

LER'S OUTBURST.

Oct. 11.—The storm raised Buller's outburst yesterday's African situation grows.

is the one topic of disapproval in general anticipatory. The British Empire is the only one which has been reached by the light of a conservative government as the result of a resignation.

Oct. 11.—Sir Walter Peace, for Natal, speaking in the House of Commons, referred to the unpopularity of Sir Redvers Buller.

Every member seemed to credit that he owed a debt of gratitude to the late Major Gathorne des Cheneys.

Men Cry for TORIA.

TO ROY HARRISON.

Evening last, in the house of J. Lee Flewelling, the King of the Kings, neighbors and friends assembled to con-

WINTER'S WILL.

All the Northwind's sword Frost, in pity will not stark, he stripes the corn in the rigid grip, all —Outing.

Headache Powders are effective. They rid you of any harmful habit from constipation.

WANTED. Immediately a second or male teacher, for No. 257 St. John's street, N. B. Apply to W. C. FLOYD, Sec., N. B. Co., N. B.

ENITIS SECURED. How you can be protected against the spread of Venereal Disease. BARKLEY'S VENereal DISEASE CURE.

FREE. THE DR. WESTON PILL CO. Remedy for all ailments. It is the only one that cures.

FREE. L&S STEEL PILLS. For all ailments. It is the only one that cures.

FREE. DR. IRREGULARITIES. Appie, F. J. Collins, Pharmacy, 110, St. John's street, N. B.

FREE. HEREBY GIVEN. Partnership heretofore existing between Geo. N. B. and St. John's Market, N. B.

FREE. GEO. N. B. and St. John's Market, N. B. Partnership heretofore existing between Geo. N. B. and St. John's Market, N. B.

FREE. Suro. Send your photograph and name to Suro, 110, St. John's street, N. B.

FREE. Suro. Send your photograph and name to Suro, 110, St. John's street, N. B.

PRACTICAL

SIDELIGHTS

On the War in South Africa.

Its Whole History a Curious Clash of Inconsistencies.

Quixotic Humanitarianism Has In Its Dread of Legitimate Severity Trebled the Slaughter and Misery.

(For the Sun.)

Has the South African war commenced for the season? Candidly, one is tempted to think so. Winter has passed. Her chilly misery no longer accentuates the hardships of an ill-provided foe.

That lenience has so signally failed is surely a fact sufficiently demonstrated. Yet to scowl of just sternness clouds the aspect of our nation.

Let us reluctantly leave the false sentiment to which we have so long and tenaciously clung; let us consider this military gentlemen from a standpoint purely practical; accept it as a primary cause, and weigh it calmly, if we can—the widespread misery of its bloodstained, abject failure, the effect.

In the first place, we have stumbled at war's outset, because of our adherence to historic precedent in its methods of warfare.

Our military gentlemen, who have so long and tenaciously clung to a standpoint purely practical, accept it as a primary cause, and weigh it calmly, if we can—the widespread misery of its bloodstained, abject failure, the effect.

Our quixotic humanitarianism, a mistaken Christianity, a bathos charity or an impracticable sentimentality. Again, may it not be the outcome of a foolish and frivolous national pride? Do we not say, as the Pharisee of old: "Behold, I am not even as these Germans; we are a truly Christian people; we stay at home and placidly preach our new humanism—our fair principles. What though the result be the indefinite prolongation of a bloody war, the slaughter of thousands of our sons, and the stepping of the blood of our countrymen into the mire of a bitter struggle—yet the British will adhere to our knightly notions, come what may! Our noble generosity as a foe must be demonstrated to the world's watching eyes. It is not to be our fault if we fail to demonstrate that we fear by adhering to the severity of war's formerly accepted usages we thereby invite the opprobrium of rival nations! None of such rivals possess a historic record to entitle the casting of a single stone at our feet. And of all this in which we are chiefly interested. What earthly influence has transformed the British lion into a long-suffering lamb, is no vital consideration at this moment.

