THINKS THAT SAINT JOHN IS UNCHANGED

Captain G. Knox, an Actual Character who Has Figured in Kipling's Poetry, Visits This City After 25 Years Absence and Says Shanghai Has it Beaten.

One of the men who figured in the episode upon which Rudyard Kipling founded his Rhyme of the Three Sealers was at the Royal yesterday. He is Capt. G. Knox, once of Halifax and now in the employ of the Chinese government as harbor master and collector of customs at Tongkiel. Capt. Knox has been 25 years in China and the eastern waters.
He arrived from Halifax last night. "The old town," he said, "hasn't changed any in 25 years. It's more unchanged than the Orient. I was away from Shanghai for twelve years, and when I returned I did not know the place at all."
Capt. Knox is rather disappointed because he left China before the excitement began.
It was while engaged in sealing out of Japan that Capt. Knox figured in Kipling's "When the Battle ran from the Northern Light and the Straitsland fought the two." Following is the Knox version of the affair:
Seal Roekery.
The scene was Robben Island and the time 1890. Robben Island is off the coast of Saghalien and was then under Russian control. There was a big roekery there, over which the Russians maintained an armed guard. There was a brief interval every year when the guards are changed, the island was left unguarded.
Knox and two other sealers decided to take advantage of this interval to raid the roekery and started for the place in three schooners, all manned by Japanese.
Knox was the Arctic, the Northern Light of the poem, reached the island first. The Russian guards had gone. There, where "the northern lights come down o' nights to dance on the houseless snow," the sealers found themselves with a beach full of perfectly helpless seals all ripe for a record killing. It seemed a pity to share such rare loot even with a brother poacher, so Knox and Johnny Kerann, navigator of the Arctic, decided to take it all for themselves.
Curious Gun.
On a prominent knoll Knox mounted a stovepipe so that it looked like the muzzle of a gun protruding from its clump of brush.
For a stovepipe seen through the closing mist, it shows like of 4-inch gun.
When the schooner Mystery, the Baltic of the poem, put in appearance, Knox took his stand by the fake gun. He had manufactured a cap like the Russian sealers wore. He put on a few extra shirts to give him bulk and with a belt around his waist gave the shirts the appearance of a uniform. He increased his ankles in canvas leggings and tied a glittering carving knife to his hip. With the hands that held a large telescope to his eye he hid his face from the people on the approaching Mystery.

As soon as the Mystery was near enough for Knox to be sure that those who hoisted the manufactured Russian flag, he then made motions with his hands as if ordering a gun crew to load the gun. The schooner then fired and then the schooner they had to get their ribs, put their helm over and in five minutes were scooting off in the fog. We got over 3,000 skins in that haul. That's the whole story.

ACADIA NOTES.
Special to The Standard.
Wolfeville, Nov. 22.—The registration of Acadia University 1911-12 will surpass that of last year, which was 206. The senior class this year is exceedingly large, numbering 46, whereas the second class of '91 only had 43 members. There are 33 Freshmen, 42 sophomores, 22 juniors, and 12 in the Academy and Seminary are full.
In the University there are two new professors, Rev. J. Simcox, Spidle, Ph. D. and Dr. W. H. Thompson. The former is professor of systematic theology, church history and philosophy; the latter holds the chair of Latin. Dr. Thompson like our President is a Ph. D. of Yale.
The work of the Y. M. C. A. seems in good order. The weekly prayer meetings are well attended. We had with us for a short time Mr. Mabie, special lecturer on missions to colleges and theological seminaries. He held the interest of the students and emphasized the aim of missions and their part in the Christian's life. In connection with the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. there was a reception for the introduction of old and new students. Of course, thanks to the efforts of the introducing committee, everyone enjoyed the evening.
An interesting item was an event which took place on October 24, in New York, when an Acadia Alumni Association was formed in that city. There were sixty present, among them Dr. Cutten. Interesting addresses were heard and much of the old Acadia spirit was manifested.

