COUNTY NEWS.

INTERESTING LETTERS FROM OUR STAFF OF CORRESPONDENTS.

A Budget of News and Gossip.—Personal Intelligence.—A Little of Everything, well Mixed up.

ADDISON.

SATURDAY, Jan. 4.—Mr. A. Church, of Mount Pleasant, had the misfortune to lose his celebrated trotting mare, Maud S. She was slightly indisposed and was put under the treatment of veterinary surgeon Brown, near by. Despite the strongest efforts to save her, death came as a relief.

The mayor of Browntown has opened out a furrier establishment at his residence, King st. west. Any one wanting to select goods from a fine assortment should give him a call before purchasing elsewhere.

Mr. Thomas Shannon and lady, of Ogdensburg, and Mr. Hiram Clow and lady, of Yonge Mills, paid our village a visit this week. They were guests of Mr. William Langdon, their brother-in-law.

ELBE MILLS.

MONDAY, Jan. 6,—Rev. Oliver, of Addison, is expected to conduct a missionary service here next Sabbath.

The many friends of Mr. E. Whitmore will be glad to know that he is recovering from his recent illness.

The scarcity of news from this place lately, may be accounted for by the resignation of our deputy, who will neither bring news nor read the paper, that ghost story was the cause.

Some of our young folks who had been away for the holidays were expected home on Thursday last and a number of their friends had gone to the station to meet them, but the train whizzed past and there was disappointment all around. Neither by train or stage did they come next day. Early Saturday morning a deputation started for Brockville and returned with the loved ones on the evening train.

Our annual Sabbath school entertainment took place on New Year's eve and consisted of readings, recitations, dialogues, music and a series of last quarter's lessons. The children received the usual confectionery treat.

At the close R. E. Cornell, Bible class teacher, was presented with two nicely bound books (Bible studies and a Commentary on the Lessons for 1890) by the members of his class.

GREENBUSH.

MONDAY, Jan. 6.—On Thursday the second inst. George Tackaberry breathed his last, after a lingering illness. The funeral on Saturday was very largely attended by relatives and friends of the bereaved family. The Rev. T. C. Brown, of Brockville, preached a very eloquent sermon, taking as his text Rev. 7th chapter and 9th verse.

Our school has again opened under the management of Mr. L. E. Blanchard, of Greenbush. Our Maiden Lane president has sent in his flock. It is to be hoped he will keep them there.

Our missionary meeting will be held on Tuesday evening next. We hope to see good roads by that time and a good turn-out.

William Williams, of Lake Eloida, was the guest of Mr. J. Forsythe on last Saturday and Sabbath. Report says that Bill is about to carry off one of the fair ones of this place. We take this opportunity of extending congratulations.

It is our painful duty to chronicle the sudden death of Mr. Frank McVeigh, who retired to bed last Sabbath night as well as usual, was taken ill during the night and on Monday morning expired without any warning. We extend our sympathies to the bereaved family.

MALLORYTOWN.

FRIDAY, Jan. 3.—We are pleased to see the familiar faces of Mr. R. H. Fields, D. H. Judd and C. R. Woods among us again.

The 'Xmas tree held here on 'Xmas night was a success.

Rev. L. A. Betts and wife, of Athens, are spending a few days among their many friends here.

Miss Madden has been engaged as head teacher in our school for 1890.

The Macoy Lodge No. 242, A. F. and A. M. met for installation of officers on the evening of the 27th. A grand tea was served in the town hall, after which about 200 Masons and their friends adjourned to the lodge room above where an excellent programme was provided, M. J. Connolly taking the chair. Addresses were given by Rev. S. G. Phillips, Lyn, and our former pastor, Rev L. A. Betts. Recitations were given by Dr. Shaw, Miss Root, Miss Dickey, Miss Connolly and Miss Irene Mallory. A very enjoyable evening was spent by all, who expressed themselves as happy to meet, sorry to part, and happy to meet again.

Mrs A. Chapman, of Brockville, is spending a few days here.

Miss Lillie Avery and Miss Bird Mallory have gone to Gananoque for a few days.

DELTA.

MONDAY, Jan. 6.—New Year's was spent much after the same manner as Christmas, except that there was no skating.

Miss Jennie Madden, teacher, has gone to take charge of Mallorytown school for the present year, while her brother George is teaching near Lyn.

Public school opened here Monday, having the same teachers as last year, Mr. F. H. Eaton, principal, and Miss N. Stevens, assistant. Their being hired the second year speaks very highly of their success as teachers.

On Monday Messrs. Copeland and Bell went back to B. B. C. to finish their course, while Messrs. Curtis and Denaut went back to Queen's.

