VICTOR HERBERT'S LATEST SUCCESS.

In his latest comic opera "The Princess Pat" Victor Herbert has written another score which is bound to be accepted among his best works of recent years. It is quite as tuneful as "The Only Girl" and more ambitious. From the moment the overture begins "The Princess Pat" is recognized as a Herbert opera, for it is splendid, tuneful and refined with a beautiful delicacy and sweetness in its themes.

Henry Blossom's book tells a possible story in the same fashion by means of characters not distorted. The story revolves around Tony Olsen, a young man who lives only for wine, women and song, yet is the hero of the opera, falls in love with Grace Holbrook, a pretty girl whom his father is about to marry, or rather buy, Old Olsen in time, falls in love with the Princess Pat. The Princess, partly to draw the old rone away from Grace and partly to arouse jealousy in her indifferent husband, the Prince encourages Old Olsen. To add to the complications, the younger Olsen, while on a joy tour, has picked up a snave adventurer, Bob Darrow. Darrow offers to help every body for a series of payments in cash. Through his endeavors there are elopements, arrests and mutual entanglements.

Among the songs which find special favor are "Love is Best of All," "All For You" and "Two Laughing Irish Eyes". A good cast includes Charlotte Le Geande, Georgia Sregerio, Phillip H. Ryley, O. Figgman, Effie Toye, Earl Benham, Ben Hendricks, Tots Marks, Francis Bryan, Edward Metcalf, and Henry Vincent. "The Princess Pat" will be produced with an effective chorus and an augmented Herbert Orchestra, at Griffis Opera House, Monday evening May 22nd.

A CRAZY OUTBREAK.

The Dublin outbreak was probably the craziest affair of the kind which crazy Irish agitators ever imagined. The general effect will be to clear the air, and draw the line which few people outside Ireland are ever able or willing to draw between the parliamentary party and the party of force.

These latest rebels have fought home rule as bitterly as the Unionists have done, but from different motives. They desired absolute separation from England, and a little republic of their own. Their flag combined the orange and green, and they had no religious attachments. Being neither religious nor partisan, it will be seen how utterly idiotic their attempt was. The rowdy element which they attracted along with the Larkinites and the professional strikers, who were the backbone of the Dublin insurrectionists, were all organized under German auspices and paid by German and Irish-American money. The hyphenated Americans are of many nations.

Mr. Birrell and the lord lieutenant are being blamed for not having foreseen the outbreak, but they probably thought the idea too crazy to be worth attention. It was so desperate and so hopeless that had arrests been made with the allegation that a revolution was in contemplation, the government would probably have been more blamed for precipitating a disturbance and exciting sympathy for such a class of people than they are at present.

This will not excuse the responsible minister, however, if a political victim is demanded. He may be able to Birrell his way out of the difficulty, and it would be easy with people who were familiar with Ireland, where any insane thing is liable to happen over night. But the English people cannot understand this, even if Mr. Birrell does.—Toronto World.

Splendid Tribute to Heroes of St. Julien

duets of field, and orchard, forest and mine are given front rank in the open markets of the world. And now in the acid test of war's sternest crucible we have seen our manhood cast and they have come forth as pure gold.

The Righteousness of our Cause Explain, and eulogize as we may, there is still something to explain, some factor that has yet eluded our analysis. The hero prophet Isaiah holds the key. Our cause is the cause of the Righteous God. England has drawn the sword to protect the weak and to deliver the oppressed. Not for the greed of conquest or the love of adventure, but to maintain the cause of honor, justice and freedom among the nations has she drawn the sword and flung away the scabbard, for the things which are the best and most precious possessions in the life of our modern civilization. Our principles are righteous. Our goal is clear. "We shall never sheathe the sword until Belgium recovers in full measure all, and more than all, that she has sacrificed, until France is adequately secured against the menace of aggression, until Serbia comes to her own again, until the rights of the smaller nationalities of Europe are placed upon an unassailable foundation, and until the military domination of Prussia is wholly and finally destroyed."

These being our principles and our goal, our hearts are strong because our cause is just. God is with us. He is on our side. Not as an host of visible angels but in every brave heart! He is a mighty power. We claim His ancient promise. Hence when the enemy like a flood came upon our lads at St. Julien, the Spirit of the Lord lifted up a standard against them.

How fitting therefore that we observe with gratitude to God this anniversary, may God make us worthy to be the instruments of his judgments that have gone forth against the dominance of the brute and the beast among the nations of the earth. May England give up her rum trade. May Russia grant full political freedom to her people. May France turn back to God. May Canada turn from the gods of mammon and pleasure.

Day to be Commemorated.

St. Julien day is worthy of being made a national holiday, the significance of which appears and will appear still more and more as the war progresses and the after years unfold.

How fitting that our great leaders in Parliament, Sir Robert and Sir Wilfrid by unanimous support call upon all our people both in public and in private walk to fling aloft the flag along the battle lines in Belgium and in France, in England and on the seas and in our own loved Canada! And may it be observed not only this year but in perpetuum.

And our flags will not fly at half mast as in sorrow, but at the mast head in tribute to the heroes of St. Julien and every other glorious field, in evidence of the certain faith that their valor shall not have been in vain but that victory with an honorable and lasting peace shall be ours.

MUTT AND JEFF IN COLLEGE.

