

Out for a Morning Canter The younger members of the Royal Family have all inherited King George's love for horseback exercise. This picture shows Princess Mary and Prince George riding in the park at Windsor attended by a groom from the Royal stables.