To the Editors of the Advocate. Sirs.—The letters which you have kindly permitted me to publish on the important theme—The Council and the Canada Temperance Act,—have had as their object to discuss (1) the attitude which the majority of that body have thought fit to assume towards the under-Sirs .- The letters which you have which the majority of that body have thought fit to assume towards the understood requirements of the law, (2) the legal competency of the same body to pass measures authorizing the several members to exitate for a repeal of the law, and (3) the character of its resolution adopted by an overwhelming vote to give effect to the desire for a repeal. I presume it will be universally admitted that the positions which I, in common with all law-respecting people, have maintained in the matter, are unassailably right. No one will be found to agree with the spirit which prompted the champion of the Council to call the petition presented by friends of the Act and insult to the Council had any constitutional right to pass their resolutions.

In that event I presume we should have what remains of the License Act.

Prof McCurdy has his tirade also in the Advocate, rehashed with divers additions and variations. As to that blunder' he made so much ado over: I merely cons dered the C. T. Act and the License Act as the 'former' and 'latter' in point of time. For his information, I shall, next week, furnish some figures to show how the Scott Act has been adopted by a few reckless fanatics calling themselves the 'people' of Canada. I agree with the professor, however, in hoping that the Council's action may result in some practical movement for the relief of the community. Such was the object of that resolution.

The undermentioned persons within the County and District of Restigouche, having filed their applications for liquor liceuses as required by "The Liquor Liceuse Act of 1883," for the author of the letters signed "Michael Whelan" has developed mental and moral obliquities which plainly prove his unfitness to sit in a properly constituted Municipal Council, it is of course extremely to be regretted both for that gentleman's own sake and for the sake of the whole community.—

That is, however, a matter with which his constituents are more directly concerned, whom he has already slandered in common with the rest of the "people" as "slaves, dupes and hypogritus".

Here are two or three random speci- John Ross, mens. He assumed in his resolution that the Scott Act was law and needed repealthe Scott Act was law and needed repeating, next he says that the Scott Act "was superceded by the License Act of 1883," (and on this point his language in the first letter implies that he knew or at least that I ought to have known this alleged fact before the resolution was passed in the Council), and "all the pro-visions of the License Act had been subpassed in the Council), and "all the provisions of the License Act had been substituted for those of the Scott Act." He says in his first letter: "the Supreme County have decided that the provisions."

of the Federal Government with provincial rights." And so on, and so on, through a m ss of involutions and intricacies of self contradictions inextricably intertwined in an entanglement of bewildering and hopeless confusion.

The author of these letters has stumbled into every poss ble pitfall lying in his way. One instance will suffice to illustrate his intellectual and moral adantedness to the role he has tried to

to prove that the Scott Act "was superseded by the License Act of 1883," he referred in his first letter not only "to the late decision of the Supreme Courts of Canada and New Brunswick" (which he evidently thought were one "decision," or at least in agreement, instead of being opposed to one another,) but also to "the admission of the Premier on the floor of the House of Commons." Now I felt pretty sure that he knew next to nothing either of the one or the other, and I accordingly stated or the other, and I accordingly stated them as they really were and gave the so-called "admission" of the Premier, word for word, from his speech reported in full in the St. John Sun. The quotation marks were, however, inadvertently omitted and Mr. Whelan, thinking that the Premier's statement was mine, fell foul of it as a matter of course. Here are his criticisms on Sir John Macdonald's statement, to which he had appealed "to show how that 'great constituional lawyer views the situation."—

I shall be obliged to refer to a charge I shall be obliged to refer to a charge which he makes against me of having taken advantage of an error in the types to ridicule his resolution before a Chatham audience. Upon this groundless charge, of which the very reverse is the truth, he accuses me further of being "mean and unmanly." How accurate he is in this accusation, which common prudence would have dictated to him the necessity of proving before making it in such a public manner, may be init in such a public manner, may be in ferred from the signed statement append ed herewith.

J. F. McCurdy. Chatham, Feb. 28, 1885.

We hereby declare that the statement of 25th and in the Advance of McCurdy took advantage of a typographical error in a published copy of a re-solution presented to the Municipal Council by Mr. Whelan to ridicule the resolution before a Chatham audience, is not correct. Having been present at the meeting in which Dr. McCurdy criticized the resolution in question, we as sert that he, on the contrary, expressly stated that the number 25,000 was a mis-take of the printer for 2,500, and that the held responsible for the error.
