ONE MAN SAVED HUNDREDS TOOK KINGS OFF A DOOR

Carried a Number of Small Tools in Pockets and Used Them to Good Effect.

Chicago, Dec. 31.—One of the heroes of the Iroquois fire was Peter Quinn, chief saving agent of the Acheson, Toppick and Santa Fe Railroad, who assisted in saving the lives of 100 or more of the performers from a fate as horrible as the other victims. Wedged so tightly in a crowd at the door of the stage entrance that they could not move were men, women and children, and the company of performers were standing helpless and with agonized looks on their faces.

The massive stage door of the Iroquois, said Mr. Quinn today, was like a door of iron. The two men who were swinging doors as used when scenes were taken to or from the theatre, and built in the swinging structure itself as a small trap door used by the players in leaving or entering a stage. This trap door opened inward. As I passed I heard a commotion and saw the door was slightly open and near the side I saw a woman and a man and a child, who were struggling to get out. I saw the woman and child were in a state of panic and I saw the man was in a state of panic.

The women screamed and begged to be rescued and the cries of the children could be heard above the hoarse shouts of the men. We tried to force the door open, but the crowd was backed up so tightly against it, I had a number of small tools in my pockets and removed the metal attachments which held the door in place. Then we forced the crowd back in. The door dropped from its place and the imprisoned players were assisted into the alley. I walked in upon the stage and found a smoking furnace. A minute later the flames and smoke would have reached the imperilled ones, and they would have been suffocated or burned where they stood. Employees of the Iroquois Theatre place the terrible loss of life to the jamming of the asbestos. Had it worked properly the fire would have been on the stage floor. At every entrance of the show the asbestos curtain has been raised and lowered, according to the employees. It was so arranged that should one of the cables holding it break the curtain would descend by its own weight. It was suspended by four steel cables.

Residents Inconvenienced.
The injunction secured by the C.P.R. against the Toronto Railway Company to prevent the running of street cars across the tracks of the steam road on Avenue-road has not been dissolved and will not be argued until January 8th. The residents of upper Avenue-road are complaining of the loss of the service, which they had enjoyed for a few hours, but the company is not believed to be anxious to continue it, as the cars running along Dupont-street carry all the traffic that is offered from the district affected.

Fargo Squares Shoots Himself.
Havana, Dec. 23.—Fargo Squares, oldest son of the United States Minister to Cuba, accidentally shot and killed himself today. He was practicing shooting with a revolver, and as the weapon failed to act properly young Squares began to examine it, when it went off. The muzzle was pointed at his left side. The bullet passed thru his heart and he soon expired.
