—a practical printer, who is competent to take charge of any department in a printing and publishing house. Would accept a professorship in any of the academies. Has no objection to teach ornamental painting and penmanship, geometry, trigonometry and many other sciences. Is particularly suited to a small evangelical church, or as a local preacher. He would have no objection to form a small but select class of interesting young ladies to instruct in the higher branches. To a dentist or chiropodist he would be invaluable, as he can do almost anything. Would board with a family, if decidedly pious.”

MR. SPURGEON ON GOTHIC ARCHITECTURE.—At a tea meeting held last week, the Rev. Mr. Spurgeon said:—“He could not help remembering that God has honored those present to be the first who assembled in great multitudes in Exeter-hall. When he first heard of a clergyman of the Church of England preaching in Exeter-hall, his soul leaped within him while he said, ‘Lord now let Thy servant depart in peace.’ They were going to build a large tabernacle, and he was sure they would have great success.—(Cheers.) They had done a great deal—(hear, hear)—but they ought to have done a great deal more.—(Laughter and cheers.) Some ought not to have done so much, but others had spared themselves keeping back what was the Lord's, who made them the stewards of their wealth. They had not done badly in collecting £9,000, and buying a piece of land at Newington. In regard to Gothic designs for churches, he could not make himself heard in them, and could easily see that the Devil invented it.”

The Record's confession as to Protestant Bishops:—“A dignitary of the Church, unblessed with children, or possessed, perhaps, of an only son, lives in quite elegance, entertaining, at some remote periods, his clergy and his wealthier neighbours, gives to the various accredited institutions of his neighbourhood, both secular and spiritual, in such proportions as that, while men can hardly commend him for his munificence, they are entirely precluded from accusing him of parsimony; and at length laden with years goes down to his grave. His effects are sworn £80,000 or £100,000, a property the result of the frugality and wise management of twenty or five-and-twenty years, and now equivalent to the revenues of peer, or the dowry of a princess.”

NOW IS THE TIME.—‘Not yet,’ said a little boy, as he was busy with his trap and ball; ‘when I grow older I will think about my soul.’ The little boy grew to be a young man. ‘Not yet,’ said the young man—‘I am about to enter into trade; when I see my business prosper, then I shall have more time than now.’ Business did prosper. ‘Not yet,’ said the man of business; ‘my children must have my care; when they are settled in life, I shall be better able to attend to religion.’ He lived to be a gray-headed old man. ‘Not yet still he cried; ‘I shall soon retire from trade, and then I shall have nothing else to do but read and pray.’ And so he died; he put off till another time what should have been done when a child. He lived without God and died without hope.

A LONG COURTSHIP.—A young lady said to her beau, after fifteen years' courtship, ‘Charles I am going out of town to-morrow.’ ‘Where?’ ‘I don't know.’ ‘When are you coming back?’ ‘Never.’ ‘What are you going for?’ ‘I am going to look for something which you have not, never had, and yet can give me without loss to yourself.’ ‘You are very welcome to it, I am sure, but what is it?’ ‘A husband!’ ‘Why you might have had that fifteen years ago, if you had only said the word; but I was afraid to ask you the question.’

A notice of a new novel says, ‘The style is so brilliant that the printer, with the copy before him, can set up the type without any other light, in the darkest night.’

P. K. CINCINNATI, Ohio, July 4, 1857.
Gents:—Having used, and witnessed the beneficial effects of Ferry Davis' Pain Killer, I take great pleasure in recommending it to the public as the very best family medicine with which I am acquainted. In this establishment are employed 100 persons, and your Pain Killer has been used with the most astonishing results. For FOUR YEARS not a single severe case of cholera, summer complaint, or dysentery, but has yielded like magic to the curative powers of the ‘Killer’; and for cuts, bruises, &c., it is in almost daily use, and with like good effects. WISTAR'S BALSAM IN VERMONT.
Inasburgh, Vt. May 5.
Mr. S. W. Fowle Dear Sir: I am nearly out of the Balsam of Wild Cherry. You may forward, if you please, two or three dozen more. The medicine gives better satisfaction here in pulmonary complaints than any others that I have kept. I have tried it with perfect satisfaction upon myself, having been troubled with a severe cough for more than a year, and having profuse night sweats for the last month. I had tried various popular remedies without material benefit; at length I tried Wistar's Balsam of Wild Cherry, and before I had finished the first bottle I found great relief. Two bottles have wrought a cure.
Yours, respectfully,
HUBERT HASTINGS.

BURNETT'S COCAINE.
TESTIMONIAL.
Boston, July 19, 1857.
Messrs. J. BURNETT & Co.—I cannot refuse to state the salutary effect in my own aggravated case, of your excellent Hair Oil—(Cocaine).
For many months my hair had been falling off, until I was fearful of losing it entirely. The skin upon my head became gradually more and more inflamed, so that I could not touch it without pain. This irritated condition I attributed to the use of various advertised hair washes, which I have since been told contained camphene spirit.
By the advice of my physician, to whom you had shown your process of purifying the Oil, I commenced its use the last week in June. The first application allayed the itching and irritation; in three or four days the redness and tenderness disappeared—the hair ceased to fall, and I have now a thick growth of new hair. I trust that others similarly afflicted will be induced to try the same remedy.
Yours very truly,
SUSAN R. POPE.
