THE TRIAL OPENED.

Before going on with the evidence in the conspiracy case, Mr. Irving stated that as his worship had made some objection to the second charge laid, that of bribery, he had drawn out fresh informations, charging the detendants separately with bribery. His worship did not see the use of accumulaing charges, upon which Mr. Irving promised that he would not ask for the committal of any of the defendants for bribery who might be committed on the conspiracy charge. The matter was decided by the magistrate amending the second informamagistrate amending the second informa-tion, knocking out all the counts but one, and charging the four defendants, Bunting, Wilkinson, Kirkland and one Lynch, wikinson, Kirkland and one Lynch, jointly with bribery. The two defendants Bunting and Wilkinson asked for trial by a jury, and Kirkland elected to be tried summarily. The names of Mr. Meek or Lynch do not appear in the second case. The original conspiracy case was then proceeded with

W. D. Balfour, member for South Essex, was the first witness, and he told sub-stantially the same story as he did before the Legislative committee. Kirkland's connection with the case, witness said in cannection with the case, witness said in substance, appeared to be in Kirkland's interests solely. Kirkland wanted the timber policy of the government changed and he told witness he would do anything short of murder to have it changed. He (Kirkland) did not care what government was in power as long as the timber policy was changed, to suit him. On the morning of March 11 kirkland told witness that he would give him $1200 if witness would make a speech in the legislature in favor of his timber policy. To witness Kirkland disclaimed any connection with other parties. At a

At a sured the committee that it had been desonversation with Wilkinson in his room Wilkinson showed witness a paper he had drawn up which was in effect the same as the copy of the round-robin published. He asked witness to sign that paper and he would give him a guarantee for any sum agreed upon. He would give witness $1000 cash, $1000 after the government had been defeated, and an appointment as a registrar in the Northwest. Wilkinson to him which read: "Toronto, March 11.—Come down and see me it possible at the Walker house, J. A. WILKINson." With regard to the unsigned letter written on telegram forms Mr. Goldie said that the only reason he could give for not signing was because it was writterina hurry. He said he had no intention not to sign it. Mr. Frazer emphatically denied the Mail's charges that he (Frazer) had withheld, purposely or otherwise, the round robin to defeat the government if witness would to defeat the government if witness would sign. Witness told him he would not then sign, but would cons der the matter. The same evening witness again saw Wilkinson, when he asked him if he would see Mr. Bunting if he arranged an interview.

Mr. Goldie, miller, of Guelph, testified as to Wilkinson's visit to him at Guelph and Wilkinson's subsequent letter to with least from Guelph. He had destroyed Wilkinson's letter, but there was nothing of importance in it. He had declined to have anything to do with Wilkinson's proposition. The only object he had in visiting Mr. Bunting was to find out what kind of a man Wilkinson was. Witness said he did not know Mr. Bunting personally.

Mr. Frazer emphatically denied the Mail's charges that he (Frazer) had withheld, purposely or otherwise, the round robin signed by McKim and Lyon, and alleged to have been found in Wilkinson's pocket after being arrested. Mr. Fraser said he had never seen the document. Mr. Balfour made some further explanations to the committee of his connection with the alleged conspirators.

Mr. Fraser read a report of the draft he proposed to submit to the committee as Musselman says the girl's soul is in heaven at times, and she is under the same conditions in which St. John was when he penned the Revelation. The girl lies on a pillow on the floor, and her descriptions of heaven and the angels are given in a loud tone of voice, and are highly sensational. The local press here is noticing the strange affair at length.

A STORY THAT APPLIES.

Two gentlemen on the street cars on Saturthis city not long since employed an agent to sell family bibles on the instalment plan of payment. Instead of doing this he sold his stock at a sacrifice and suddenly left for Uncle Sam's domains. The unfaithful agent, evi-lently feeling that someone had been guilty. wrote to his victim:
'SIR,—I hope God will forgive you for pla ing such a temptation before me.

Mr. Wilkinson went east immediately after arned yesterday morning getting on at Co-urg. Mr. Shields was on the train coming burg. Mr. Shields was on the train coming up, and quite accidentally they met. The in-terview was affecting; great tears rolled from their eyes as they compared notes, and looked at the pictures of themselves in the Globe.

The editor rose from his rickety chair And called his "devils" around, And he said: "Just look at our muddy streets, Where the aqueous streams abound;" And again he spoke in his gentle tones, As the melting snow he scanned, "Alas, for old winter's vaunted strength, For the spring is nigh at hand," But the editor gazed on the listening few With a wholly self-satisfied air,
