LIFT OFF CORNS IT DOESN'T HURT

Try a package of Cream of Barley and if you are not satisfied after using one-half package according to directions return it to your grocer and get your money back.

Get rid of every corn and callus for few cents

Drop a little Frezzone on an aching toe, instantly that corn stops hurting, then you lift it right out. It doesn't hurt one bit. Yes, magic!

Why wait? Your grocer sells a tiny bottle of Frezzone for a few cents, sufficient to rid your feet of every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and calluses without soreness or irritation. Frezzone is the much talked of discovery of a Cincinnati genius.

Resolutions expressing indignation at the "peace of violence" which makes Germany's future "impossible" were adopted by the Majority Socialist party at its convention. The resolutions declare that the peace terms are not in conformity with the peace of violence.

International Socialists are called up by the party to protest against what is characterized as the "most unheard-of peace of modern history."

Of its home government, the party demands that it make a relentless investigation of all who were responsible for the outbreak and conduct of the war.

Berlin, June 12.—(By the Associated Press)—Letters exchanged between officials of the league for the protection of the peace, printed by the Socialist Workers. This sum, the newspaper remarks, is not a considerable one in view of the present state of valuations but it fears that the league must spend considerably more than this on its propaganda in view of the determination of the Entente to have the avenger-sunderer.

Fredericton, June 14.—The grading of wool for sale by the New Brunswick Co-operative Wool Growers' Association under the direction of the live stock branch of the New Brunswick department of agriculture shows results more satisfactory than ever before. The grading of wisest wool has been forwarded, it is expected, will be completed today.

Mr. Thompson, federal grading expert, will return again to grade what wool may still come in.

He says that the New Brunswick wool this season averages higher than that raised in the larger province. This is accounted for by climatic conditions and better care of sheep.

Wool production in New Brunswick is increasing, greater attention to sheep raising is being given, and the wool is being forwarded for grading and it is estimated that the total will be 100,000 pounds.

Baxter B. Barnes, who recently retired as instructor in manual training in Fredericton to become director of manual training in New Brunswick, will leave soon for Peoria, Ill., to take a ten weeks' course to assist him in his new work.

Miss Ellen Keefe left Thursday evening to take a military working course in Montreal.

Miss Mary F. Maher, Golding street, has returned from New York, accompanied by her niece, Miss Constance Kearney.

AMERICAN COLONEL GIVES FREE ADVICE TO RHEUMATICS

SAYS IT'S SHEER FOLLY FOR ANYONE TO SUFFER THESE DAYS.

Rheumatism can't be cured so long as your system is weak and run down. You must first build up and get your strength to fight off the disease.

Ferronose gave me a complete new lease of life. It cures the blood and dissolves the uric acid and the poisons that cause rheumatism.

Col. E. M. Russ, of the old heroes of the Civil War, was completely restored by Ferronose. Read his statement.

"I couldn't get around without a cane, and then only with difficulty.

"Rheumatism took complete control of my limbs.

"Suffering was more intense than hardships on the battlefield.

"When my doctor had done his best I got Ferronose.

"Then came a quick change.

"Ferronose gave me a complete new lease of life. It cures the blood and dissolves the uric acid and the poisons that cause rheumatism.

Down Carmarthen street from house to house the blaze spread and the gas went between Queen street and St. James street was attacked and with $17,000 worth of coal which lay alongside went up in smoke.

Only one house in Leinster street between Sydney street and Pitt street survived the onslaught and the fire made a clean sweep of the south side of King street east from the jail to Pitt street, both sides of Orange street to Pitt and both sides of Pitt street.

Nothing remained after the fire of Sydney street from the court house to the waters edge. The flames left in their wake only ruins of all buildings.

The tumbling in of the wall of St. David's (1820) was followed closely by the ruin of the reformed Presbyterian Kirk (1850). The fine edifice of the school, which had been completed only the year before on the corner of Duke street shared a similar fate, as did the house of the Disciples of Christ just around the corner in Duke street, the Madras School, on the south side of Duke street and the Catholic school which stood on the present site of St. Joseph's school.

The burning of Queen square was attended with terrible incidents. The whole four sides of the square were on fire at once and the great mass of people gathered there for safety with their stores of clothing, bedding, etc., suffered greatly. It was here that D. R. Munro performed the gallant act of rescuing Mrs. Freeman from her home after her clothing had caught fire. After carrying her to safety he went to the assistance of Mrs. Tucker and a sailor named Robert Angus, who were trapped in a burning house and saved both from certain death. Munro and Angus were the last to leave the square when the fire broke out in the morning.

The fire broke out in the morning and the crowds gathered there and in their flight they joined hands in assisting the worthy collection of the day. From the danger zone when she had almost succumbed to the heat.

St. Andrew street did not take long to go and every house in St. James street was destroyed with the single exception of the Marine Hospital. This building, built of wood, was saved, but the Wiggins Orphanage, on the opposite side of the street, although of brick, was included in the general ruin. All the fine dwellings in Mecklenburg street fell in prey to the glutinous flames.

Twenty newspaper offices were destroyed in Canterbury street, which at that time ran only from King street to Prince street—that of the Daily News, the first penny paper in the city, and The Watchman. The Royal Hotel caught once in the fire and was completely destroyed. The present government savings bank in 1899 and occupied first by the government in 1872 was also a victim.

Great ruin was done in Prince William street the whole street close to Reed's point being reduced to ashes. Among the principal business houses and public buildings which were wiped out were Chubb's corner, the old Commercial Bank building on the site of the present City Hall, and the office of the Daily Telegraph adjoining the street.

The office of the Daily Telegraph was also a victim. The building was destroyed and the office of the Globe. All the mail had been removed from the post office before it was attacked and the Royal Hotel caught once in the fire and was completely destroyed. The present government savings bank in 1899 and occupied first by the government in 1872 was also a victim.
