

DOHERTY & DOHERTY, ADVOCATES, &c. No. 80 St. James Street, Montreal.

POND'S EXTRACT. THE GREAT VEGETABLE PAIN DESTROYER AND SPECIFIC FOR INFLAMMATION AND HEMORRAGES.

Rheumatism, Neuralgia. No other preparation has cured so many cases of these distressing diseases.

Hemorrhages. Bleeding from the nose, or from any cause, is speedily controlled and stopped.

Diphtheria & Sore Throat. Use the Extract promptly. It is a sure cure. Delay is dangerous.

Catarrh. The Extract is the only specific for this disease.

Sores, Ulcers, Wounds, Sprains and Bruises. It is a healing, cooling and cleansing agent.

Burns and Scalds. For allaying the pain and promoting the healing process.

Inflamed or Sore Eyes. It can be used without the slightest fear of harm.

Eache, Toothache and Faceache. When the Extract is used according to directions.

Piles, Blind, Bleeding, or Itching. It is the greatest known remedy.

For Broken Breast and Sore Nipples. The Extract is so effective.

Female Complaints. No physician can be called in for the majority of female diseases.

CAUTION. Has been imitated. The genuine has the words "Pond's Extract" on the wrapper.

MILK OF MAGNESIA. Cures Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Sour Stomach and Sick Headache.

FOR SALE BY ALL DRUGGISTS. Wholesale by Lyman Sons & Co., Kerry, Watson & Co., H. Sugden Evans & Co., H. Haswell & Co.

LUBY'S FOR THE HAIR. There are persons who would make use of various preparations.

GRAY'S SPECIFIC MEDICINE. THE GREAT ENGLISH REMEDY. Will promptly cure any skin disease.

TRADE MARK. Will promptly cure any skin disease.

TRADE MARK. Will promptly cure any skin disease.

TRADE MARK. Will promptly cure any skin disease.

TRADE MARK. Will promptly cure any skin disease.

CATHOLIC NEWS. The Marquis of Bute lately presented to the church at Oumook three lamps of solid brass.

The London correspondent of the Cork Examiner says that the inmates and conductors of St. Peter's Retreat, a Ritualistic hermitage in Dulwich Common, South London, have joined the Catholic Church.

On the 11th, Ash Wednesday, several families of distinguished persons, Roman and foreign, were admitted to the Pope's private Mass at half-past seven a.m.

The Catholic population of Canada numbers 1,816,800 souls. There are four archbishops, 19 bishops, and 1,599 priests.

An unusual ceremony took place at the Utica, N.Y., Citizens' Corps Armory, on February 3. At a Catholic fair Chaplain Gardner, an Episcopal clergyman, was voted a sword.

Cardinal McCloskey, Archbishop of New York, on the anniversary of the Holy Father's coronation, sent him a telegram of congratulation.

The fund for the "Stained Glass Window," soon to be placed over the altar in St. Francis Xavier's Church, Brockville, in memory of the late Bishop of Kingston, has now reached the neighborhood of $600.

Last June eighteen Catholic missionaries started from Algiers on their way to the heart of Africa, and two months afterwards they arrived safely at Ugho, since which nothing has been heard of them.

The Whitehall Review says: "In April we shall have two Cardinals, instead of one only, in London, for the great Oratorian has determined to travel southwards, if he can leave his beloved Edgbaston, and will probably be the guest of Cardinal Manning, or else of the Duke of Norfolk, his former pupil.

The archdiocese of Boston, with 310,000 Catholics, has but 16 parochial schools. Cleveland, with only 125,000 Catholics, has 117 Catholic schools.

A committee of Roman Catholic school teachers has been formed to organize entertainments throughout London in aid of the Irish sufferers.

The Rev. Fr. P. Dunne, after being on the mission to Australia for over thirty years, having been at various times stationed in Victoria, Queensland, and latterly in New South Wales, intends leaving for Ireland in the ship Garonna, of the Orient fleet, which is appointed to leave Sydney on the 13th and Melbourne on the 20th of March.

His Eminence Cardinal Newman is confined to his residence at the Oratory, Edgbaston, near Birmingham, from the effects of an accident he met with a few weeks ago.

