DAILY BIBLE QUESTION CLUB

Suggestive Questions on the Uniform Lesson for Sunday, June 9, 1918.
ONE BIBLE TEXT SUGGESTION.
By Rev. T. S. Linscott, D.D.
Jesus Faces Betrayal and Denial.
Mark, xiv, 10-12.

4 Verses 11, 12—What were the momentous things which then happened in that room? (See Matt. xxvi, 17-25; Luke xxi, 14-23; John xii, 1-20).
4 What proof is there, if any, that Jesus knew from the beginning that Judas would betray him?

4 Verses 13, 14—Why should any person, who really loves God, fear that he will ever commit a mortal sin?
4 Verse 15—What evidence is there that Jesus knew that he had betrayed Jesus?

Golden Text—Watch and pray, that ye enter not into temptation. Matt. xxvi, 28.
Strong Men Often Have Weak Points.

When Peter boasted to Jesus that though all men would forsake him he would not, he thought, in his inexperience, that he was strong enough to resist any temptation which would cause him to forsake so good a Master. But alas! Peter neither knew himself nor little dreamed of the evil power which was to be launched against him in the dramatic remark of an attractive young woman. He felt before her taunt, like grain before the sickle. Peter was a strong man, and yet he was overcome, and in his embarrassment and confusion denied his Master. There are few strong men who have not some weak spot in their armor, and therefore behave all of us to walk close up to Jesus and watch and pray lest we enter into temptation.

Hard Soap Recipe.—May I trouble you for the stocking-foot pattern? Also for instructions for knitting soldiers' socks? This is my first letter to the Mail-Box, and, you see, I came asking for help. I will send a hard-soap recipe, which I know is good and may be a help to some one who is scarce of grease.

AUGUSTA.
Hard Soap—1½ pounds of sal. soda, 1½ ounces of borax, ½ ounce of sulphate of soda, 8½ pounds of good yellow bar soap. Dissolve the sulphate of soda and borax in 4½ gallons of hot soft water till not a drop remains. Melt into the above solution the soap. Keep stirring, so as to mix well. When it is melted remove from fire and let stand an hour, then pour in pails or pans to harden. For perfume, add one ounce of oil of sandalwood before cooling.
Ans.—Failed to find envelope for sending of pattern.
Thanks for recipe.

An exceedingly jolly picnic was held at Springbank on Saturday afternoon by the members of Lower V. London Collegiate Institute. Miss McPherson and Miss Kelsie were chaperones.

Mr. and Mrs. William McPhillips and small daughter Marjorie left yesterday for New York.

Mr. and Mrs. C. Duncan McNeill of North Carleton announce the engagement of their only daughter, Margaret Ann, to Wilbert H. McNeill. The marriage will take place this morning.

Four names have been suggested for the presidency of the National Council of Women. They are: Mrs. W. E. Sandford of Hamilton, Mrs. Jamieson of Calgary, Mrs. Pimble of Regina, and Mrs. Hamilton. All have figured before the public in connection with different matters. Mrs. Pimble refused last year to hold office for another term.

Mr. Charles M. Carmichael has returned from visiting Mrs. A. O. Gray, Iowa.

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized at the Y. W. C. A. residence, Wellington street, on Monday, when Miss Melinda Moore was united in marriage to Mr. George Parker Clark of New Hamburg. Rev. Dr. Peever of the First Methodist Church officiated. The bride was attended by a sister of hers, and her friends before her marriage. A short wedding trip the bride and groom will reside in New Hamburg.

Do you know who the new neighbors are? Well, you guessed right again; they were Mr. and Mrs. B. Ballington Bat, 2nd. You see, they were a very old and aristocratic family. Mr. B. Bat was a very old and aristocratic family. Mr. B. Bat was a very old and aristocratic family.

It was a rich family, and their olive-brown fur coats were of the most costly and of silk fabric. Their clothing was much finer and more silky than the clothing of Jimmy Coon's family. But while the new neighbors were rich, they were actually queer, like some rich people you and I know. Why, they were the queerest people in the Great Forest!

Mr. B. Ballington Bat, 2nd, parted his hair in the middle, and he also parted his name in the middle too; and he would speak to people unless they called him Mr. B. Ballington Bat, 2nd. So of course they couldn't call him that. One whole week he wouldn't speak to Jimmy Coon because Jimmy said one day: "Good morning, Mr. B. B. Bat!"

But Mr. B. Ballington Bat, 2nd, belonged to such an old family that he was a little bit of a snob. He didn't associate much with the other neighbors. I suppose that one reason for this was that the new family slept about twenty hours out of the twenty-four. Being a very old family, they felt they must act queer, so they stayed at home and slept most of the time.