Our quixotic humanitarianism, a mistaken Christianity, a bathos charity or an impracticable sentimentality. Again, may it not be the outcome of a foolish and frivolous national pride? Do we not say, as the Pharisee of old: "Behold, I am not even as these Germans; we are a truly Christian people; we stay at home and placidly preach our new humanism—our fair principles. What though the result be the indefinite prolongation of a bloody war, the slaughter of thousands of our sons, and the stepping of the blood of our countrymen into the mire of a bitter struggle—yet the British will adhere to our knightly notions, come what may! Our noble generosity as a foe must be demonstrated to the world's watching eyes. It is not to be our fault if we fail to demonstrate that we fear by adhering to the severity of war's formerly accepted usages we thereby invite the opprobrium of rival nations! None of such rivals possess a historic record to entitle the casting of a single stone at our feet. And of all this in which we are chiefly interested. What earthly influence has transformed the British lion into a long-suffering lamb, is no vital consideration at this moment.

Our quixotic humanitarianism, a mistaken Christianity, a bathos charity or an impracticable sentimentality. Again, may it not be the outcome of a foolish and frivolous national pride? Do we not say, as the Pharisee of old: "Behold, I am not even as these Germans; we are a truly Christian people; we stay at home and placidly preach our new humanism—our fair principles. What though the result be the indefinite prolongation of a bloody war, the slaughter of thousands of our sons, and the stepping of the blood of our countrymen into the mire of a bitter struggle—yet the British will adhere to our knightly notions, come what may! Our noble generosity as a foe must be demonstrated to the world's watching eyes. It is not to be our fault if we fail to demonstrate that we fear by adhering to the severity of war's formerly accepted usages we thereby invite the opprobrium of rival nations! None of such rivals possess a historic record to entitle the casting of a single stone at our feet. And of all this in which we are chiefly interested. What earthly influence has transformed the British lion into a long-suffering lamb, is no vital consideration at this moment.

of these words. Does not the fact that their utterance meets with no just punishment bring together the teeth of every loyal subject? The heartless baseness of the pro-Boerism is purely political nature.

And misery. Thus in the effort to be kind here has been cruel—particularly to ourselves, and charity begins at home.

We had reason to fear. Dr. Leyds when in the Transvaal. We ignore the influence of the European presence, accompanied by a transferred Transvaal, which means a transferred British feeling pervading Germany and other continental countries has no significance.

Although engaged upon the justest of causes, Britain has seemed as if she were ashamed, yet striving to convey herself that she was not ashamed.

The surveying party who are locating the route of the new railway from Chipman to Gibson are now approaching the latter place. It is not yet known just where the new line will cross the Nashuaque river.

THE TURF. HAYDOCK RACES. HAYDOCK, Oct. 10.—The fall meet on the Haydock course was probably the best ever held on the park. A hundred well-matched horses were entered, and the races were full of interest.

LOVE'S GRAMMAR. "I wish I dared to ask you something," said Arby, with trembling voice and wabbling chin.

HEARTS "ON STRIKE" The heart—that great motor of the human anatomy—never takes rest. Its ceaseless performance of its lawful function, till through overwork, disease lays hold on it—and it is "on strike,"—and rightly so.

DO NOT EXPERIMENT but get Fuller's Blackberry Compound, which has stood the test of long experience, a thoroughly reliable remedy for all Summer Complaints for Children and Adults, 25 cents at all Dealers.

Y. M. C. A.

Friday's Proceedings at the Maritime Convention in Moncton.

List of the Delegates in Attendance—Addresses by E. M. Robinson of New York, Geo. E. Williams of St. John and Others.

MONCTON, Oct. 11.—The delegates at the Y. M. C. A. convention are as follows: St. John—Wm. Kingston, J. E. Irving, Geo. E. Williams, Mrs. Cullen, Sydney—Percy Stevenson, H. A. Elynde, D. A. McLeod, Dr. William McLeod, R. P. Williams, Mrs. R. H. C. Kendall, Miss E. C. McKinnon.

At this morning's meeting of the convention Rev. W. Meikle of Gloucester gave an address on Hebrews or Philistines, and was followed by E. M. Robinson of New York, who spoke of the Associations Opportunity in Work for Boys, dwelling upon the importance of looking after the boys and which they were working.

The surveying party who are locating the route of the new railway from Chipman to Gibson are now approaching the latter place. It is not yet known just where the new line will cross the Nashuaque river.

THE TURF. HAYDOCK RACES. HAYDOCK, Oct. 10.—The fall meet on the Haydock course was probably the best ever held on the park. A hundred well-matched horses were entered, and the races were full of interest.

