

NEW YORK EXCHANGE.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.—May 13, 1899.

GOVERNOR FLOWER'S DEATH CAUSES HEAVY REACTION—SATISFACTORY BANK STATEMENT.

New York, May 13.

London market is demoralized, prices are down 1 to 2½.

Foreigners sold from 25 to 40,000 shares in all.

Gov. Flower's death will undoubtedly hit the market hard, but we do not expect any panic and have reason to believe that the market will be supported.

The interests associated with Flower, such as D. O. Mills, A. Brady and the Rockfellers, will undoubtedly consult their best interest by taking care of the market. We advise no precipitate action on liquidation.

The death of Gov. Flower is a terrible blow, not only for Wall street but for the country at large. He was a recognized leader among men and particularly during the past few years he has been regarded as the one man in Wall street. Naturally his sudden death is a calamity that cannot be fully realized at the moment.

The pool in sugar is most confident of higher prices.

There was little new in the stock market yesterday. Both speculative parties are to some extent threshing old straw. The bears are still talking about the heavy falling off in the condition of the winter wheat crop in the larger surplus states and are solemnly delivering orations upon the great danger involved in the extravagant over-capitalization of new industrial combinations.

These arguments for a decline have been heard for the last two months, and they had sufficient merit, coupled with some untoward accidents, like the Populist Tax Law driven through the New York Legislature in the closing days of its session, to produce a decline in prices of stocks from 8 to 15 p.c. on the average.

These declines did not come about gradually, and under a so to speak rotting away process. To a large extent they have been violent—sufficiently so to have produced an enormous liquidation of long accounts at the Stock Exchange.
