IF YOU HAVE A COUNTRY HOME, SUBSCRIBE TO AN ILLUSTRATED WEEKLY JOURNAL. GARDEN AND FOREST. HORTICULTURE, LANDSCAPE ART AND FORESTRY.

GARDEN AND FOREST will be under the editorial control of Professor Charles S. Sargent of Harvard, who will be assisted by Professors W. G. Farlow of Harvard, and A. S. Packard of Brown University, as editors of departments; by Mr. W. A. Styles, as Managing Editor; and by the most accomplished corps of contributors ever associated with any journal of the kind.

GARDEN AND FOREST will deal with Horticulture in all its branches, and with the important questions arising out of the relation of the forests to the soil, climate, water supply, health and general material development of the country. It will give special attention to landscape gardening, the planning and planting of private gardens and grounds, and will endeavor to assist all who desire to make home surroundings attractive and artistic. It will co-operate with village improvement societies and every other organized effort to secure the proper ordering and maintenance of parks and squares, cemeteries, railroad stations, school grounds, roadsides, etc.

The illustrations—including representations of plants never figured before—will be of a high order; and the journal will be an attractive one in every respect.

For Sale on all News Stands. Subscription Price, $4.00 a year, in Advance.

PRESS NOTICES

A weekly journal of the highest character. . . . Will unquestionably rank with the most comprehensive and valuable periodicals of the kind now published.—GEORGE WILLIAM CURTIS, in the "Easy Chair" in Harper's Magazine for March.

Takes instant rank as the leading journal of horticulture, landscape art and forestry published in the country.—Philadelphia Press.

The field of the new periodical is by no means a narrow one, and includes whatever attracts readers interested in either of the subjects embraced in its double title, from the professed botanist to the suburban resident who wishes to embellish a modest bit of lawn. . . . It is an unusually handsome paper.—N. Y. Times.

It is the ablest and most attractive paper of its kind that ever appeared in the United States.—Troy Telegram.

GARDEN AND FOREST is remarkable for the rare excellence of its illustrations. . . . The drawings of flowers in each number are admirable, and the landscape views are a surprise in their delicacy of finish.—Buffalo Courier.