McArthur, assistant secretary-treasurer, Misses G. Bay and E. Anderson. Following the election of officers the annual report was given, as follows: The total receipts for the year amounted to $1,621.83, from which the following was paid out: $22 to Byron Sanatorium, $16 to Blind Soldiers' Aid, for Belgian relief $10, to Canning Centre $5, to Capt. Plummer $2.22 for postage, express, etc. $1,317.74 was paid out for Red Cross supplies, leaving a balance on hand of $304.09. The institute spent out 1,653 pairs of socks during the year (this does not include personal gifts of socks, 86 day shirts, 2 sweaters, 149 suits of pyjamas, 28 mattress covers, 2 webs of chamois cloth, 1 web of gauze, 11 scarfs, 4 pillows, 12 personal property bags, and large quantity of bandages, old linen blankets, etc., as well as 22 magazines, "news from home" and papers were sent to the hospitals and trenches. In the fall the ladies gathered 100 chickens, which were sold at the rate of 10¢ each to the Canning Centre. At present they have on hand in material for their work, 18 spindles of yarn, 1 web of duck, 1 web of flannel, 1 double web of cotton, 31 khaki shirts, 3 dozen suits pyjamas, as well as a quantity of household goods.

Don't need any of the Government men to tell me how.

I never bought flour in quantities but two or three times in my life, but it is a mistake not to do it, and I never had more than 100 pounds of sugar at once in my life, and I never had more than a bowl of granulated sugar in the house, so I guess I am not hoarding for my appearance, as they are already hoarding for the Government to carry away if they don't let us have sugar for the fruit we will have to let it waste, that's all. But I make this claim that man who hoards more than 100 pounds of sugar is a hoarder, and the Government has a right to take it out of him. I don't think I'll waste much of it, but I'll keep it in a safe place, and I'll let the Government take it if they want it. I'll let the Government take it if they want it.

For Moldy Syrup.

Dear Miss Grey,—May I trouble you to ask you if you or your sister of the Mail-Box can please tell me how to treat maple syrup to rid it of a moldy flavor? I have heated it and added soda, also milk, but have not the desired result. I am respectfully yours,

Finds Farming Hard.

Dear Miss Grey,—I have never written before to your Mail-Box, but so many are giving their opinion of the opinion of the farmers' sons who last fall were given a full exemption. In the first place, I was raised on a farm, but had nothing to do with any of the hard work and worry that it entails, but I am a farmer's son, and I have been raised upon the farm and know everything connected with it, and replace them with young men from the city who have had no experience whatever. The Government has said that it will take over the management of all farms where the only son has been taken, and fill their places with young men who know nothing whatever about a farm. In the first place, those young men have no muscle, and if ever there was a place where muscle, good health, and above all, experience, were needed it was on the farm. That I know from my own experience. Why, there is a knack in even handling a fork. I should dearly love to see one of those young men beside a farmer's son when it is about 90 degrees in the shade, out in the hay field feeding hay. Now, which do you think would do the most work and the faster, and that is very important, as you must make hay while the sun shines? I have an only brother at home who last fall was given a full exemption, but last week received notice to report for service. He is the only one with the exception of my father, who is disabled as far as hard work is concerned, on a hundred and twenty-five acres of land. Last fall, when he received his full exemption, he made plans for bigger crops, which this spring he has grown and unless in some way unknown to us as yet, he gets exempted, all this is left for a man nearly 70, broken down in health, to harvest. I do not say but that there are farms where there is more than one son, and I say they should all go

Flour in War-Time.

Miss Cynthia Grey was just reading "Janie's" letter. So you thought I was ill? Oh, no; quite well, thank you. But I see a lot of sick people around me. Nobody is kicking, eh? You must live in a different atmosphere than I do. There is an awful noise among the Union voters. I don't know whether your father is kicking, or what you call it. So I am sorry, and you and papa are going to take over the crop. You are good stuff, full of life. You must be among the faithful few. So you admit you were mad at election time. There are lots of mad people today, too.

CUTWORMS.

Early though the season is, the insect world is already "on the job." Cutworms destroy thousands of dollars worth of crops every year. Gardeners must aid in the campaign to save the crops by destroying these pests. Watch for their appearance, as they are already at work. They cut through the stems of the young beans and tomato plants at night. Being a very old family, they felt they must act queer, so they stayed at home and slept most of the time. So of course they couldn't call him that. One whole week he wouldn't speak to Jimmy Coon because Jimmy said one day: "Good morning, Mr. B. B. Bat!"

The New Home Treatment For Ugly, Hairy Growths

(Boudoir Secrets.)
Here is a simple, yet very effective method for removing hair and fuzz from the face, neck and arms. Cover the objectionable hairs with a paste made by mixing some water with a little powdered delatone. Leave this on for 3 or 4 minutes, then rub off, wash the skin and the hairs have vanished. No pain or inconvenience attends this treatment, but results will be certain if you are sure to get real delatone.—Advt.