The Feast of Saint John the Baptist, which occurs on June 24, is the day adopted for the celebration of the second centenary of the Order of the Brothers of the Christian Schools.

The Abbe Blin says of him: "He showed particular devotion to Saint Cassian, who by his zeal in the instruction of youth had gained the martyr's crown. He had still greater devotion to Saint John the Baptist, whose name he bore, and whom he imitated so well by his innocence, penances, withdrawal from the world, and continual prayer."

Brother Irlide thus addresses the Christian Brothers in an admirable circular lately issued: "Several official documents, particularly the bull In Apostolica dignitate solio of Benedict XIII., of happy memory, as well as the remarkable Brief which showed such paternal solicitude, Inter graves, of Pope Pius VI., fixes the year 1680 as the beginning of our Institute, although we can go back to the middle of the year 1679, if we remember, that the two first Christian schools were opened at Reims through the exertions of the Venerable de la Salle. In the month of July of that year (the exact day is uncertain), M. Niel and his companion came from Rouen to take charge of a free school opened in the parish of Saint Maurice, and in the month of September of the same year, 1679, a similar school was opened in the parish of Saint Jacques. But it was in the year 1680 that the year was given to the little community which, since spread over the world."

Quebecers objected to Mrs. Siddons' reading the Jackdaw of Rheims, owing to certain satirical allusions to Roman Catholics.

Is "the devil made cock" as some one has said (before Joseph was born, though), he arranged that they should be well paid for the trouble they give. French cooks in New York fare better in this way than a good many journalists, doctors and lawyers.

Mr. O'Leary—Well, I don't care about discussing political questions; but I may just observe that on the whole Canada is prosperous, and is a country of unlimited resources, which time and population will develop.

Mr. O'Leary—Oh, yes; but I know the United States and Canada tolerably well, having in 1874 and 1875 traveled in both countries to inquire into immigration matters, and in 1876 I came to the Centennial Exhibition.

This brought the interview to a close. Mr. O'Leary, who is a man of large information, and an excellent conversationalist, on shaking hands with the reporter, expressed his thanks to The Star for the assistance it has given to the Irish cause.—N.Y. Star.

Mr. O'Leary—Yes, I sail on Thursday by the Celtic, as I am anxious to take part in the general election, which, no doubt, will be one of the most important since the union, both for England and Ireland.

HOW IRELAND'S CAUSE PROGRESSES. Mr. Peter O'Leary, whose views on the state of Ireland had prominent and most welcome place in The Star on his arrival from the old country some months ago, has made an extensive tour in Canada.

Mr. Peter O'Leary, whose views on the state of Ireland had prominent and most welcome place in The Star on his arrival from the old country some months ago, has made an extensive tour in Canada.

Mr. O'Leary—Yes, I sail on Thursday by the Celtic, as I am anxious to take part in the general election, which, no doubt, will be one of the most important since the union, both for England and Ireland.

Mr. O'Leary—Yes, I sail on Thursday by the Celtic, as I am anxious to take part in the general election, which, no doubt, will be one of the most important since the union, both for England and Ireland.

Mr. O'Leary—Yes, I sail on Thursday by the Celtic, as I am anxious to take part in the general election, which, no doubt, will be one of the most important since the union, both for England and Ireland.

Mr. O'Leary—Yes, I sail on Thursday by the Celtic, as I am anxious to take part in the general election, which, no doubt, will be one of the most important since the union, both for England and Ireland.

Mr. O'Leary—Yes, I sail on Thursday by the Celtic, as I am anxious to take part in the general election, which, no doubt, will be one of the most important since the union, both for England and Ireland.

Mr. O'Leary—Yes, I sail on Thursday by the Celtic, as I am anxious to take part in the general election, which, no doubt, will be one of the most important since the union, both for England and Ireland.

Mr. O'Leary—Yes, I sail on Thursday by the Celtic, as I am anxious to take part in the general election, which, no doubt, will be one of the most important since the union, both for England and Ireland.

