Cooked and Cured Meats—Young & Caven.

Last week the Travel Club sent to the Field Comfort Commission, Shorncliffe, a box containing 66 pairs of socks and two kneecaps, to be forwarded to the Elgin men in the 10th Battery, under Col. W. J. Brown. Sixty-five pairs of socks and 5 Balachava caps for the Elgin boys in the 18th Battalion were sent to Shorncliffe six weeks ago, and in the meantime 15 pairs of socks were given for Aylmer boys in the 91st Batt. before leaving St. Thomas. So the workers of the club and their friends have not been idle. Indeed, the privilege of being able to send from Aylmer to the base of supplies for our own men, thus making it possible for Aylmer socks to be in France or Flanders within three weeks from leaving Canada, has given a fresh impetus to the work and calls for yarn in abundance to be in readiness, as over one spindle (6 lbs.) per week is required to keep the needles clicking. Assistance of any kind will be deeply appreciated by the club.

Live Poultry Wanted—H. M. Hambridge Co.

Mr. Williams, who commenced his new duties last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Barneccott visited Tillsonburg on Saturday, and there joined in the quiet celebration of the golden wedding of Mr. and Mrs. William Foster. Fifty years ago the worthy couple were wed in the old Tillson House—the first frame house built in Tillsonburg, and since then their years have been spent in happy harmony together. Only a few immediate members of the family were present, namely, son William of Detroit, son-in-law George Misener of Detroit, with their children; and Mrs. Emery, who had just visited from the West. After dinner the couple were the recipients of a purse of gold from the family, and handsomely gifts from friends. The day was pleasantly spent recounting reminiscences. Mr. and Mrs. Foster enjoy fairly good health, and received hearty congratulations.

The remains of the late Ella Adeline Wright, beloved wife of Joseph E. Boss, who passed away at her home in Toronto on Tuesday of last week, were brought to the home of her brother, ex-Mayor H. H. Wright, here, and after a service at the house were laid to rest in Aylmer Cemetery. Deceased was born in Aylmer, and was a very popular young lady. She possessed unusual literary talents, and gave pleasure to many audiences as an elocutionist. For years she occupied the position of private secretary to the business manager of the Toronto Globe, which she resigned at the time of her marriage. Her death is particularly sad. For weeks she had been anxious concerning the illness of her husband, who is still in a critical condition, and when stricken down, five days previous to her death, her system was so run down that she had no strength to overcome the disease. Besides her husband, she is survived by two sisters, Mrs. (Rev.) D. Davidson, of Michigan, and Mrs. E. A. Smith, St. Thomas; and four brothers, Horace of Aylmer, A. R. of Port Burwell, Owen S. of Edmonton, Alta., and Samuel of Chicago. Mrs. Boss was well known in Toronto through her charities, and her home was ever open to soldiers without friends or home.
