NOVA SCOTIA SHIPPING

Many Vessels Ashore or Missing and Some Lives are Lost

HALIFAX, Oct. 4.—The tropical hurricane which swept the north Atlantic the end of last week and the beginning of this, brought death or shipwreck to at least five big and staunch Nova Scotia freighters.

Seven hundred miles off New York, enroute, with 'lumber, from Ingram Port, N.S., to Buenos Aires, Capt. Angus Richards of La Have and one of the crew, name unknown were carried overboard from the four masted vessel "Governor Parr," The "Parr" was built at sibility that a German Ministerial Parrsboro in 1918, but was registered at Barbados.

The three master Parrsborg schooner "Cape Blomidon," is hard ashore at Port Hawkesbury, whither she dragged Tuesday.

Another three master, the E.C. Adams," out of Lunenburg, is despatch from Berlin. high and dry at River John, Pictou County, on the Northern Nove Scotia shore. She broke her anchor at the height of the gale on

Neither the Blomidon nor the Adams appeared much damaged. Considerable anxiety is expressed by Zweicker and Company of Lunenburg over their four masted vessel "Arthur H. Zwicker," commanded by Captain Walter Creaser and her crew of seven. The Zwicker was enroute from Halifax to Chatham, N.B., to load lumber for New York, and was sighted in Northumberland Straits on Sunday and should have arrived at her destination on Monday at the latest. The three masted schooner Chataqua, from Gaspe for New York, with laths, has arrived at Port Hawkesbury, stripped of Canvas and deckload, and leaking badly.

The Cape Blomidon was in ballast from New York to load lumber at Gulf of St. Lawrence ports. The Adams was also light from Lunenburg for Gaspe to load shingles for Barbados.