LOVE'S GRAMMAR. "I wish I dared to ask you something," said Arby, with trembling voice and wabbling chin.

HEARTS "ON STRIKE" The heart—that great motor of the human anatomy—never takes rest. Its ceaseless performance of its lawful function, till through overwork, disease lays hold on it—and it is "on strike,"—and rightly so.

DO NOT EXPERIMENT but get Fuller's Blackberry Compound, which has stood the test of long experience, a thoroughly reliable remedy for all Summer Complaints for Children and Adults, 25 cents at all Dealers.

NOVA SCOTIA NEWS

WOLFVILLE, Oct. 12.—The formal opening of Acadia University took place last evening in College Hall in the presence of a large number of interested students and friends of the college.

Rev. Dr. Trotter and the other members of the faculty occupied the platform. Rev. H. R. Hatch opened by prayer, after which the president introduced Prof. J. E. Tutts, the speaker of the evening, who gave a most instructive lecture on The Life and Times of Alfred the Great.

Prof. Tutts gave a very luminous account of the leading events in Alfred's life—his education, his public career as a warrior and statesman, his long and bitter struggle with the Danes, his constitutional and educational work, and his moral and religious influence.

At a literary man he accomplished much for England in his translations of Boethius, Bede and other writers, into the vernacular, thus giving a fixity to English speech which enabled it to resist successfully the Norman invasion and to survive to the present.

CORNWALLIS. CORNWALLIS, N. S., Oct. 12.—Dr. Brown and wife, after some time in Bermuda on the 20th of this month. The doctor has purchased a nice horse from parties in St. John, N. B., for the sum of one hundred and fifty dollars.

At this morning's meeting of the convention Rev. W. Meikle of Gloucester gave an address on Hebrews or Philistines, and was followed by E. M. Robinson of New York, who spoke of the Associations Opportunity in Work for Boys, dwelling upon the importance of looking after the boys and which they were working.

The surveying party who are locating the route of the new railway from Chipman to Gibson are now approaching the latter place. It is not yet known just where the new line will cross the Nashuaque river.

THE TURF. HAYDOCK RACES. HAYDOCK, Oct. 10.—The fall meet on the Haydock course was probably the best ever held on the park. A hundred well-matched horses were entered, and the races were full of interest.

LOVE'S GRAMMAR. "I wish I dared to ask you something," said Arby, with trembling voice and wabbling chin.

HEARTS "ON STRIKE" The heart—that great motor of the human anatomy—never takes rest. Its ceaseless performance of its lawful function, till through overwork, disease lays hold on it—and it is "on strike,"—and rightly so.

DERRAH'S DIFFICULTY.

Wife of Farmer St. John Man Suing for Divorce.

The many friends in St. John of Robert H. Derrah, formerly of this city and now one of the most prominent street railway men in New England, will be sorry to hear of divorce proceedings instituted by his wife, who is also a native of St. John.

When a young man Mr. Derrah was employed as a clerk in the retail department of Emerson & Fisher, which position he held about fifteen years ago to seek employment in the States.

CLARK'S HARBOR, N. S., Oct. 11.—Julius Rill was arrested this morning on a warrant charging him with having murdered Nathan Kaplan at Clark's Harbor on Monday evening.

Everything connected with the arrest was done quietly, and at such an early hour that few people were aware of it. When told the charges against the prisoner, he wilted considerably.

LUNenburg's Fishing Fleet. The Bank Catch Last Year Was 240,000 Quinials, and This Year It Is 254,000.

THE BISHOP'S INTEREST IN NOVA SCOTIA are concentrated at Lunenburg, the "GloUCESTER" of the Canadian maritime provinces.

THE BISHOP'S INTEREST IN NOVA SCOTIA are concentrated at Lunenburg, the "GloUCESTER" of the Canadian maritime provinces. There is a fleet there this season of 138 vessels, with an average of about 24 tons and each vessel worth about $4,200.

WHY COLLECTORS STEAL. A young man who collected thousands of dollars for a firm was arrested and charged with the theft of a small sum.

NOT THE FIRST COMPLAINT. Mrs. Chatterton—Bridget, I won't have a lot of policemen hanging around this kitchen.

GASTORIA

For Infants and Children. The highest freshest ever known on the St. John river occurred in May, 1794.

CASTORIA

For Infants and Children. The highest freshest ever known on the St. John river occurred in May, 1794.