BRIGHTER TODAY IS REPORT MADE ON THE EPIDEMIC

Perceptible Decrease in the Number of New Cases of Influenza.

NURSES BADLY WANTED

And Some Doctors Are Ill From Their Recent Exertions.

"Things are brighter on the whole today," is the statement that has come from the Institute of Public Health, and also from the medical officer of health in regard to the Spanish influenza epi-demic in London. While there have been half a dozen or so deaths overbeen half a dozen or so deaths overnight, there is a perceptible decrease in the number of new cases. At the camp, where there has been one more death, practically no new cases have developed in the past 48 hours.
At the same time, there is an imperative need of more nurses. The nurses who have been on duty for two weeks and more, whether they have contracted influenza or not are wornout, and in influenza or not, are wornout, and in milienza or not, are wornout, and in some cases must be relieved or probably suffer serious consequences.

All classes of people are calling for nursing help which neither love nor money at times can procure. One family, it is stated, would pay forty dollars a week to a trained nurse if the trained

Forty-five families have been supplied by Miss

Fidlar with nurses, and there are still numbers of families requiring them. Different Germs Blamed. A statement made by a prominent local doctor throws some light on the fact that the disease varies in its character more than could be accounted for by the difference in constitutions of those attacked. According to this physician, research points to the fact that the epidemic is caused, not by one germ, but by several.

Some of these cause the acute type of influenza, of which there has been an increasing number of cases the past ten days, while other germs are responsible for the milder cases which are long continued, though not so dangerous. The acute cases terminate quickly either in acute cases terminate quickly either in recovery or sudden death. Since, acrecovery or sudden death. Since, according to this scientist, epidemic influenza is not caused by one germ, but possibly by several, the obvious inference, it is stated, is that it will be the more difficult to find a specific cure.

Confirmation.

Another doctor's statement bears out the theories of the one already quoted.

Another doctors statement bears out the theories of the one already quoted. The second doctor found early in the epidemic conflicting symptoms that were most perplexing. I have seen all the infectious cases in town for the past four years. All that I have done was to wash my haids afterwards and I have never carried anything in the way of disease, home to my children on my clothe."

Under the circumstances, it was necessary for the local board to comply, though one member voiced the opinion that it was upsetting much that had been achieved. "I think they might have left the matter to the discretion of local boards," was his dissent.

The acting chairman of the board, ex-Ald. H. M. Douglass, mentioned the fact that he had been called up in regard to a wedding to be held in one of the city churches this evening. His reply had been that the rule applied that the gathering should be kept as small as possible, not more than 25 people, according to the board's ruling.

Dr. Downham stated he had received a similar query from someone who feared that people would crowd into the church. As the name of the inquirer was not given, he did not know whether it was a relative of the contracting possible or not

The trouble was that he did not know of the affair until he read about it in the morning papers next day. The robber reached Midhurst about 5:30 o'clock in the afternoon Wednesday, the day of the robbery, and bought buns and honey from the constable, who keeps a general store and postoffice. The thief had a very frugal meal, for which he paid 45 cents, and sat outside the constable's store for a while with the stolen Ford sedan belonging to H. S. Fergus of Toronto, for his dining-room. He was there from 5 p.m. until 11 o'clock at night, when he went over to a farm, a stone's throw away, to put the automobile in a shed.
