The regulations under which motor cars may enter Fernhill cemetery stipulate that cars must enter the cemetery from the Old Westmorland Road and South Avenue following the route indicated by white signs, passing out by Dell Avenue and Marsh Road, from which gate cars are not allowed to enter. The speed must not be more than eight miles per hour and turning will not be permitted, nor stoppage of cars on avenues for more than a few minutes at a time. ## MORE SETTLERS COMING HERE NEXT MONTH

New Brunswick Well Thought of in the Old Land — Newspaper Extracts.

Another party of settlers from the old country, organized by the Provincial Immigration Department, being the third party this season, is expected to arrive in New Brunswick early next month. Superintendent Gilchrist said yesterday that the British press continues to give prominence to this province as a desirable field for settlers. Among other articles recently published in prominent newspapers overseas is one calling attention to the remarkable development of St. John as the nation's winter port and another calling attention to the forest wealth of New Brunswick. These articles are here reproduced.

The Winter Port

"The development of St. John, New Brunswick, as a national winter port is emphasized by the value of exports from that centre for the fiscal year ended March 31st, 1915, which amounted to $3,774,586. This total is more than double the 1914 figures and shows also a ninefold increase of $2,600,000 compared with 1913, which was considered to be the banner year of this great Canadian winter port."

New Brunswick Forests

"The New Brunswick forests are extremely rich in the variety of their trees. There is not much pine left now, and the most valuable tree of that family is the spruce, but among hard woods there is a great wealth of maple, elm, oak, birch, beech and ash. About 275,000 worth of forest exports come from New Brunswick to the British Isles every year, and about 225,000 worth is sent by the province to other countries. In addition to the export trade, there is a good local demand at good prices. A considerable increase in export is anticipated as a consequence of the war, a large continental demand being probable."

GISSY FITZGERALD

FILM AT IMPERIAL

Famous Actors in Vitagraph Comedy—Another Splendid Vaudeville Offering.

If you want to enjoy a good hearty deep-chested laugh hear Booby and Everdeen at the Imperial. No duet of performers seen at the big house for a long time has put on a more amusing frame-up of songs, jokes, conversation and travesty. Miss Everdeen is a versatile young person and her rube number, parrot song and burlesques were capital. Mr. Booby, besides being a pianist of merit, sings that "paper bag cooking" song as the author evidently intended it should be sung. His collaboration with Miss Everdeen in "Becky at the Movies" and the illustrated song rehearsal sketch made the skits the artistic success which they were. Both these little farces tickled the crowds greatly. Everybody laughed long and loud in fact the act was a bit throughout.

The picture feature "A Win(k)some Widow," featuring the well-known comedienne Gissy Fitzgerald, was another of the Vitagraph Company's notable successes. In the cast were such favorites as L. Rogers Lytton, Nicholas Dunaw, Hughie Mack, Wallie Van and others and the frothy little plot was a delicious bit of fun. The piece was set up with all the attention to detail and richness that this company is noted for, making the story especially attractive. Miss Fitzgerald was of course the bright shining star in the play and created no end of merriment. The Animated Weekly showed the late Frank Holt, who so murderously attacked J. P. Morgan and scenes at the tragedy. There were numerous English recruiting and soldierly views in connection with the war. A dashing daring story of the Hazards of Helen railway adventure series completed the sprightly bill.

For Wednesday and Thursday William J. Locke's notable novel "The Morals of Marcus" will be screened by the Famous Players Film Co., with the renowned actress Marie Doro in the role of Charlotte. It is claimed that Mr. Locke had expressly written his well-known story for Marie Doro he could not have improved upon the theme or the role with their vast treasure of opportunity congenial to the talents of this wonderful star. "The Morals of Marcus" is one of the prettiest love stories written in years.

CITY CHILDREN WILL ASSIST IN STIMULATING RECRUITING

Parade of Youngsters Having Relatives on Active Service Will be Feature of Demonstration—Evening Meeting in King Square.

In order to stimulate interest in recruiting for the 55th New Brunswick Battalion and to bring home to the people of St. John the need of more men in the Empire forces, the children of the city will take part in a demonstration this afternoon, the feature of which will be a grand street parade.

Children, who have parents or relatives at the front to the number of nearly five thousand will be in line and march from King street east to the North End. Each child will carry a flag and appropriate banners will be displayed in the procession. Several bands will give their services in the cause and it is hoped that the children will inspire patriotic sentiment in the breasts of those who may be able to offer themselves as recruits for the 55th Battalion and other regiments which may be formed in the near future.

The evening will be given over to a grand patriotic meeting in King Square in which it is hoped to secure many recruits. A feature of the evening's proceedings will be a band concert in the King Square band stand and a temporary recruiting office in the court house.

Plans Complete

Arrangements for the children's recruiting parade were further advanced at a meeting of the citizens' patriotic recruiting committee held yesterday afternoon and everything is in shape for the carrying out of the plan on the part of the citizens to stimulate recruiting.