Mr. O'Leary—Yes, I sail on Thursday by the Celtic, as I am anxious to take part in the general election, which, no doubt, will be one of the most important since the union, both for England and Ireland.

Mr. O'Leary—Yes, I sail on Thursday by the Celtic, as I am anxious to take part in the general election, which, no doubt, will be one of the most important since the union, both for England and Ireland.

Mr. O'Leary—Yes, I sail on Thursday by the Celtic, as I am anxious to take part in the general election, which, no doubt, will be one of the most important since the union, both for England and Ireland.

Mr. O'Leary—Yes, I sail on Thursday by the Celtic, as I am anxious to take part in the general election, which, no doubt, will be one of the most important since the union, both for England and Ireland.

Mr. O'Leary—Yes, I sail on Thursday by the Celtic, as I am anxious to take part in the general election, which, no doubt, will be one of the most important since the union, both for England and Ireland.

Mr. O'Leary—Yes, I sail on Thursday by the Celtic, as I am anxious to take part in the general election, which, no doubt, will be one of the most important since the union, both for England and Ireland.

Mr. O'Leary—Yes, I sail on Thursday by the Celtic, as I am anxious to take part in the general election, which, no doubt, will be one of the most important since the union, both for England and Ireland.

Mr. O'Leary—Yes, I sail on Thursday by the Celtic, as I am anxious to take part in the general election, which, no doubt, will be one of the most important since the union, both for England and Ireland.

Mr. O'Leary—Yes, I sail on Thursday by the Celtic, as I am anxious to take part in the general election, which, no doubt, will be one of the most important since the union, both for England and Ireland.

Mr. O'Leary—Yes, I sail on Thursday by the Celtic, as I am anxious to take part in the general election, which, no doubt, will be one of the most important since the union, both for England and Ireland.

Mr. O'Leary—Yes, I sail on Thursday by the Celtic, as I am anxious to take part in the general election, which, no doubt, will be one of the most important since the union, both for England and Ireland.

Mr. O'Leary—Yes, I sail on Thursday by the Celtic, as I am anxious to take part in the general election, which, no doubt, will be one of the most important since the union, both for England and Ireland.

Mr. O'Leary—Yes, I sail on Thursday by the Celtic, as I am anxious to take part in the general election, which, no doubt, will be one of the most important since the union, both for England and Ireland.

Mr. O'Leary—Yes, I sail on Thursday by the Celtic, as I am anxious to take part in the general election, which, no doubt, will be one of the most important since the union, both for England and Ireland.

Mr. O'Leary—Yes, I sail on Thursday by the Celtic, as I am anxious to take part in the general election, which, no doubt, will be one of the most important since the union, both for England and Ireland.

IRISH NEWS. A list of thirty-five candidates who were successful for appointments as surgeons in Her Majesty's British Medical Service at the competitive examinations held in London on February 9th is published.

A list of thirty-five candidates who were successful for appointments as surgeons in Her Majesty's British Medical Service at the competitive examinations held in London on February 9th is published.

Our Mallow correspondent informs us that a new salmon has been captured in the Blackwater, which is of exceptional size.

The collision in the House between the O'Gorman Mahon and Mr. Egerton, the Conservative member for Mid Cheshire, in which the former threw down a very distinct challenge to further proceedings outside, has (says a London correspondent) been quickly followed by another affair of honor that threatens to become a still more serious one.

During the recent severe thunderstorm in this district, two persons, a young man and woman, named Reilly, were killed by lightning. They belonged to the humbler class, and resided with their parents in a one-storyed thatched cottage, at a place called Gramore, near Dunmanway, in the west of the County Cork.

Mr. O'Leary—No; Canadian papers are like American. They criticized his work, but, as a rule, they wrote respectfully of him. Some for and some against; while the Montreal Post, throughout good and evil, championed his cause, the Post being an Irish daily journal of extensive circulation.

Mr. O'Leary—No; Canadian papers are like American. They criticized his work, but, as a rule, they wrote respectfully of him. Some for and some against; while the Montreal Post, throughout good and evil, championed his cause, the Post being an Irish daily journal of extensive circulation.

