Lloyd-George Said To Have Deliberately "Cooked" the > Revenue Estimates— Bitter Struggles Are Predicted.

Week-end London cables give some interesting opinions on the British budget, as extracts given herewith will show.

T. P. O'Connor, in The Chicago Tribune, says: Lloyd-George's budget is the most sensational for half a century. Already two political parties have heaped on it such a multitude of epithets of glowing eulogy or vehement denunciation that one newspaper describes it as the adjectival budget. It then collects some scores of ad-jectives hurled at it, beginning with great, human, democratic, and poor man's budget, and ending with virdictive, penal, red flag, plundering, Socialistic, and a last free trade budget.

Its popularity with the English masses certainly is undoubted. Every enemy of radicalism is punished and the house of lords especially is defied and answered back by the taxation of everything it has succeeded in defending from legislation since the Liberals came into office. The licensing of land on its valuation—everything, in fact, which the Liberals tried to attack by legislation and the lords rejected—now is subjected to big if not attack by legislation and the lords re-jected—now is subjected to big if not vindictive taxation. More public houses of the smaller kind will be destroyed under the budget than under the licensing bill, and more money will be taken from the big land lords, es-pecially in the towns, than under the land or valuation bills passed by the commons and rejected by the lords. In short, this budget is the answer of the radical ministry to the tyranny contributes to make the house of lords the big dominating issue with the next

The widespread interest which the $15,000 prize contest, announced in The Sunday World, has aroused, leads The World to suggest that the public watch both the daily and Sunday editions for all future announcements.

It is impossible to answer the many communications and enquiries by telephone and letter.
