THE TORONTO LAWS.

Pray Sir, remember when in adversity,
To keep your temper,—so, if you're fortunate,
Be not insultingly triumphant,
Presently you'll have to knuckle under,
Hor. Carn. II. 3.

* * Strange was the sight to me;
For all the LEVEL pasture murmured, sown
With happy faces and with holiday.

* * * * *
He swore he longed at college, only longed,
All else was well, for she society.
They hoated, and they cricketed—they talked
At wine, in clubs, of arts, of politics;
But missed the mignonette of Vivian-placo!

THE PRINCESS.
