How the Cabinet Changes Are Viewed in England.

Mr. Abbott Has Missed a Great Chance and Made a Bad Mistake—The Section B. Scandal,

PRESTON VS. HAGGART.

Mr. Preston met Hon. John Haggart at Kingston Wednesday evening at the last public meeting in connection with the bye-election in that city. He repeated the charges preferred in the House of Commons against Hon. Mr. Haggart, that he had a beneficiary interest in section B of the C. P. R., and said that an inquiry was moved for in the House of Commons on a resolution proposed by Mr. J. F. Lister, and that the resolution was voted down. All the fraudulent transactions that have ever been discovered in connection with the Government fade into insignificance in the face of the stealing in connection with section B. Hundreds of thousands dollars were paid to corrupt the electors in 1883 and in 1887. Forty thousand dollars were subscribed for the purpose of defeating the Mowat Government, and brought into Toronto by one Stimson.

Mr. Haggart made a general denial of the charges and said he would sue the yaper for libel that would formulate and publish the charges against him. He declared that he was an innocent man.

ENGLISH VIEW OF THE CAMERT CHANGES.

LONDON, Jan. 28.—The Ministerial changes have fallen far short of the hopes cherished in Canadian circles here. All who had expected Mr. Abbott to act boldly and infuse tresh blood into the Cabinet are much disappointed to find Mr. Chapleau, Mr. Haggart and Mr. Carling still retained. Opinion is virtually unanimous that Mr. Abbott missed a great chance and committed a grave-error. It ivery significant that the Canadian Gazete, which usually seizes any good pretext of approving of the Ministry's decisions, contents itself with merely recording the charges, expressing the hope that Mr. Patterson will prove a strength to the Cabinet.

IT WAS HILL'S BODY.

No Dummy in the Coffin at the Defaulter's Funeral.

New York, Jan. 28.—The story to the effect that T. Wilton Hill, the defaulting cashier of the bank at Jamesburg, N. J., was not dead, and that a dummy had been placed in the coffin which was supposed to contain Hill's body is denied. Mr. Hill's death occurred more than a month ago, and was followed by the discovery of a defalcation on his part, amounting as is now was followed by the discovery of a defal-cation on his part, amounting as is now known, to more than $54,000. This sum was the entire capital of the bank. Just previous to his death he had been insured for $20,000, and the insurance companies became suspicious as to his sudden demise. The story of the dummy in the coffin is dis-credited by the testimony of several promi-nent residents of Jamesburg. Mr. J. C. Magee, a director of the broken bank, Mr. F. H. Pownall and Mr. C. E. Westervelt are ready to swear that they saw Mr. Hill's dead body in the coffin and followed it to the grave. The body will probably not be exhumed.

had advised that no action be taken, as de-horning was often necessary. He had witnessed Mr. Elliot, one of the defendants, perform the operation twice, and he con-sidered that it was done as well or better than the ordinary veterinary surgeon would do it. Both horns were sawed off a cow in 9 seconds. Her pulse had increased two beats during the operation. The discharge of pus was a natural mode of healing, and its presence was not a sign of pain or un-healthiness. He thought that there was no pain after the first two or three strokes of the saw. The operation was not a cruel one.

the saw. The operation was not a cruel one.

Dr. William Brady, V.S., of Tilsonburg, had inspected some hords of cattle that had been dehorned. He thought there was no unusual change in the pulse or temperature after the operation. The condition of the animal remained normal, and the quality of milk was not changed. The pain was only momentary and treatment was not necessary in warm weather unless the cows were kept in a stable where chaft could get into the cavities. After the horns were cut off the cattle were more docile and put on flesh better. The operation was not cruel or unnecessary. Brass tips or a board put across both horns would not prevent a cow from bunting or rupturing another.

I. C. Burk, V.S. of St. Thomas, had ining another.

J. C. Burk, V.S., of St. Thomas, had in J. C. Burk, V. S., of St. Thomas, had in-spected the dehorning of some cattle around Brownsville. He had taken their tem-perature one day, and five days after the operation and had seen one operation. He did not now think it was painful, and could did not now think it was paint; and could see no symptoms of pain. The operation was entirely justified by the results. Mr. Elliot was very skillful in cutting off the horns. It was impossible for a cow to bleed to death from the artery severed in dehorn.

Eliot was very skillful in cutting off the horns. It was impossible for a cow to bleed to death from the artery severed in dehorning.

L. A. Brown, V. S., of Aylmer, had dehorned a large number of cattle and thought that the pain was sharp while the cutting was going on, but not excruciating, as stated. Two months after the operation he had seen the defendant's cattle, and they were in excellent condition.

THURSDAY MORNING.

When court opened at 10 this morning Thomas Rutherford, of Dereham, was called. Last spring he had dehorned thirteen of his cows and eight more just before Christmas. It was a common thing for cows to have their udders bruised. In some cases they lose one-quarter and in others nearly one-half of the bag. Bloody milk was sometimes the result. They were harder to stable and much harder to drive through a lane when they had their horns. Since the cows were dehorned they were quiet and equally as intelligent. Three out of eight of his cows discharged pus, but they were all healed a few days ago. He has not used any covering. His cows milked better now than they did before they were delorned. He considered the benefits derived as more than sufficient reason for the operation. The cows did not moan or bellow from the pain. In his experience of 25 years the usual way taken by cows of showing pain was not by moaning nor bellowing. They would do this under very severe pain. Fastening the cow's head as he bad done for the operation would not prevent her from showing that she was in pain. He dehorned the cow's to protect the weaker members of the herd, as he knew of no way in which he could do it so well. He could not say that at the time he dehorned his cattle any of them were suffering from goring or hooking, but he would say that he thought likely some of them were.

The court here referred to the unusual conduct of the audience, and said that if it

Resorts—Great Demana to Mourning Goods.

London, Jan. 28.—The official returns of mortality, showing that the grip is spidemic at Brighton as well as in the large cities, have frightened the visitors at the fashionable health resorts, and they are leaving in large numbers. The local papers bewait this movement, which threatens to ruin the season, and declare that the returns are misleading. It is claimed that the majority of the deaths which have occurred have been to invalid who contracted the influenza elsewhere, and came to Brighton in a debilitated state.

Some districts report an abatement of the prevalent malady, but, on the other hand, the disease is spreading to many localities heretofore exempt, so that it cannot be said that the whole of the epidemic is disappearing from England.
