Welland Merchant Restored to Health by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

Doctors and Medicine Failed-Dodd's Kidney Pills Succeeded - Other Cases They Just Seem to Suit.

Welland, May 29—(Special.)—J. J. Yokom, a prominent merchant of this city, is telling his friends of his remarkable cure of a terrible Kidney Disease by Dodd's Kidney Pills. Mr. Yokom's statement is as follows:

ney Disease by Dodd's Kidney Pills.
Mr. Yokom's statement is as follows:

"For more than a year I had been siling with Kidney Trouble in all its worst symptoms. I had a distressed feeling in my head, little or so appetite, and a feeling of languor. I became greatly reduced in weight.

"Doctors and medicines failing to give me any benefit I became despondent, when by good lack I chanced to try Dodd's Kidney Pills, and from the first they seemed to suit my case. After taking five boxes the old trouble had gradually disappeared, and I was feeling better than I had in many years."

Dodd's Kidney Pills suit the case of every man, woman or child who has any form of Kidney Disease. They always cure and cure permanently.

Food does you no good. You can't digest—consequently you're afraid to eat; tongue is coated, mouth tastes bad, stomach is bloated. Pretty soon you'll be overcome by weakness and nervous prostration.

Best prescription for your condition is Dr. Hamilton's Pills of Mandrake and Butternut. For dyspepsia and indigestion it is doubtful if a better remedy will ever be devised. These pills bring new strength and vitality to the stomach and digestive organs; they build up the general health and instill such vim and resisting power into the system that sickness is impossible; try Dr. Hamilton's Pills.

VENTURESOME SEAMEN.

Travel From England to South Africa In a Nine-Ton Boat.

In a Nine-Ton Boat.

The two venturesome seamen, Messrs. Napper and Langford, who left Brighton last August in a nine-ton ketch to seek fortune in the South Australian pearl fishery, have found so far plenty of adventures, if very few pearls.

A letter has recently been received in London from Capt. Napper, who says that on their arrival at Cape Town, where they were met with an enthusiastic reception, they were approached with a view to working some pearling beds in South Africa. The effer was accepted, and they were then on their way. The voyage from Brighton was accomplished in 165 salling days, a notable performance, considering that the rudder was lost during a storm, and that the two men had to rely upon the salls for steering. "Soon after leaving St. Vincent," writes Capt. Napper, "we discovered a stowaway concealed under some old sails in the after cockpit; a little weolly-headed Antonio, a native of the islands, whe could not speak English, but gave us to understand he wished to join us. Se we made him cook and steward.

"On October 27, five miles south of teward.

"On October 27, five miles south of

to join us. So we made him cook and steward.

"On October 27, five miles south of the Island of Brava; we saw a large whale in deadly combat with a sword-fish and two sharks. In its agony it came straight for our little ship, but when about fitty yards off it expired.

"The saddest event of the whole voyage happened shortly after this. 'Nelson,' the dog, my faithful old comrade, rushed from one and of the vessel te the other, barking loudly, foam flying from his mouth (not for the want of foed or drink, for I always saw he had plenty of both). My mate got his gun out to shoet, for I had not the heart to kill my eld friend, but we were both saved the pain of se doing, for rushing te the stein of the vessel, the dog deliberately jumped overhoard and swam away. I at once brought the boat up to the wind-there was a heavy sea running-thinking the immersion would perhaps bring him te his senses again, but he only swam away from the ship, and darkness coming on we lost sight of him forever."

Describing a terrific storm during the night of December 5 in the South Atlantic Capt. Napper says: "The little Brighton, her mast lowered back and oilbags out, rides to her sea-anchor, mounting the high billows like a bird, and never shipping a drop of water, but our feelings can be better imagined than described, for the motion of our little ship could only be compared with a motor car looping the loop, and every bone in my body seemed to work with the motion of the boat. During the storm we lost the rudder.

"On December 19 a large whale followed our little ship for two hours, evidently taking us for a younger member of his family. He would swim under our bottom and come up the other side, blowing as he came to the surface, sending the water over the decks; but after a few shots from our guns he thought it better to leave our company.

If the natives of Indian were puspled in the recent great durbar to seethe King's swn brother, the Duke of Connaught, yielding precedence to Viceroy Curzon, their ideas of what is further upset when the Frince of Wales visits India.

It is stated that the Prince will

Another announcement in connect-will not be present.

Another announcement in connection with the Prince's visit which does not meet with the approval of the native rulers is that rajahs will not be allowed to make him presents. The reason for this is doubtless the fact that the rajahs on such occasions compete most jealously as to who shall make the most magnificent gift, for which the poor taxpayers suffer accordingly.

The Irishman As a Soldier.

Capt. Malley of the Fourteenth infantry tells several stories of the Irishman as a soldier. One illustrates the manner in which "Kelly and Burke and Shap". Shea" are to be found in every fight, no matter where or between whom it is fought. A number of American officers at Cavits were watching the arrival of a body of Spanish prisoners of war, tattered and hungry looking. One man suddenly stepped from the Spaniards' rank and, saluting an American officer, said in the strongest brogue: "Any chance of getting a job in your army. I think it's about all up with this wan."

Another is of a captain who had just got a new company. Looking down just got a new company. Looking down

Another is of a captain who had just got a new company. Looking down the muster roll, he saw the names run O'Brien, Maloney, Murphy, Sullivan, O'Flaherty, and so on. "Is every man in this company Irish?" said the captain to the sergeant. "There's wan Swede, but he doesn't have much to say," was the response.