Mr. O'Leary—No; Canadian papers are like American. They criticized his work, but, as a rule, they wrote respectfully of him. Some for and some against; while the Montreal Post, throughout good and evil, championed his cause, the Post being an Irish daily journal of extensive circulation.

Mr. O'Leary—No; Canadian papers are like American. They criticized his work, but, as a rule, they wrote respectfully of him. Some for and some against; while the Montreal Post, throughout good and evil, championed his cause, the Post being an Irish daily journal of extensive circulation.

Mr. O'Leary—No; Canadian papers are like American. They criticized his work, but, as a rule, they wrote respectfully of him. Some for and some against; while the Montreal Post, throughout good and evil, championed his cause, the Post being an Irish daily journal of extensive circulation.

Mr. O'Leary—No; Canadian papers are like American. They criticized his work, but, as a rule, they wrote respectfully of him. Some for and some against; while the Montreal Post, throughout good and evil, championed his cause, the Post being an Irish daily journal of extensive circulation.

Mr. O'Leary—No; Canadian papers are like American. They criticized his work, but, as a rule, they wrote respectfully of him. Some for and some against; while the Montreal Post, throughout good and evil, championed his cause, the Post being an Irish daily journal of extensive circulation.

Mr. O'Leary—No; Canadian papers are like American. They criticized his work, but, as a rule, they wrote respectfully of him. Some for and some against; while the Montreal Post, throughout good and evil, championed his cause, the Post being an Irish daily journal of extensive circulation.

Mr. O'Leary—No; Canadian papers are like American. They criticized his work, but, as a rule, they wrote respectfully of him. Some for and some against; while the Montreal Post, throughout good and evil, championed his cause, the Post being an Irish daily journal of extensive circulation.

Mr. O'Leary—No; Canadian papers are like American. They criticized his work, but, as a rule, they wrote respectfully of him. Some for and some against; while the Montreal Post, throughout good and evil, championed his cause, the Post being an Irish daily journal of extensive circulation.

Mr. O'Leary—No; Canadian papers are like American. They criticized his work, but, as a rule, they wrote respectfully of him. Some for and some against; while the Montreal Post, throughout good and evil, championed his cause, the Post being an Irish daily journal of extensive circulation.

Mr. O'Leary—No; Canadian papers are like American. They criticized his work, but, as a rule, they wrote respectfully of him. Some for and some against; while the Montreal Post, throughout good and evil, championed his cause, the Post being an Irish daily journal of extensive circulation.

Mr. O'Leary—No; Canadian papers are like American. They criticized his work, but, as a rule, they wrote respectfully of him. Some for and some against; while the Montreal Post, throughout good and evil, championed his cause, the Post being an Irish daily journal of extensive circulation.

Mr. O'Leary—No; Canadian papers are like American. They criticized his work, but, as a rule, they wrote respectfully of him. Some for and some against; while the Montreal Post, throughout good and evil, championed his cause, the Post being an Irish daily journal of extensive circulation.

Mr. O'Leary—No; Canadian papers are like American. They criticized his work, but, as a rule, they wrote respectfully of him. Some for and some against; while the Montreal Post, throughout good and evil, championed his cause, the Post being an Irish daily journal of extensive circulation.

Mr. O'Leary—No; Canadian papers are like American. They criticized his work, but, as a rule, they wrote respectfully of him. Some for and some against; while the Montreal Post, throughout good and evil, championed his cause, the Post being an Irish daily journal of extensive circulation.

Mr. O'Leary—No; Canadian papers are like American. They criticized his work, but, as a rule, they wrote respectfully of him. Some for and some against; while the Montreal Post, throughout good and evil, championed his cause, the Post being an Irish daily journal of extensive circulation.

Mr. O'Leary—No; Canadian papers are like American. They criticized his work, but, as a rule, they wrote respectfully of him. Some for and some against; while the Montreal Post, throughout good and evil, championed his cause, the Post being an Irish daily journal of extensive circulation.

Mr. O'Leary—No; Canadian papers are like American. They criticized his work, but, as a rule, they wrote respectfully of him. Some for and some against; while the Montreal Post, throughout good and evil, championed his cause, the Post being an Irish daily journal of extensive circulation.

