MORNING NEWS OVER THE WIRES

Grand Trunk railwaymen to the number of about 3,000 have declined to accept a cut in wages. The cut is from two to five cents an hour and went into effect at midnight Wednesday night.

Premier King has expressed the opinion that employees of the C. N. R. should be as free to participate in politics as employees of the C. P. R. This developed in the course of an appeal on behalf of two men who had been dismissed from the C. N. R. under the Hanna "no politics" order. It remains to be seen what action the railway board will take.

It is reported that in order to facilitate the reorganization of the C. N. R. the railway board has resigned from D. B. Hanna down. It is not known whether the resignations were asked for or not. Dr. A. P. Barnhill, K. C., of this city is one of the directors.

A case against Arthur Ellis, official hangman of Canada, charging him with aggravated assault was withdrawn by the complainant, his wife in Montreal yesterday. An arrangement was made for her support and Ellis offered to give his wife half of what he made.

POKING HIM UP.
(Toronto Telegram.)
No rest is in prospect for Hon. Manning Doherty, minister of agriculture. He removes a British reflection on the health of Canada's cattle, and at once up pops a new reflection on Canada's cheese.

To save travelling expenses it may yet be necessary to establish Mr. Doherty in an office in London, where he can respond to these constant alarms like a fireman going to a fire.

DEFER ACTION ON VOCATIONAL REPORT

Those Going Into Industry Have Had Right to Training Along Lines of Life-work, Said Mr. Wilson—Another Session Next Week.

A meeting of the St. John vocational committee was held in the school trustees' office yesterday afternoon with Hon. H. A. McKinnon presiding. The report of the vocational educational survey of the city, made by F. S. Rutherford, was received but action on it deferred.

J. P. Hennessey agreed with a statement in the report that an up-to-date plant for training along industrial lines was needed.

Alexander Wilson advocated an effort being made to obtain a trade school where vocational training could be given. It should not be hard to raise the money, he said. Those going into industry had as much right to training along the lines of their lifework as those going into professions.

Dr. H. S. Bridges said that a suitable building for vocational needs would cost about $250,000, and the community would derive great benefit from the establishment of a vocational school. He did not consider it would be difficult to interest the public in the matter, and felt it would not be wise to try to get along without a building.

Mr. Peacock explained that one-fourth of the expenses of building, one-half of the expenses of equipment, and sixty per cent. of the salaries in connection with vocational training would be paid by the government, provided the buildings were erected before the close of 1923. One-half of this government grant would come from the province and one-half from the federal government. Already the province of New Brunswick had lost $25,000 of the federal grant because it had failed to push its programme of vocational training. The maximum of the federal grant for the year would be $50,000.

J. D. P. Lewin remarked that the government appropriation of only about $30,000 looked as if no extensive building programme would be financed.

Fletcher Peacock, director of vocational training, explained that the figure had been fixed at the probable expenditure. He told of the building of a school in Edmundston on a twenty-year bond issue. The government, he said, were committed by legislation and precedent to support any vocational training established in St. John.

Judge McKinnon said he thought there should be some way of working in the vocational instruction under the school system on account of the large expenditure necessary for Mr. Rutherford's plan. Mr. Peacock said he thought his honor's suggestion could not be carried out on account of the present crowding of schools. He said that the idea was not to take pupils away from the schools but to reach the number who now did not attend school. His honor said he felt it was a pity that school buildings which were now idle could not be used for some purpose. Dr. Bridges said there would be provision for manual training and domestic science in the new school but that an annex would be necessary for vocational training and this would have to be duplicated in all the schools.

Adjournment was made until next week for the members of the committee to become more familiar with the report.

TROUBLES AT BROWN'S FLATS

Trouble has developed in the vicinity of Brown's Flats, Oak Point and surrounding country over an unpleasant incident which is said to have occurred there recently. Rev. George Pincombe, pastor of the Baptist circuit is said to have been staying at the home of Deacon William Hamilton on the night of May 19, and as a result of some trouble involving the deacon's daughter-in-law, C. S. H. M. and A. Hamilton, it is alleged, prevented the minister from holding divine service on the following Sunday. Information was laid against the Hamiltons and the preliminary hearing was begun at Brown's Flats before Magistrate Gordon and Morrissey. G. H. V. Belyea, K. C. and Francis Kerr represented the defendants and Col. W. H. Harrison the complainant. The hearing will be continued and B. L. Gerow will represent the complainant. It is said that there is hope of an amicable settlement. The charge against the Hamiltons is that of preventing the carrying out of a religious service.

EAST ST. JOHN PROBLEMS.

To the Editor of The Times:

Sir,—Mr. J. A. Sheehan says in his letter of the 18th that I am a member of a committee that is negotiating with the commissioners regarding union with the city and East St. John. I am not a member of this committee, but I attended as part of a delegation with the committee when their proposals were laid before the city commissioners for consideration. The late mayor promised to take the matter up as soon as convenient. What does Mr. Sheehan expect this committee to do? Does he expect them to worry the commissioners with letters, and force them to lay aside the business of the city, which is of great importance at the present time. Mr. Sheehan's proposal that the city take in East St. John for five years free of taxation is a big joke to any business man. All the pulmotor work of Mr. Sheehan has accomplished very little. I pointed out in my first letter, individual grumbling is of no use, but co-operation of all the ratepayers is necessary to get the best results.

Yours very truly,
ALICK TAYLOR
East St. John

A very successful picnic was held by the Sunday school of the First Presbyterian church, west side, yesterday at Grand Bay, under the direction of J. S. Williamson, chairman of the trustee's board of the church. The prize list for the sports follows:—Excelsior—Burties

Fullerton and Miss Hawkins; Ladies' bean toss—Mrs. Brown and Mrs. Fitzpatrick; Men's bean toss—R. Turnbull; Ring toss—W. B. A very enjoyable band concert was given in King square last evening by the St. Mary's band, the members of which introduced a slight variety into the programme by singing some of the popular airs. The Carleton Corset band was scheduled to play last night, but as some of their players are away at camp, their place was taken by the St. Mary's band.