Deputy Sheriff Macquoid, of St. Andrews who arrived in the city last night with two prisoners in custody whom he was taking to Dorchester, is registered at the Park Hotel.
Presbyterians and Congregationalists.
The afternoon session of the Presbyterian and Congregational conference in connection with the Laymen's Missionary Movement was held yesterday afternoon in St. David's church school room. The Rev. Gordon Dickie presided and the conference was led by the Rev. F. W. Anderson, of Toronto.
The Rev. A. E. Armstrong, of Toronto gave an address on the influence of systematic education during which he said: "The fundamental principle of the conference was that the laity should be educated and informed in the work and need of the foreign and home missions. He then spoke on the ability of the foreign native converts to do the work of the missionary under certain conditions. A business man of upper Canada gave to the church for the year the sum of $1,800 to be used in the province of Ontario. The presbytery of that province invited 200 converted Chicanos to leave their work and start an evangelistic campaign, these men consented. They left headquarters on the 18th of Oct. and worked till the end of December and received as expense money five cents a day. They made many converts and the speaker thought that in this kind of work was carried out the healthiest would be brought to the true faith in from 25 to 30 years."
He also reported to the conference that the Archipelago of Fiji and Polynesia, were completely Christianized and that the natives were able to carry on the work themselves.
The Rev. Dr. Smith, of Fredericton gave an interesting account of the way in which the people raised enough

LAYMEN'S CONVENTION COMES TO SUCCESSFUL CONCLUSION

Enthusiasm of Men Who Attended Most Encouraging to Organizers - Denominational Meetings Yesterday Afternoon - Closing Joint Session in Evening - Ladies Hear Speeches by Leading Members of Convention.