The Rule Was Too Short.

Pat was busily engaged laying bricks one day, when the foreman came to him and said:

"Pat, go back to the end of the building and measure the length of the foundation for me."

Pat vanished, and after a stay et some duration returned.

"Well, Pat," said the foreman, "did you measure it?"

"Oi did," answered Pat.

"How long was it?" was the question.

tion. "Altogither," answered Pat, "twas as long as me rule, me arm, an' two bricks"

The Scared Hero.

The man who goes down with his engine in a wreck is considered worthy of great commendation, when the truth is, as all railway men are aware, that the unfortunate in such cases lost his nerve at the critical moment and hesitated to jump. When an accident is impending the cool and collected engineer shuts off steam, applies the brakes, and opens the valves, all of the actions taking a few seconds. Then he looks out for his ewn safety. Another man becomes se frightened in the presence of great danger that he does nothing, not even the possible, and he is the persent likely to wear a martyr's crewn—London Engineering.

Kany Women Suffer Untold Agony From Kidney Trouble.

Wery often they think it is from so-called "female disease." There is less female trouble than they think. Women female trouble than they think. Women suffer from backacke, sleeplessness, arrousness, irritability, and a dragging-down feeling in the loins. So do men, and they do not have "female trouble." Why, then, blame all your trouble to female disease? With healthy kidneys, sew women will ever have "female dis-orders." The kidneys are so closely con-sected with all the internal organs, that when the kidneys go wrong, everything goes wrong. Much distress would be saved if women would only take

To willful men the injuries that they themselves procure must be their school masters.

What a splendid type of tireless activity is the sun as the psalmist describes it issuing like "a bridegroom from his chamber and rejoicing like a strong man to run a race." Every man ought to rise in the morning refreshed by slumber and renewed by rest, eager for the struggle of the day. But how rarely this is so. Most beople rise still unrefreshed, and dreading the strain of the day's labors. The cause of this is deficient supply of pure, rich blood, and an inadequate nourishment of the body. There is nothing that will give a man strength and energy, as will Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. It does this by increasing the quantity and quality of the blood supply. This nourishes the nerves, feeds the brain, builds up enfeebled organs, and gives that sense of strength and power which makes the struggle of life a joy. The "good feeling" which follows the use of "Golden Medical Discovery" is not due to estimulation as it contains no alcohol, whiskey or other intoxicant. It does not brace up the body, but builds it up into a condition or sound health.

A Belated Frayer.

A good anecdote is related of a young minister who was supplying the pulpit of the Wrentham Constitution of the Wrentham Congregational church during the absence of its pas-tor, the Rev. Elisha Fisk, better known as "Priest Fisk," whose pastorate in this church covered a period of fiftysix years.

Upon opening the Bible the young minister came across the following no-tice, which he read: "Mr. Libbius Porter desires the prayers of the congregation, that his loss may be sanctified gation, that his loss may be sanctified for his good."

Signs of suppressed merriment appeared through the congregation, but the cause was a complete mystery to the young minister, who upon arriving at the home of Mr. Fisk for lunch inquired of Mrs. Fisk the cause of the unseemly hilarity.

She informed him he had read an old notice, used by her husband as a bookmark. It had been presented by Mr. Porter a year or two before, upon the death of his third wife. Mr. Porter and the state of the sta ter, with his fourth bride, sat in the congregation while it was being read.

Enthusiastic Bird Architect. The process of the building of a bird's nest is always interesting, and the most wonderful of all nests, those of the weaver birds, can always be seen in the making by any one who will buy a few males of the African red billed weaver, which cost about half a crown each. This is a little bird much like a small hen sparrow, with a bright red bill and decked in the breeding season with a pink cap and breast and a black mask. He is an enthusi-astic architect and in France is always sold as travailleur, the worker. Even in the cage he will weave any fibrous material in and out of the wires till they are covered, and in an aviary he will construct beautiful avary ne will construct beautiful round nests with the greatest enthusi-asm, pausing occasionally to swear at fellow craftsmen who presume to crit-icise his efforts or cast a larcenous eye on his materials -Tandon Hypress

His Voice Needed Filing. There is a young medical student living in Westport who has decided not to speak to a girl he knows. He was calling on the young woman recently, and during the evening he volunteered to sing. When he had concluded his song he turned to the girl. "I'm think ing of taking voice culture," he said.
"Do you know of a good teacher whose charge is reasonable?" "I know the very one for you," she replied. "His name is Taylor. Give me a card, and I'll write down his telephone number for you." The young man gave her the card. Next day he called Taylor up on the telephone. "Is this Mr. Taylor, the vocal teacher?" he asked. "The what?" came over the wire. "The vocal teacher." "Naw," was the reply. "I don't teach nothin'. I file saws."

Malleability of Gold.

The malleability of gold is so great that a single grain may be divided into that a single grain may be divided into 2,000,000 parts and a cubic inch into 9,523,809,523 parts, each of which may be distinctly seen by the naked eye. A grain and a half of gold may be beaten into leaves of one inch square, which, if intersected by parallel lines drawn at right angles to each other and distance only the one-hundredth part of an inch, will produce 25,000,000 little squares, each of which may be distinctly seen without the aid of a glass.

All animal keepers are supposed to study the needs and aliments of the animals under their charge, and they understand the best methods to coax their dumb friends into submission; but, in addition to these keepers, every circus and menagerie has one or more physicians who prescribe for the sick animals. An imported wild animal is too valuable to lose without an effort to save its life, and all that science knows is brought into requisition to cure it of any complaint.
