COBB PUT ONE OVER ON LEE MCELWEE Stole Home While Former N. B. Player Argued With Umpire "Hans" Wagner, while in New York the other day, was discussing Ty Cobb, the world's greatest baseball player. Wagner was speaking of the Georgia Peach's alertness and told the following, in which Cobb put one over on Lee McElwee, a former Houston player: "The things I like best about Cobb's playing," said Hans, "are his ambition to win all the time and his brainy playing. Ty is alert every minute of the time, and not only is it well nigh impossible to catch him napping, but if you are not careful he'll get you off your guard. Take, for instance, the manner in which he stole home while McElwee, third baseman of the Athletics, held the ball a week or so ago. Cobb slid into third base on a close play and the umpire called him safe. McElwee began to argue with the umpire about the decision, forgetting to watch Cobb meanwhile, and Ty need for the plate and made it. He probably figured that McElwee would say about six words to the umpire, which would give him time enough to get a good start for the plate and, as usual, he figured correctly."

SPORT NEWS OF THE DAY HOME AND ABROAD

BASEBALL A Great Record. Spokane, Wash., Sept. 22—What is believed by local authorities to be a new fielding record for organized baseball has been made by Eddie Mensor, a member of the Spokane Club, in the Northwestern League. Mensor played in 114 games during the season, and handled 289 chances without an error. In five games he played second base, three at third base and the rest in the outfield. Mensor came to the Spokane club from the Richmond club in the International League last winter. In 1911 he played shortstop on the Portland Northwestern League club, and was sold to Pittsburg for $8,000. Mensor played with the Pirates during the seasons of 1912, 1913 and 1914, and was sold by Pittsburg to Columbus in the American Association. He did not take kindly to his berth, however, and a deal was closed by which he came to Spokane this year. Mensor batted .308, and his playing had a lot to do with Spokane's winning of the pennant.

Mitchell Signs With Braves. Boston, Sept. 18—Fred Mitchell, for the last few seasons assistant to Manager Stallings of the Boston National League baseball team, today signed a contract with the club for three years. Last spring Mitchell was coach of the successful Harvard nine, but the new contract bars him from further work of directing college teams. Mitchell formerly played in St. John's RING.

News of the Boxers. Jim Healey, a new Irish heavyweight idol, was put down and out in three rounds by a novice in New York the other night. Champion Kilbane has accepted an offer of $25,000 box Benny Leonard in New York next month. Gus Christie will tackle Bat Levinsky in Memphis, Sept. 26. California promoters make it a point to see that the scrappers who are to box for them do training in the ring in that country. Frank Thorne, an Australian featherweight, who began boxing in 1888, is still making good in the ring in that country. Shamus O'Brien has been offered a chance to box Joe Mandot in Memphis. Paddy Lavin, a Buffalo middleweight, who has forsaken the ring, is now conducting indoor baseball in his home city. Ever Hammer and Shamus O'Brien will box in Columbus on Sept. 22. Jack Britton expects to arrive back from Buenos Ayres on Oct. 1. Jack Britton and Tom Coffey have been signed for Schenectady on Oct. 1. Chased From the Ring. When Terry Brooks of the West End hit Joey Connelly of Charlestown foul in the eleventh round of their bout in the Armory A. A. on Tuesday night, says the Boston Globe, he not only was the loser, but started a disturbance the like of which has not been seen in any boxing club there in a long time. Brooks, who had been severely punished by Connelly during the battle, received more punishment from the friends of Connelly, who rushed into the ring. The fact that Brooks is a speedy runner enabled him to get away from the drug store before any of the angry friends of Connelly could get at him again in the street. Brooks will never forget his experience and the large crowd of fans present will remember the affair for some time. It was an exciting battle and Connelly gave Brooks a bad lacing in every round. Soon after the eleventh started, the pair got to mixing it near Connelly's corner when Brooks let fly a right which caught the Charlestown boxer in the groin. Connelly started to sink to the mat, but Referee Maffitt Flaherty held him and pushed Brooks toward his own corner. Brooks had reeled his corner when the manager of Connelly, one of his seconds, jumped into the ring and going over to Brooks, dealt him several right handers on the jaw. This was the signal for a general rush of Connelly's friends into the ring. Hats were soon flying and some of Connelly's own friends and employees of the club, who were trying to quell the trouble, received some of the punches intended for Brooks. The latter was driven out of the ring, receiving wallops all the time. Finally he was protected, but unwilling to apologize. The instant he entered the ring he was saluted by one of Connelly's friends with a stool that hit him in the stomach. After getting some more wallops, Brooks decided that a hasty exit was the best thing for him. He jumped from the ring and started for the exit with an angry crowd of Connelly's friends in close pursuit. He reached St. Botolph street, turned into Gainsborough and reaching a drug store on the corner, dove through the swinging doors. The proprietor, seeing the crowd chasing Brooks, told the latter to go into the cellar, and he took his advice. The store was soon filled with the pursuers of Brooks and others who had joined in the chase out of curiosity. A taxi was engaged and Brooks made a getaway without receiving any more punishment. As soon as he got out of the club-house the officers of the club quieted the fans and the referee declared Connelly the winner. The officials of the club have put up the bars against Connelly's manager. Connelly put up one of the best battles of his career and walloped Brooks from the start. A twelve-round bout between Pat Moore of Memphis and Frankie Britt of New Bedford was a fast contest. The referee called it a draw, but the majority of the fans thought that Moore deserved the decision.

THE INTERNATIONAL CLUBS ARE PLEASED WITH THE RESULTS. New York, Sept. 18—Much more success from a financial standpoint than in the two previous years, the International League closed its 1916 season Sept. 17. Buffalo is the pennant winner this year, clinching the championship after one of the most thrilling races in the history of the league. Ed G. Barrow, president of the league, said the club owners are much satisfied with the results of the season. "The last two previous years, he said, have been very hard financially on the managers, and with the Federals out of the way this year several of the clubs have made money. Bad weather early in the spring knocked the clubs out of some of their best dates, holidays, Saturdays and Sundays, and there was some loss. Barrow, however, is optimistic and declares the league will resume its old standing with little difficulty next year. Newark, Barrow stated, has been a consistent tail-end club and has lost as all last place clubs do. "Toronto, he said, has proved a surprise to the league by the way it has supported its club. Buffalo and Providence, he said, should show a good profit on the season. "Whither away?" "To call on our new neighbors." "You consider that a duty?" "Not at all. But I was away the day they moved in, and so didn't get to see their furniture." Game licenses, also guns and rifles to hire. Sertner's, 59 King square. 9-29, 18, Red Sox.