AGRIULTURE. The best place of all in which to store manure, until it can be carted on to the land, is in a tight cellar immediately under the animal yard, which, if made, where it will absorb all their urine, and will be protected from freezing, from the drying effect of winds, and from the action of rats. No labor of handling and forking over is required, and it will be done by the hogs and pigs as they feed, and the manure will be mixed and compost the mass better than any number of forking would do it.

The best place of all in which to store manure, until it can be carted on to the land, is in a tight cellar immediately under the animal yard, which, if made, where it will absorb all their urine, and will be protected from freezing, from the drying effect of winds, and from the action of rats. No labor of handling and forking over is required, and it will be done by the hogs and pigs as they feed, and the manure will be mixed and compost the mass better than any number of forking would do it.

The best place of all in which to store manure, until it can be carted on to the land, is in a tight cellar immediately under the animal yard, which, if made, where it will absorb all their urine, and will be protected from freezing, from the drying effect of winds, and from the action of rats. No labor of handling and forking over is required, and it will be done by the hogs and pigs as they feed, and the manure will be mixed and compost the mass better than any number of forking would do it.

The best place of all in which to store manure, until it can be carted on to the land, is in a tight cellar immediately under the animal yard, which, if made, where it will absorb all their urine, and will be protected from freezing, from the drying effect of winds, and from the action of rats. No labor of handling and forking over is required, and it will be done by the hogs and pigs as they feed, and the manure will be mixed and compost the mass better than any number of forking would do it.

The best place of all in which to store manure, until it can be carted on to the land, is in a tight cellar immediately under the animal yard, which, if made, where it will absorb all their urine, and will be protected from freezing, from the drying effect of winds, and from the action of rats. No labor of handling and forking over is required, and it will be done by the hogs and pigs as they feed, and the manure will be mixed and compost the mass better than any number of forking would do it.

The best place of all in which to store manure, until it can be carted on to the land, is in a tight cellar immediately under the animal yard, which, if made, where it will absorb all their urine, and will be protected from freezing, from the drying effect of winds, and from the action of rats. No labor of handling and forking over is required, and it will be done by the hogs and pigs as they feed, and the manure will be mixed and compost the mass better than any number of forking would do it.

The best place of all in which to store manure, until it can be carted on to the land, is in a tight cellar immediately under the animal yard, which, if made, where it will absorb all their urine, and will be protected from freezing, from the drying effect of winds, and from the action of rats. No labor of handling and forking over is required, and it will be done by the hogs and pigs as they feed, and the manure will be mixed and compost the mass better than any number of forking would do it.

The best place of all in which to store manure, until it can be carted on to the land, is in a tight cellar immediately under the animal yard, which, if made, where it will absorb all their urine, and will be protected from freezing, from the drying effect of winds, and from the action of rats. No labor of handling and forking over is required, and it will be done by the hogs and pigs as they feed, and the manure will be mixed and compost the mass better than any number of forking would do it.

The best place of all in which to store manure, until it can be carted on to the land, is in a tight cellar immediately under the animal yard, which, if made, where it will absorb all their urine, and will be protected from freezing, from the drying effect of winds, and from the action of rats. No labor of handling and forking over is required, and it will be done by the hogs and pigs as they feed, and the manure will be mixed and compost the mass better than any number of forking would do it.

The best place of all in which to store manure, until it can be carted on to the land, is in a tight cellar immediately under the animal yard, which, if made, where it will absorb all their urine, and will be protected from freezing, from the drying effect of winds, and from the action of rats. No labor of handling and forking over is required, and it will be done by the hogs and pigs as they feed, and the manure will be mixed and compost the mass better than any number of forking would do it.

The best place of all in which to store manure, until it can be carted on to the land, is in a tight cellar immediately under the animal yard, which, if made, where it will absorb all their urine, and will be protected from freezing, from the drying effect of winds, and from the action of rats. No labor of handling and forking over is required, and it will be done by the hogs and pigs as they feed, and the manure will be mixed and compost the mass better than any number of forking would do it.