A carnival of fun is coming to Griffins Opera House, Friday May 19, for one night only. It is Gus Hill's big musical comedy "Mutt and Jeff in College". It is a veritable paroxysm of hilarious laughter. "Girle and Whirlie", with a chorus of real Winter Garden beauties. It is different from anything you have ever seen. The happiest and most unique concoction of musical comedy ever conceived. It is a "Passing Show" full of "Town Topics". This production was designed for the special purpose of divorcing you from your troubles for a few hours at least. It is not unnecessarily burdened with plots or intricacies of any sort. Neither is there a solitary bit of sense to it, but, "You'll laugh your fool head off" at the "Tom-foolery". You will also fall in love with the girls and go home humming and whistling the music. What more can you want for an evening's entertainment?

FAREWELL CONCERT.

A delightful farewell promenade concert was given last evening by the 80th Battalion Band in the Armouries. It was the last occasion on which citizens were to hear the band except on parade. Lieut. Stares' musicians played a lengthy program of all classes of music, popular and classical in their usual highly efficient manner. Again and again they were encored and they responded with some songs and lyrics, which were prime favorites. There was a good attendance of civilians for the 80th's vaudelectory. It had been arranged to give the program on the lawn but the cold weather forestalled this.

PRESENTATION TO A SOLDIER

On Tuesday evening, April 25th, a large number of the neighbors and friends of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wallace, gathered at their home to say good-bye to their son Clifford, who expects to leave for the front with the 80th Battalion, C. E. F. After some time had been spent in social intercourse these following address was read by Mr. James Huffman while Mr. James Hutchinson made the presentation. Following the presentation Clifford made a very suitable reply, after which refreshments were served by the ladies and several speeches were given, everyone wishing for his safe return. The evening was brought to a close by singing the National Anthem. The address follows:—

Dear Clifford,—We, a number of your friends and neighbors have gathered here on this occasion in order that we might show to you our appreciation for your self-sacrifice in taking upon yourself your share of the responsibility in upholding the rights and dignities of our country. This is the second time that we have had the privilege to gather in this home on an occasion of this kind. Less than a year ago we said farewell to your brother Carl, prior to his departure for overseas service, and now you are about to leave also to face in our stead a common foe. We realize the stand you have taken for your King and Country is a generous one. You have heard the call to duty and not only have heard but have responded. We know only too well that by this response you will be called upon to sacrifice much that is dear and dear to the hearts of young people. Home, Parents and Young Companions. But when we think of this fact we are proud to think of you as one from our midst, and now since you have donned the King's uniform we might say wear it well, May it ever stand as worn by you for courage, truth and all that goes to make up true manhood. When you reach the battle lines remember that upon you rests the responsibility of upholding the high reputation won by our Canadian boys at St. Julien and Langemarck. These will be trying times but you will be inspired by the thought that you are fighting for the truth and right, and also by the fact that none of the great things in life are gained without sacrifice. May you often think of Him who made the supreme sacrifice by giving His life on Calvary that He might redeem a lost world. As a small token of our friendship and goodwill we would ask you to accept this wrist watch and purse as a reminder of the friends you leave at home, and the prayers, goodwill and best wishes of the whole community that go with you. We trust that you may be spared to return safe and sound in the near future, and as a result of your efforts and the thousands of others who have so freely given their services that a lasting peace may be restored.

Signed on behalf of your friends
Jas. A. Hutchinson.
Jas. O. Huffman.

ORDINATION AND INDUCTION AT ROSLIN.

An interesting event took place yesterday afternoon, May 9th in the Presbyterian church, Roslin, when the Presbytery of Kingston met for the ordination and induction to the pastorate of the Rev. G. C. Mitchell, B.A., a recent graduate of Queens College. The day was fine and the audience was representative of the charge which consists of three appointments, viz., St. Andrews, Thurlov, Roslin and Fuller. Rev. A. S. Kerr of St. Andrews Church, Belleville, Moderator of Presbytery presided and inducted the new minister. Rev. W. W. Conrad of Melrose preached the sermon, while Rev. W. T. Wilkins of Trenton, the venerable clerk of Presbytery, addressed the newly inducted minister, and Rev. E. C. Currie of John St. Church, Belleville, delivered the charge to the congregation. The new incumbent, both by missionary experience and training, well sustains the good judgment of the people in his selection, and the settlement and re-arrangement of the charge bids fair to mark the beginning of a new epoch rich in spiritual results.

Bartlett, Superintendent of the Algonquin Provincial Park of Ontario, announces that all the ice is out of the lakes in the Park and fishing has begun. COLD WATER SUPPLY.

Drilling at Creamery For Cold Water—To Eliminate Use of Ice.

The Belleville Creamery, Limited, are conducting drilling operations at the north of their plant on Front St. in the hope of getting a supply of cold water for the warm season's business. Already one shaft has been sunk to a depth of fifty-two feet without sufficient results. A small quantity of water was secured but not enough for the purposes of the creamery. A new shaft has been begun about four feet west of the other and it is expected to be completed in about ten days' time. The drill cuts through about ten feet of rock per day.

Should sufficient quantity of water be secured, it is expected that this will pay for the cost of the well in one year, as large quantities of ice under the present system have to be used for cooling the city water for sometimes seventy degrees to fifty degrees for creamery purposes.

It is rather strange that there are no seams from the river bank along which water can percolate into the shafts. The rock at this place is particularly hard.

Dr. Robertson of Tweed, was hastily summoned to Stoco, on Thursday to attend Mr. N. Caul, who had met with a painful accident by being trampled on by a team of horses. The piers of the old bridge are to be made use of, and as they stand in thirty feet of water a considerable saving will thereby be effected.—Mercury.
