

CONSULTATION WITH KITTY

By Paul Crewick. "Then it is almost a romance?" inquired Kitty, with one of her little shrugs. "What is the lady's name?" she continued, artlessly. "M or N," I told her. "That means I'm not to ask questions?" "I want your opinion without going into names. They don't actually matter, do they? You see, it is a delicate situation."

bringing my chair inches nearer in my excitement. "You don't see? You must see; if you're the dear good sensible creature I have always imagined you. If I'm but man, don't fail and abuse." "A glimmer of light comes to me. Evidently you do not like the lady, notwithstanding your client's endeavors in that direction. Well, before I can offer any suggestions, I must have a more complete notion of the lady's appearance and manner. Please take a full breath, think hard, put your chair back into its place—Loftus may be coming in at any moment—and describe."

New York, Aug. 19.—Lewis Morrison, an actor, whose work as Mephisto in Faust gained him fame, died suddenly of shock on Saturday afternoon in St. John's Hospital, Yonkers, after undergoing an operation for stomach trouble. Mr. Morrison was 61 years of age. He was born of English parentage in Kingston, Jamaica, in 1845. He came to this country at an early age and enlisted on the Union side in the civil war. He rose to the rank of lieutenant and on his honorable discharge at the close of the war he received the rank of captain for distinguished service. During the siege of Vicksburg he swam the Mississippi under fire of the batteries with dispatches for the Federal army. After his discharge from the army Mr. Morrison entered the theatrical profession as an actor in the old Varieties Theatre, New Orleans, making his first appearance with Lawrence Barrett in 1865. He was afterwards associated with Edwin Booth, Edward Forrest, Thomas O. Salvini, Adelaide Neilson, Charlotte Cushman, Januscheck, Rose Coghlan and Agnes Booth. He was also associated for nine years as leading man with the old Walnut Street Stock Company in Philadelphia.
