

- USED IN
- small river or a large between Trinity and dual slope (in New Mex-pple & Red Rivers. have been cut off by soil & drift.
folds composed of flat out elevation not inress; as, The District of
of two streams; as, the
the same sense as divide.
as Glingman's Dome,
West, the Mississippi
; as, The Great Sand
d, with interposed
s. The Everglades of n rocky ledges.
small islands off the word means "pointed al lands; as, Mohawk.
White Mountains
stories into the plains, ns combine or a river
the Canadian; Fourche water. Used in Talbot divided into fresh and oil of vegetable fibres, ade by a river; as, The channel; as, Hell Gate,
Golden Gate, San Francer (Southern States).
g stream; as, the gorge ala).
Also, in New York, y streams; as, Gulf of a heavy rainfall in land in the midst of (Southern States).
aystuck. In shape; as,
headland; a rounded
edges of broken strata summits. Als., in the tributary gravel ridges beds.
Texas and elsewhere in hogs have swallowed.
New England coast,
containing fresh water
ills; as, Sleepy Hollow, ted particularly to the pple the Hammonasset are ven to capes or points.
- Hummock. Same derivation as HAMMOCK and HOMMOCK. Rounded knolls or small hillocks along the coast.
- Hump. A conspicuous lump or convexity in the summit of a mountain-range; as, Camel's Hump, White Mountains.
- Hundred. A district or section. Formerly used in Maryland and Delaware; still used in Delaware.
- Interval, Intervale. French intervalle, "between valleys." Used in New England to designate what are known as bottom lands in the West. The word, as applied, has nearly the same meaning as meadow.
- Island. This word is applied on the open prairies to a clump of trees. Sometimes called a mot.
- Jornadas. Spanish jornadas, "journeys." A long reach of waterless country (New Mexico).
- Key. Spanish cayo, "rock." A ledge of rocks just below the surface, or a low island; as, Cedar Keys, Florida.
- Kill. Dutch kill, "stream." Synonymous with creek or river; as, Schuykill.
- Knob. Dutch knop, "button." Round hills or lofty summits; prairie mounds of conical shape; as, Las Animas Knob, New Mexico.
- Knoll. A small elevation.
- Laenna. French laenna, "a break." Long necks of land between two streams (Louisiana).
- Lagoon, Laguna. Spanish laguna, "hollow." Shallow lakes cut off from the sea by the rising of a bar; as, Mosquito Lagoon, Florida. Applied in the West to shallow ponds or lakes.
- Lava-beds. Widespread masses of volcanic rock resulting from former eruptions (California and Oregon).
- Ledge. A shelf of rocks; a ridge of rock just beneath the sea-surface; a small mountain-ridge in the West.
- Lick. A deposit of salt from springs, resort to by animals, which obtain the salt by licking.
- Llano. Spanish, "a level." A wide table-land in Texas known as the Llano Estacado, or Staked Plain.
- Loma. Spanish, "a hillock." A flat-topped hill or ridge; as, Loma Purda, New Mexico.
- Low Grounds. Bottom lands (Virginia).
- Marsh. An overflowed lowland. Salt marshes, as the tidal marshes of New Jersey.
- Meadows. Lowlands along a river.
- Mesa. Spanish, "a table." A terrace along a river-valley.
- Morass. Dutch, mors, synonymous with swamp. A tract of soft wet ground.
- Mot, Motte. [See ISLAND.]
- Mound. An isolated flat-topped hill that has an artificial aspect. Mounds occur in Wisconsin, Illinois, and Iowa.
- Narrows. A narrow opening through mountains; a narrow channel of water; as, The Narrows, New York harbor.
- Neck. A narrow tract of land projecting into the ocean; a strip connecting two larger tracts.
- Notch. A pass in the White Mountains; as, Crawford Notch.
- Oak Barrens. Thin forests of scrubby oaks on poor soil.
- Ojo. Spanish, "an eye." Water-holes or wells on the Mexican border.
- Openings. Thinnely wooded spaces usually grown with small oaks, hence generally called oak openings.
- Overdrangh. Dutch, overdaau. A bar to the Hudson, near Albany, known as Overdrangh Bar. Not elsewhere used.
- Pallades. French pallade, "a paling." A vertical wall of trap-rock extending fifteen miles along the Hudson. Also used in Montana to designate a locality on the Yellowstone.
- Paps. Nipple-shaped hills; as, The Paps, Lake Superior.
- Parish. Used instead of couoty in Louisiana.
- Park. Spanish parque. Great upland valleys in Colorado.
- Paseo. Spanish paseo, "a stepping-place." A passage through a dangerous or difficult place in the mountains, usually made by a stream. A channel between sand-bars. The mouths of the Mississippi are called pases.
- Peak. A pointed mountain-summit.
- Pichaco. Spanish, pico, "a peak." Prominent mountain elevations (New Mexico and Arizona).
- Pine Barrens. A tract of barren soil thinly covered with pine (Southern States).
- Plant. Dutch, plant, "place." Islands in the upper Hudson; as, Mull's Plant.
- Plains. A level spread of land; as, Laramie Plains, Wyoming.
- Plateau. A comparatively level elevated region.