Miss L. Alguire, of Athens, visited old acquaintances here last week. Do you suppose you would, Harvey? I would'nt, if I were you.

There are a great many cases of influenza here at present. While Dr. Mallory was visiting—a patient—last week he was taken suddenly ill. So violent was the attack that he could not be removed to his boarding-place. However, we are pleased to see him around this week.

Who says there is no enjoyment in Delta? If any one thinks there is not, just come up on the ice some night—if it don't snow—and see for yourself. Why some even take lunch baskets so as to have "a picnic on ice." Well, it is fun anyway to take your best girl up and try to learn her to skate. Of course, she will want to skate alone, that is policy, but when she gets about ten feet away from you and the skates want to go one way while she wants to go another, that is the time that her independence is severely tested.

A Graphic Pen Portrait of [illegible] en route—As you would [illegible]

Editor ATHENS REPORTER:

DEAR FRIEND.—My [illegible] on awaking this morning [illegible] to home and friends [illegible] so many pleasant memo[illegible] solved at once to fulfi[illegible] made to you. Therefore [illegible] ed myself for the purpo[illegible] and as briefly as is consist[illegible] thoughts I would express [illegible] you some sentiments I [illegible] cherished and others which [illegible] created by the late scene[illegible] have been so fortunate as [illegible]

Many of my eastern fr[illegible] think it strange that I sh[illegible] left my home again or that m[illegible] ing propensities are getting [illegible] of my good sense, and for t[illegible] vindicating myself and awak[illegible] one to a realizing sense of [illegible] interests, let me wander fro[illegible] in nature to facts in life. T[illegible] seems a sad thing for the [illegible] grow to middle life and on to[illegible] contenting themselves with on[illegible] may be found in the immediate [illegible] of their birth, omitting all the [illegible] ences of a change of climate, the [illegible] cation which may be derived f[illegible] travelling, and the inspiration [illegible] feels when beholding the grandeur [illegible] nature, so common in the West. D[illegible] not for a moment think that I am lacking in patriotism or swerving in my allegiance to the land of my birth, for to me there can be no spot on earth so dear as "my own, my native land." I only wish to gain all the good which may be derived from the brevity of our existence, and while extolling the qualifications of my own country, I would do justice to the merits of another. By remaining always in one place, we are apt to become narrow minded and lose much that is conducive to human happiness. Travelling enables us to cultivate our memory and powers of thought, improves our conversational ability, broadens our sympathies, enlarges our ideas and views of life and gives us much to be thankful for. By observation and experience we gain the best education any man may have. Why, then, does not everyone seek a change, that all our latent faculties may be brought to light and powers of thought increased?

On my way to California my first stop was in Michigan. From an agricultural point of view, I believe her advantages are superior to any state in the union. It possesses an abundance of timber of all kinds; has a never-failing supply of the best of water; is well adapted to dairying, fruit-growing, corn and wheat and has a fine climate, taken all in all.

I next called at Chicago for a few days. Arrived there the night of the dedication of the new auditorium, one of the grandest buildings of modern times, costing $2,700,000. Its seating capacity was said to be about 4,500, but that night fully 8,000 people were within its walls. Seats cost from five to fifty dollars and $1,800 was paid for one box. Twenty people were four months in making the curtain, which consisted of 1,893 yards of silk canvas. President Harrison and all the big guns from Washington were present, and the divine Patti contributed with her voice as did also a chorus of 500 voices. Such a scene is seldom witnessed and such singing and music, I suppose, was never before heard.

As there is a sameness about all cities, I will say no more of Chicago.

My next call was at Omaha, Nebraska. The weather was like Indian Summer at home. One could not but be impressed with the boundless aspect of that prairie country. As far as the eye could reach was one uninterrupted sea of land with nothing but the farmer's homes, surrounded with a few trees, or, perhaps, an occasional town or village, to break the monotony of the scene.

From Omaha to Denver, Col., it seemed to be one vast cornfield. Thousands of acres and millions of bushels of it were on every hand. Farmers were busily engaged in picking and drawing to market or feeding it. At Denver we gained our first view of the mountains, whose snow-capped peaks reminded us that we would soon be barred from home. Then such scenes were presented as beggars description. None but those who have witnessed them can comprehend their grandeur. Soon we were rolling along through canons whose sides seemed to shut out the light. Some places the rocks would tower above us 3,000 feet in height. We would go around curves that would make your head swim and ascended grades of 211 feet per mile. For 26 miles the average grade was 146 feet. Our engines seemed but to creep along, but soon the summit was [illegible] being 10,855 fe[illegible]