The best place of all in which to store manure, until it can be carted on to the land, is in a tight cellar immediately under the animal yard, which, if made, where it will absorb all their urine, and will be protected from freezing, from the drying effect of winds, and from the action of rats. No labor of handling and forking over is required, and it will be done by the hogs and pigs as they feed, and the manure will be mixed and compost the mass better than any number of forking would do it.

The best place of all in which to store manure, until it can be carted on to the land, is in a tight cellar immediately under the animal yard, which, if made, where it will absorb all their urine, and will be protected from freezing, from the drying effect of winds, and from the action of rats. No labor of handling and forking over is required, and it will be done by the hogs and pigs as they feed, and the manure will be mixed and compost the mass better than any number of forking would do it.

The best place of all in which to store manure, until it can be carted on to the land, is in a tight cellar immediately under the animal yard, which, if made, where it will absorb all their urine, and will be protected from freezing, from the drying effect of winds, and from the action of rats. No labor of handling and forking over is required, and it will be done by the hogs and pigs as they feed, and the manure will be mixed and compost the mass better than any number of forking would do it.

The best place of all in which to store manure, until it can be carted on to the land, is in a tight cellar immediately under the animal yard, which, if made, where it will absorb all their urine, and will be protected from freezing, from the drying effect of winds, and from the action of rats. No labor of handling and forking over is required, and it will be done by the hogs and pigs as they feed, and the manure will be mixed and compost the mass better than any number of forking would do it.

The best place of all in which to store manure, until it can be carted on to the land, is in a tight cellar immediately under the animal yard, which, if made, where it will absorb all their urine, and will be protected from freezing, from the drying effect of winds, and from the action of rats. No labor of handling and forking over is required, and it will be done by the hogs and pigs as they feed, and the manure will be mixed and compost the mass better than any number of forking would do it.

The best place of all in which to store manure, until it can be carted on to the land, is in a tight cellar immediately under the animal yard, which, if made, where it will absorb all their urine, and will be protected from freezing, from the drying effect of winds, and from the action of rats. No labor of handling and forking over is required, and it will be done by the hogs and pigs as they feed, and the manure will be mixed and compost the mass better than any number of forking would do it.

The best place of all in which to store manure, until it can be carted on to the land, is in a tight cellar immediately under the animal yard, which, if made, where it will absorb all their urine, and will be protected from freezing, from the drying effect of winds, and from the action of rats. No labor of handling and forking over is required, and it will be done by the hogs and pigs as they feed, and the manure will be mixed and compost the mass better than any number of forking would do it.

The best place of all in which to store manure, until it can be carted on to the land, is in a tight cellar immediately under the animal yard, which, if made, where it will absorb all their urine, and will be protected from freezing, from the drying effect of winds, and from the action of rats. No labor of handling and forking over is required, and it will be done by the hogs and pigs as they feed, and the manure will be mixed and compost the mass better than any number of forking would do it.

The best place of all in which to store manure, until it can be carted on to the land, is in a tight cellar immediately under the animal yard, which, if made, where it will absorb all their urine, and will be protected from freezing, from the drying effect of winds, and from the action of rats. No labor of handling and forking over is required, and it will be done by the hogs and pigs as they feed, and the manure will be mixed and compost the mass better than any number of forking would do it.

The best place of all in which to store manure, until it can be carted on to the land, is in a tight cellar immediately under the animal yard, which, if made, where it will absorb all their urine, and will be protected from freezing, from the drying effect of winds, and from the action of rats. No labor of handling and forking over is required, and it will be done by the hogs and pigs as they feed, and the manure will be mixed and compost the mass better than any number of forking would do it.

The best place of all in which to store manure, until it can be carted on to the land, is in a tight cellar immediately under the animal yard, which, if made, where it will absorb all their urine, and will be protected from freezing, from the drying effect of winds, and from the action of rats. No labor of handling and forking over is required, and it will be done by the hogs and pigs as they feed, and the manure will be mixed and compost the mass better than any number of forking would do it.