- Playa. Spanish, "a beach." Applied to a broad, level, clayey space in the plains where rain-waters spread and are quickly evaporated, leaving the surface smooth and baked, so that at a distance it looks like a lake.
- Pocoson, Peccoson. Anglo-Saxon poreca, "pocket." Low, swampy or wooded localities, usually dry in summer and wet in winter (Maryland and Virginia).
- Point Punta. Spanish punta. A cape. Punta is common along the Pacific; Point is used on the Great Lakes and elsewhere; as, Old Point Comfort, Virginia.
- Pokelokens. Indian word. A marsh or stagnant pool extending into the land from a stream or lake (Maine and some Southern States).
- Pond. A pool of water, or a body of water caused by a dam across a stream. Sometimes applied to lakes, as commonly in Massachusetts.
- Porte. Used to signify a "t" in Porte du Morte, Michigan.
- Portezuelo. Spanish for "divide." Used in parts of California.
- Potash Kettles. Depressions in the earth near the Great Lakes, supposed to be due to the washing away of limestone.
- Pot-holes. Circular holes worn by the gyrations of a small boulder kept in motion by the water of a cascade.
- Poso. Spanish, "well." Applied to wells in Arizona and New Mexico.
- Prairie. French, "a meadow." An extensive tract of treeless and nearly level land. Prairies are widely extended in the Mississippi Valley.
- Prairillon. Small prairies in New Mexico, among the hills of the Rocky Mountains.
- Prong. German prange, "a stile." An arm of an inlet or creek. Synonymous with "fork" (Southern States).
- Purgatory. A narrow ravine with vertical walls, particularly where difficult to traverse.
- Pyramids. Peaks in the Rocky Mountains, sloping to a point.
- Race. The section of a stream where wind and tide meet.
- Range. The prairies grazed over by large herds of cattle are called ranges. Also applied to divisions of mountain-systems; as, East Range.
- Rapid. The swift flow of a stream down a sloping bed.
- Reach. An extended portion of water or land; also the straight sections of a river.
- Reef. Dutch riff. A range of rocks at or near the surface of water.
- Reservoir, Reserve. A tract of land set aside for a special purpose; as, the Western Reserve, the Sixes Reservation.
- Rigole. French. A direct outlet; applied to the most direct course of a stream with two channels.
- Rivière, Rio. French and Spanish terms for river. Applied in various parts of the country.
- Roads. A roadstead; as, Hampton Roads. Generally known as harbor.
- Ruffs. Sand-beds covered with a low growth of oak (Texas).
- Runnel. Synonymous with Run, or a small stream (Nevada).
- Sand Hills. A section of Nebraska known as the Great Sand Hills.
- Sault, Saulte, Saut. French saut, "a fall of water." [See RAPIDS.]
- Savanna. An extended level space, destitute of trees and covered with grass. Supposed to be the basin of a former lake.
- Section. A division of a Western State or Territory marked off by the government survey, containing one square mile, or 640 acres.
- Shingle-Bench. A beach of sand or gravel.
- Shoals. Places where the water is shallow; as, Hatteras Shoals. Also applied to a group of rocky islets; as, the Isle of Shoals.
- Shoot, Shute. [See CHUTE.]
- Sinks Sink-holes. Depressions in the land in which the waters sink and are lost.
- Slashes. A corrupt form of splashes, signifying bush-covered swamp or wet land. Slashes is the Kentucky form.
- Slide. A smooth bare incline on mountain-side.
- Slope, Slope, Slough. A mud-hole; a milky place.
- Slope. A section whose surface is inclined to the plane of the horizon.
- Sob. Applied to very wet lands (Carolinas).
- Spit. A long, narrow shoal running into the sea; a cape.
- Spur. German spur. A mountain-ridge which extends laterally from the range.
- Sugar-loaf. A hill or mountain of the shape of a truncated cone.
- Sump. A pool of dirty water (Pennsylvania).
- Swale. Low or wet land; a low area in the midst of higher ground.
- Swash. A narrow channel between a sand-bank and the shore, or within the sand-bank.
- Swell. A long, receding series of hills (Utah).
- Tanks. Spanish estanque. [See WELLS.]
- Terrace. A succession of step-like levels on the sides of a river called terraces. [See MESA.]
- Territory. A political division under the control of Congress and without the political rights of a State.
- Teton. French, "a breast." Grand Teton is the highest mountain in Washington.
- Thoroughfare. A low gap between mountains.
- Tinaja. Spanish, "an earthen jar." Pools of fresh water formed in depressions of the rock (Mexican border).
- Tow-heads. Small tuft-like islands in the Ohio.
- Township. A subdivision of a county.
- Trough. Dutch troeg. A long, narrow depression between two ridges (Nebraska).
- Vly. Dutch. A swamp or marsh. Often called vly; as, The Fly Market (New York).
- Wash. A river-bed which is dry in the rainless season (Arizona and New Mexico).
- Water-holes, Water-pockets. [See WELLS.]
- Water-shed. The dividing ridge between two river-basins, into which its waters flow from opposite directions.
- Wells. Dutch wel, "a spring." Springs with a large orifice, and producing considerable pools of water (Nevada and Arizona).