

own internal affairs with institutions reformed to meet their growing condition in population, wealth and commerce.

Under these circumstances, it is hoped no embarrassment will occur in the future conduct of the public affairs, from any question respecting those revenues, which it ought to be equally the common interest of all to apply to the improvement of the country. The House of Assembly have ever made a liberal provision for the support of His Majesty's Government, and will doubtlessly continue to do so, by raising even by further taxation, if necessary, an adequate supply, whenever they shall find the natural resources of the country, comprehended under the Casual and Territorial Revenue, to be insufficient for that purpose. And that a copy of this Resolution be sent to His Excellency, with a request that he will transmit the same to His Majesty's Principal Secretary of State for the Colonies.
