A very large supply of hay on yesteray's market late in the day brought but the price half a dollar per ton, and though comparatively few loads were fered today, the price is still below the 3 mark; $12 50 is the present value of rst-class hay.

Grain is unusually scarce, but prices for shipping cattle was quite active, and prices were well maintained at yesterday's levels. A lot of rough stock was marketed, whereas the demand was only for choice cattle. However, the entire offering was pretty well cleared up by noon. Stockers and feders continued in active demand at current levels. About ten loads of western stockers were marketed. Milkers and springers were scarce and unchanged.

Ask John. This test is sufficient, we must agree, to prove that a great amount of horsepower in a small car is unnecessary; there being only 10 horsepower in the celebrated little Brush, but same is applied in a simple but very effective manner, which enables the Brush to "get there every time." The Brush, known as "Everyman's Car," will be cheerfully demonstrated by Mr. Alls, who can be reached at the Grigg House until Saturday night. The Brush sells for $650, with regular equipment