With a final word from His Lordship Bishop Richardson, the great Laymen's Missionary convention was brought to a close last evening in Centenary church.
The convention, which has been in progress during the past few days, has been a success, and in the opinion of the organizers, and the expectations have been realized. The attendance at the different rallies has been encouraging, and in fact of interest and enthusiasm manifested by the men who have attended, has also been encouraging.
Yesterday, the closing day of the convention, was taken up with the denominational rallies held in the churches, and in the afternoon sessions were held both morning and afternoon, while much ground was covered by the speakers of the day.
The closing services were held last evening at 8 o'clock, in Centenary church. Rev. Chas. Flanders, D. D., chairman of the executive, presided over the service.
The programme opened with devotional exercises, after which a resolution of thanks to the different speakers of the convention, to Rev. Dr. Flanders and others who had aided the convention was moved by Judge Forbes.
The adoption of the convention policy was then taken up and spoken to by Rev. Dr. McLeod and J. R. Hill, L. L. D.
The two speakers of the evening were Rev. James Guthrie, on the part of the Presbyterian church, and Andrew Fraser, Rev. Mr. Endicott in an eloquent and able address devoted to the "Task and its Challenge." He touched upon the vast field of missionary effort, the magnitude of the task which confronts laity and clergy alike, was then explained.
Sir Andrew Fraser, the next speaker, gave an excellent address on the sufficiency of God.
Bishop Richardson, in a closing address, reviewed the work of the convention, and expressed the hope that the harvest would be a great one.
A mass meeting for ladies was also held last evening in St. David's church, at which interesting addresses were given by a number of the foremost speakers of the convention. The attendance was large, the ladies availing themselves of a final opportunity to listen to the story of the missionary work interestingly told by the men who had labored in the field.
The sessions of the denominational rallies were continued in the afternoon and were well attended.
At the Church of England session in Trinity church, W. S. Fisher presided.
Canon Smithers spoke on Diocesan work, and greater activity on the part of laymen to provide for the support of the clergy in the country parishes. He said he had seen a place where the people were not now better off than ever they were.
He thought the old habit of the Church of England of relying on the country minister's wife scrubbing the floors of the parsonage, and did not think this necessary as the farmers were now better off than ever they were.
The subject of leadership in the church was dealt with in an interesting manner by Rev. Mr. Farrell, "Systematic Education was the theme of Rev. Dr. Stephenson, while the matter of financing the mission was treated by Rev. J. H. Arupp and G. S. I.
Following the address by Sir Andrew Fraser, the following resolution moved by Rev. H. E. Thomas, and seconded by Rev. J. C. Derrie, was adopted:
"The Methodist missionary convention having been honored by a visit of Sir Andrew Fraser, K. C. S. I., and having listened with great pleasure to his inspiring words, would hasten to place on record their appreciation of which it has in the presence at its session of a gentleman who with such marked distinction, faithfulness and honor has served the British government in India, whilst at the same time giving the full influence of his high office as well as that of his private noble Christian life to the service of the Eternal King, Jesus Christ on the field of Christian missions; and that the unique mission of God would graciously prolong such a useful life and that the comfort and strength of the Holy Spirit may continue to be such rich possession."
The following series of resolutions were reported by the resolutions committee through Rev. H. E. Thomas, and adopted:
"This Methodist Missionary Italy desires to commit all the members and adherents of our church within the province to the responsibilities and privileges of the world wide enterprise of Christian missions."
"Feeling as we do the intense need of leadership in the church especially in the rather serious situation which has arisen, a resolution is adopted for the ministry of the church, we would suggest that matters of such transcendent importance, be continually presented to the church by individual effort we endeavor to lead the young people of our church to the study of the Bible, which is so honored of God as those afforded by the church."
Another resolution was presented making the following: "The N. B. and P. E. I. Conference for the general mission fund a sum not less than $15,000."
The consideration of the sustentation fund matters was on motion referred to the conference special committee for consideration.
The Episcopalians.
The denominational conference of the Episcopalians was held in the schoolroom in Trinity, and was well attended. The devotional half hour was led by Rev. R. A. Armstrong, at the close of which Mr. H. B. Schofield took the chair. He struck the keynote of the meeting by saying that the basic principle of all missionary effort was a belief in the divinity of Christ. Hon. Mr. Gladstone had said that he thought, all his actions and all his hopes were based on a belief in the divinity of the Son of God. This was the real basis of all missionary effort. If they could come to conceive this as the foundation on which to build their work, they would be able to do the work which was being done in a business way, they needed to get down to this as the starting point frequently.
Rev. E. W. Wallace, whose theme was "Our Work in the Yukon," was the first speaker. It was in 1858 that the first missionary went into the Yukon from Red River. He met the Indians at Porcupine Post on the Hudson. Archbishop Robert, McDonald was the one who opened the Indian and he gave up all to go to Fort Yukon, and gave up his life to the work. The speaker went on to sketch the struggle which had taken place in the organization of the district and the character of the Indians. In conclusion, he showed how the work among the Indians and the whites was being prosecuted vigorously, and urged that some training in the East be emphasized.
The white population in the Yukon had declined from 25,000 to about 5,000. The work is very discouraging on this account, but it was only a question of time when there will

DIZZY HEADACHES CURED IN ONE NIGHT

If Troubled With Head-Fullness, Ringing Noises, Specs Before the Eyes, the Stomach is at Fault.

"I had terrible pains in my head. My appetite faded away and when I did eat anything it disagreed and made me very sick for hours after water. The active pain in my stomach and the dizzy headaches I had to endure almost set one wild. Sometimes attacks came on so severely that I had to go to bed, would feel so worn, depressed and utterly miserable that for hours I wouldn't speak to my family. My system was poisonous, my waters and nothing helped me till I used Dr. Hamilton's Pills. With this grand system-cleaning remedy I would be sick, but each day brought me better health and spirits. I was cured and made as strong as one could wish, and will always use and recommend Dr. Hamilton's Pills."
