

THE ensuing story does not pretend to be a volume of reference for the student of European History, or a biographical record of the actual sayings and doings of women noble and ignoble, and men eminent or infamous; but is to be read merely as a work of fiction, founded upon the rock of indisputable fact.