Band, detachment of Dragoons and mounted police. Prolonged Cheering. All down the street countless thou-sands burst into vigorous and pro-longed cheering as rank upon rank, with fixed bayonets, and each foot swinging in faultless step, the boys started on their way down Yonge street. As the last division of the parade passed the bystanders closed in, and cheering, shouting and welcoming they followed the parade along the route of march, which was as follows: South from the North Toronto Sta-tion on Yonge street to Bloor street, east on Bloor to Jarvis, where they passed the first saluting base oppo-site St. Paul's Church. Here the salute was taken by Brigadier-General J. A. Gunn, C.M.G., D.S.O., accompanied by Mayor Church, mem-bers of the board of control. city council and board of education. Thence the parade continued down Jarvis street, to Wellesley, west on Welles-

to the stadium entrance. The route was lined with militia units and school cadet companies as a guard of honor to the returning men. School children were also given prominent places along the streets and strongly contributed to the cheering and songs which were heard on the parade. "Welcome Home, Canadian Heroes, God Bless You." These words on a bammer at the Salvation Army Hostel, 916 Yonge street, ekact.y expressed the spirit of the city. Varied decora-tions and banners were in place along the route of march and all the stores, and residences displayed a strong armay of large flags and outstanding feature was the large number of banners thrown across the street at various intervals. The bands blew tremendously to equal the occasion, and cheer upon cheer burst from the citizens lining the streets as they shouted welcome to the boys who have helped to break the power of the Hun. and immortal-ize the brave deels that adorn the colors of these glorious battalions. After passing the saluting base stationed at Queen's Park, the old song, "The Gang's All Here," was rousingly sung by a number of boys, the officers joining in, and various remarks such as. "Do we want our beer?" "Yes," and "De we love the W. C. T. U.?" "No." were heard; much to the disgust of a number of ladies, who openly expressed their dissatisfaction. The parade commenced at North Toronto at about 6.45 p.m., and pass-ed in the gates of the stadium at 8 o'clock.

Earlscourt School cadets paraded at noon yesterday and marched to North foronto Station to welcome home the 3rd and 4th Battalions from the front. The boys looked well in their scarle A large number of flag be to the homecoming of the soldiers. Earlscourt veterans made up a party to meet their comrades nany of whose homes are in the Earlscourt district. A good many of the stores were closed, it being the regular Wednesday half-holiday.
