THE TALE OF THE TAIL OF A HORSE

This is the tale of a horse—yes, it is more than that—it is the tale of the tail of a horse; and the horse in the story is that faithful animal which has been doing a great public service. In short, he is the horse that draws the sweeper by which the paved streets of the city are kept free from dirt.

Through the early spring he had been wont to meander along on his purifying job, his long, luxuriant tail swinging in happy rhythm with the grinding of the cogs that turned the brush behind him. This morning, however, one of the winged pests which appear to usher in the warm weather, alighted on his well-groomed back and started to investigate what was under his coat. The oscillation of the tail stopped and it stiffened into preparedness. Swish! He made one mighty sweep with his rear appendage. But the result was electrifying. There was a grinding sound and a moment later the horse was almost prone upon the ground. His long, abundant tail had become tangled in the gears of the sweeper, which threatened to pull it out by the roots. He was compelled to stop and back up until the tangle was undone. And then it was found that the thing of beauty resembled a delicate plant after the passing of a bleak frost. Gone was his proud decoration and as he plodded along on his weary round he occasionally glanced around and cursed the luck which ever decreed that he should be hooked up with such an instrument of degradation.

OFFICIAL RETURN OF THE ELECTION

Only Slight Change from Results Issued Last Night—Report for Wednesday's Meeting.

The official check of the results in yesterday's civic election was made by H. E. Wardrop, common clerk, this morning at city hall. The results were the same as published elsewhere in this issue, except in the total of R. W. Wigmore, which should read 3,523 instead of 3,528. The error was made in the total of Queens ward where the total should have been 883 instead of 388. A report of the ballot will be made by the common clerk to a meeting of the common council which is scheduled to take place Wednesday afternoon at 8 o'clock. The following were the official totals as announced by Mr. Wardrop this morning:

For Mayor:
H. E. Wardrop ..... 3,781
R. McCallan ..... 2,991
E. A. Schofield ..... 2,281
Edw. Sears ..... 321
For Commissioners:
R. W. Wigmore ..... 3,523
T. H. Bullock ..... 2,591
Alex. Corbet ..... 2,026
E. J. Hilyard ..... 1,720
J. B. Jones ..... 1,787
In the Streets:
Practically the sole topic of conversation in the streets this morning was yesterday's civic election and while a great many people expressed surprise at the totals rolled up by some of the candidates there were the usual choruses of "he told you so." There was much conjecture as to the bearing of yesterday's vote on the final results. Perhaps one of the outstanding features of the election yesterday was the number of spoiled ballots which were reported. While the total could not be ascertained it was said to be much greater than it should have been. The chief cause of disqualification was the marking with "x" opposite the names of those for whom the voter desired to vote. An improvement in this regard is looked for in the final election on April 24.

ANOTHER CASE OF AFTER HOURS

Max Lampert, this morning in the police court, pleaded not guilty to keeping his second-hand store open after ten o'clock on Saturday night. G. Earle Logan appeared for the defence. Policemen Coughlan and Dykeman told of passing the store after ten o'clock on that night and hearing the latch on the door click. They entered, and found eight men, one of whom was examining a mandolin and two others buying cotton hooks. They said that Mr. Logan was in charge of the store and opened the door for them when they demanded admission.

Isaac Williams said that he saw the lights in Lampert's store on Saturday after ten o'clock and saw some men come out of there later. In answer to some questions from Mr. Logan, he admitted that he disliked Lampert and that he had volunteered to give evidence against him. He did not just appear out of spite, he said, but because he had been fined recently for a similar offence and thought that Lampert should also be fined.

Frank Irvine testified that he had been in the store until 10.10 o'clock. He did not know at what time the door had been closed.

Maurice Fine testified that he was in charge of the store on the night in question and locked the door some time around ten o'clock. There were two men looking at hooks at about ten o'clock, and after ten o'clock the hooks were sold to them.

This finished the case, and the magistrate imposed a fine of $40, but allowed it to stand.
