Hochi details further good offices by America such as the fleet's visit. It then concludes: "It is highly desirable to find a cure for the malady which has attacked our good relations. The ceaseless affronts are exhausting our boundless patience. For the sake of peace in the Pacific don't anger us."

Yesterday was the 61st anniversary of the Bishop's priesthood, and it usually has been celebrated in all the churches of his diocese, but on account of his grave condition the Right Rev. Thomas F. Hickey, coadjutor bishop of this diocese, at the cathedral yesterday announced that no special services would be held.

SEATTLE MURDERS.

MURDERS TWO THEN SUICIDES BODIES DISCOVERED IN SEATTLE BATHROOM

Seattle, Wash., Jan. 18.—With their heads submerged in water in a bathroom at their home, C. L. Seelye, his wife, and daughter, Miss Rene, were found yesterday by Zibbell and Guy M. Smelzer. Smelzer was engaged to marry Miss Seelye and Zibbell was a friend of the family. Mrs. Seelye and her daughter had been murdered with blows inflicted with some blunt instrument believed to have been a hammer. Seelye had been drowned, according to coroner Snider.
Mr. Seelye and his family came here more than a year ago from St. Joseph, Mo. Previous to that time they had lived in Ottawa, Ills., where Mr. Seelye was deputy U. S. marshal and a bank examiner, during the administration of Cleveland. Seelye was an uncle of M. E. Goss, of Pomeroy, recently appointed by the governor of the Washington supreme court bench. He has a brother, Charles at Pomeroy, Washington, and another called Frank at Hood River.
Charles discredited a story that his brother was in financial straits, by saying that recently he had received $5,000 from the settlement of his father's estate. His brother knows no motive for the crime and thinks that the man must have been insane. What has become of this money is not known.
Yesterday morning Smelzer and Zibbell, who discovered the bodies, went to the Seelye home determined to find out what was the matter. They tried doors and windows and finally climbed over a transom of the back door and got into the house. In the front bedroom, which was that occupied by Mrs. Seelye, a great blood stain was found on the bed in Miss Seelye's room, but Smelzer and Zibbell did not see it.
Going into the bathroom, they found the three bodies, each with the head in the bath tub filled with water. Over the corpses of Seelye and his wife was a steamer trunk. The trunk did not touch the body of Miss Seelye, but was a few inches above it. An empty chloroform bottle was on the stand in the bathroom. Clutched in one hand of Seelye, which was beneath the water, was a pocket handkerchief which although soaked in water, still carried a faint trace of the odor of chloroform. There were three wounds on the head of Mrs. Seelye, one was over the left ear and the others were on the forehead. The blow that evidently killed Miss Seelye was dealt her over the left eye. There were no marks on the man.
Seelye was 56 years old, his wife about 50 and his daughter 22. Seelye today, made one of the most bitter attacks on the chief executive ever heard in this country.
Mr. Willlett took for his theme, "The passing of Roosevelt," and in a speech of great length dealt with numerous acts of the president since he came into office and scathingly denounced him.

Premier Bond Will Suggest Amendments to Fishery Agreement.

McLaughlin, sporting editor of the World, and J. Angus Shaw, secretary of the Press Publishing Company, to testify before a federal grand jury to-day in an action which was not described in the subpoena. The proceedings were halted by an order obtained by counsel for the World's editors calling upon Mr. Stimson to show cause why the subpoenas should be quashed. Brief argument was heard by United States Circuit Judge Ward to-day on the motion to squash subpoenas, after which an adjournment was taken until 4 o'clock this afternoon, when Judge Ward will hear further arguments.

CREW MISSING AFTER WRECK

Schooner Breaks to Pieces Off New York. Fate of Six Newfoundland Fishermen is Wrapped in Mystery.
New York, Jan. 18.—When daylight to-day came to the assistance of life-savers who were patrolling the beach east of Fire Island, searching for the bodies of the crew of the Newfoundland fishing schooner Swallow, which was beaten to pieces early yesterday on the treacherous sands in that neighborhood, the hull of the wrecked fishing vessel, or what was left of it, was made out a mile west of Oak Island. Of the fate of her crew of twelve men there was no sign. It is believed that the storm would have made escape from the diminutive craft impossible if the men were on board of her.
The fisherman was loaded with salt herring which she was bringing from Newfoundland to New York. To-day many barrels of these fish were washed ashore together with numerous articles of clothing. Nothing of the wearing apparel was found to give a clue to the identity of its owner.

DEVELOPMENT OF THE ISLAND

CONFERENCE GATHERS IN CITY ON FRIDAY

Tom Richardson, of Portland, and W. J. Sutton to Address Meeting.
The gathering of delegates to the Vancouver Island Development Conference on Friday next promises to be one of the most noteworthy events in the history of the island. Every section will be represented, and the result cannot fail to be the adoption of plans which will lead to the development of the great resources of Vancouver Island, inaccessible as some of these may yet be.
At half-past ten sharp on Friday morning the delegates will meet in the board of trade rooms to organize and elect officers. W. J. Sutton, F. R. G. S., the able experienced geologist of the Wellington Coal Company, has kindly consented to address the delegates on the resources of the island. There is no man who knows the island and its varied riches as does Mr. Sutton, and he has the faculty of being able to impart his enthusiasm to those who hear him. He has been over every foot of the island that has yet been trodden by a white man and has an intimate knowledge of what is to be found under the surface.
After Mr. Sutton has told what there is to develop, Tom Richardson, of Portland, the well known and successful publicity man, will tell the delegates how they may organize to effectively secure the opening up of the country and the advertising of its resources abroad. Mr. Richardson organized the Portland Commercial Club, from which sprang the Oregon Development League, an organization composed of the Portland Commercial Club in co-operation with eighty-three similar bodies throughout the state.
A name will have to be chosen for the combined interests which will take charge of the work here. The Vancouver Island Development Association is one of the names suggested with league, or commission or board as a variant for the latter word. It will be the central body and affiliated with it in this work will be various boards of trade on the island and development committees in the centres where no board exists.
At 1 o'clock a luncheon will take place at the Empress hotel at which it is hoped that as many citizens as can make it convenient will be present. Tickets for this, costing $1 each, have been had from the reception committee or the secretary of the board of trade. Mr. Richardson will be the principal speaker at the luncheon and will, no doubt, make a speech well worth hearing by every citizen of Victoria.
In the afternoon, at 3 o'clock, the delegates will again assemble at the board of trade to discuss plans, and ways and means, for the development of the island. In the call issued for this meeting it is stated that no plan has so far been defined and it will be an open question with the conference. Among points which are suggested upon which unanimous support may be expected are those affecting mail service, freight and passenger rates, the construction of roads and trails, which are greatly needed in some places to make a thorough survey and geological examination possible, and the development of the natural resources of the island.
The delegates will be the guests of the Victoria board of trade at the Empress hotel during their stay here.

LABOR'S CALL FOR FUNDS TO APPEAL VERDICT

Buck Stove Contempt Case Will Be Carried to Highest Court.
Washington, Jan. 18.—Determined to press to a final issue the appeals in the pending injunction proceedings against the American Federation of Labor, an appeal was issued on Saturday by the executive council of that organization to organized labor, its friends and sympathizers for funds for that purpose.

It is declared that should an adverse decision be rendered in either of these appeals, it will be essential to make another appeal to the supreme court of the United States.
Surely no member of organized labor or other fair minded men can rest content, the appeal continues, unless the principles involved in these cases are determined by the highest tribunal in the land.