The best place of all in which to store manure, until it can be carted on to the land, is in a tight cellar immediately under the animal yard, which, if made, where it will absorb all their urine, and will be protected from freezing, from the drying effect of winds, and from the action of rats. No labor of handling and forking over is required, and it will be done by the hogs and pigs as they feed, and the manure will be mixed and compost the mass better than any number of forking would do it.

The best place of all in which to store manure, until it can be carted on to the land, is in a tight cellar immediately under the animal yard, which, if made, where it will absorb all their urine, and will be protected from freezing, from the drying effect of winds, and from the action of rats. No labor of handling and forking over is required, and it will be done by the hogs and pigs as they feed, and the manure will be mixed and compost the mass better than any number of forking would do it.

GENERAL NEWS. THE O'TOOL'S OF LONG ISLAND.—The Tullihills of Cutchogue, Long Island, form a very extensive family, possessing large tracts of land in that vicinity, and priding themselves on being the descendants of the oldest settlers.

THE O'TOOL'S OF LONG ISLAND.—The Tullihills of Cutchogue, Long Island, form a very extensive family, possessing large tracts of land in that vicinity, and priding themselves on being the descendants of the oldest settlers.

THE O'TOOL'S OF LONG ISLAND.—The Tullihills of Cutchogue, Long Island, form a very extensive family, possessing large tracts of land in that vicinity, and priding themselves on being the descendants of the oldest settlers.

THE O'TOOL'S OF LONG ISLAND.—The Tullihills of Cutchogue, Long Island, form a very extensive family, possessing large tracts of land in that vicinity, and priding themselves on being the descendants of the oldest settlers.

THE O'TOOL'S OF LONG ISLAND.—The Tullihills of Cutchogue, Long Island, form a very extensive family, possessing large tracts of land in that vicinity, and priding themselves on being the descendants of the oldest settlers.

THE O'TOOL'S OF LONG ISLAND.—The Tullihills of Cutchogue, Long Island, form a very extensive family, possessing large tracts of land in that vicinity, and priding themselves on being the descendants of the oldest settlers.

THE O'TOOL'S OF LONG ISLAND.—The Tullihills of Cutchogue, Long Island, form a very extensive family, possessing large tracts of land in that vicinity, and priding themselves on being the descendants of the oldest settlers.

THE O'TOOL'S OF LONG ISLAND.—The Tullihills of Cutchogue, Long Island, form a very extensive family, possessing large tracts of land in that vicinity, and priding themselves on being the descendants of the oldest settlers.

THE O'TOOL'S OF LONG ISLAND.—The Tullihills of Cutchogue, Long Island, form a very extensive family, possessing large tracts of land in that vicinity, and priding themselves on being the descendants of the oldest settlers.

THE O'TOOL'S OF LONG ISLAND.—The Tullihills of Cutchogue, Long Island, form a very extensive family, possessing large tracts of land in that vicinity, and priding themselves on being the descendants of the oldest settlers.

THE O'TOOL'S OF LONG ISLAND.—The Tullihills of Cutchogue, Long Island, form a very extensive family, possessing large tracts of land in that vicinity, and priding themselves on being the descendants of the oldest settlers.

THE O'TOOL'S OF LONG ISLAND.—The Tullihills of Cutchogue, Long Island, form a very extensive family, possessing large tracts of land in that vicinity, and priding themselves on being the descendants of the oldest settlers.

THE O'TOOL'S OF LONG ISLAND.—The Tullihills of Cutchogue, Long Island, form a very extensive family, possessing large tracts of land in that vicinity, and priding themselves on being the descendants of the oldest settlers.

THE O'TOOL'S OF LONG ISLAND.—The Tullihills of Cutchogue, Long Island, form a very extensive family, possessing large tracts of land in that vicinity, and priding themselves on being the descendants of the oldest settlers.

THE O'TOOL'S OF LONG ISLAND.—The Tullihills of Cutchogue, Long Island, form a very extensive family, possessing large tracts of land in that vicinity, and priding themselves on being the descendants of the oldest settlers.

THE O'TOOL'S OF LONG ISLAND.—The Tullihills of Cutchogue, Long Island, form a very extensive family, possessing large tracts of land in that vicinity, and priding themselves on being the descendants of the oldest settlers.