The children to the number of about 4,000 will assemble at the different playgrounds throughout the city as soon after noon as possible and under their respective supervisors and assistants will march on King St. east. Transportation for 1,000 children from North End has been arranged with the street railway company and between 1:30 and 2:00 o'clock special cars will be on hand at Douglas avenue with the right of the line station for the children. As there will not be enough tickets for all, the older children are asked to walk over and report on the parade ground. C. D. Howard, chief marshal, will be stationed there and will arrange the assembling of the children.

The procession will be divided into three sections, each headed by a brass band. The first section, headed by the City Cornet band and made up of a detachment of D Company of the 55th Battalion, automobiles carrying veterans of the Crimea and children of the Aberdeen playgrounds, will fall in on the south of King street east with the right of the line station in Wentworth street. The second section, headed by the Sons of England band and made up of the children from the Centennial and Allison playgrounds, will fall in on the north side of King street east with the right of the line station in Wentworth street. The third section, headed by a brass band and made up of the West St. John and North End children, will fall in on Leinster street.

The Line of March

The route for the parade was decided as follows: King street to Wentworth, to Princess to Charlotte to Duke to Germain to Union to Sydney to south side of King Square to Charlotte to King to Market Square to Dock with the right of the line station.

On reaching Douglas avenue the procession will counter march on the left side of Main street and the children from North End only will disband there. When Market Square is reached on the return the West St. John children will disband. The remainder will proceed up King to King Square where the bands will play the national anthem, the children all joining in the singing.

Will Carry Flags

The flags which will be carried by children are now on hand and the chief marshal has distributed some around to the playgrounds to avoid the rush in the afternoon. On the return each boy and girl is expected to deliver back the flags to the supervisors.

The banners with suitable inscriptions, prepared by members of the staff of M. R. A. Ltd. are now ready. Mr. Cosman of Sydney street has also donated twenty-five additional banners. Fifty sticks for the banners were donated by the Christie Woodworking Co.

No child under five years of age will be allowed to march and mothers are asked to co-operate in enforcing

COLIN M'KAY ON HOSPITAL SHIP IN CHANNEL

Standard Man Has Entered Service of Admiralty—Signed Articles for a Year

Colin McKay, who has been a valued member of the Standard staff, has severed his connection with this paper and has entered the service of the Empire as third officer on the hospital ship, St. George, which is carrying wounded soldiers from France to England. Mr. McKay left St. John several weeks ago on the St. George and has been in England since. Letters from him have been printed in The Standard.

The letter telling of his determination to enter the service of the King was received yesterday. It was as follows:

"I regret very much to have to sever a very pleasant connection with The Standard. But I am afraid to stop in London lest a motor bus or Zeppelin run over me, and as I see the German papers are declaring that Zeppelins will have to be sent across the Atlantic to teach some people a lesson, I am afraid to return to Canada. So I thought the best course was to go to sea and I joined the St. George again. She was fitted up by the Admiralty as a hospital ship to run between the town where they burnt Joan of Arc and Southampton."

"Captain Cardiff is in command, with Mr. Barclay, who has lived some years in St. John, as chief officer, and Mr. Leonard, a native of St. John, as second officer. Mr. Kelly, the chief engineer, and Mr. Planagan, the second engineer, who came to St. John in the boat, are still in her, and another engineer, Mr. McCarthy, hails from St. John. Mr. McDonald, well known to St. John people crossing the Bay of Fundy, also remains.

"The ship is fitted up to carry over 200 helpless men and in addition 600 or more wounded, able to walk around. The chief medical officer is a Canadian, Major DeVine of Winnipeg, and he has under his command three army surgeons, a matron and a bunch of nurses, a staff sergeant and twenty-eight men of the R. A. M. C. There are on articles for twelve months. There is some talk of sending us to the Dardanelles, but I doubt it."

Besides Mr. McKay the other members of the Standard staff on active service are: Major A. J. Markham, 6th Mounted Rifles; Lieutenant J. Edgar March, 26th Battalion; Sergeant Daniel Hayward, Royal Canadian Regiment, Bermuda; Private James Gaulton, 26th Battalion; and Trooper Peter Holcroft, 6th Mounted Rifles.

Two Interesting Letters Received by Mrs. E. W. Chase of Hawthorn Avenue.

Mrs. E. W. Chase, of Hawthorne avenue, has just received a letter from her son, now on active service in which he says "I am in a convalescent hospital and expect to go back to the battery any day. I have been with Gordon Nuttall for the last few days, as his regiment is not far from the hospital. I have also been talking to George Curran, and have seen B. Alward, another St. John boy who is looking fine. It is good to get away from the sound of the guns for a while."

Mrs. Chase has also received a letter from her sister in England in which she says: "We visited two Canadian camps and had tea. One was at Sandling and the other at St. Martins. Major McLean and Colonel Rogers and his wife dined with us on Sunday. The soldier boys told lots of stories of the war, and how some of them had been wounded. They said they used to talk to the Germans and exchange cigarettes and tobacco. Then the boys would write a sign on a post and stick it out so that the English boys could see it and know when there were orders to shoot. The officers used to prod these German boys and stand over them and make them shoot. In some trenches they had the cat-o-nine-tails and used to thrash the men severely if any of them shirked."
