The Son of the Italian Patriot a Fighter.

Organized Battalions to Aid the Greeks -His Warlike Career.

Ricciotti Garibaldi, who has organized three regiments of volunteers for service in the Greek army in Crete, is no stranger on the battlefield, and won his spure more than 30 years ago. He is the eldest son of the Italian patriot, Guiseppi Garibaldi, was born in 1847 and was consequently about 2 years old when his father gained fame in the defense of Rome against the French, says a New York Tribune writer.

When the war for the liberation of Venice broke out, in 1866, Garibaldi recruited and commanded a body of vol-unteers, and Ricciotti held a minor commission. He was with the volun-teers when they advanced into the Trentino, and the command of which he was a member gained the only ous campaign. When the elder Gari baldi advanced against the papal troops a year later and tried to liberate Rome, his son was again one of his officers, and was among those who defeated the papal forces near Monterotonde on Oct. 25, 1867. He followed his father toward the papal strong tention of crossing the frontier, work-ing round and meeting the first in-in this battle that the then recently invented Chassepot rifle was used with murderous effect against Garibaldi's troops.
