At the Toronto Next Week. "The Sidewalks of New York" will be put on at the Toronto Opera House Monday, for the week. Those who love ultra-sensationalism will doubtless find this piece to their taste. This is the first play on the stage which intro-duces scenes from Upper Broadway. There is one particular set, represent-ing Herald-square and The New York Herald building illuminated, which has received unstituted praise from the New York press. The most sensational part of the play is a tremendous plunge

Did you ever watch the gay whirlpool of humanity that surges about the rounded corner at Yonge and Queen-streets? The point is of interest as the ng gorge of Toronto's retail trade. See anything like it anywhere else? Ever see a clearer illustration of the mighty attraction of selling at low prices. It's the seething competition in selling here, which assures you better buying opportunities than you are offered anywhere else. Stocks are always greater here-and they go quicker. And the styles are always newer here because they are never given the chance to grow stale. Jamieson's is in the very front of this fibre rivalry for your trade-and
