

Tigers roar to win at Point Pleasant Park Hosts dominant at Dalhousie Open BY AMY HIGGINS AND

This past weekend the men and women of Dalhousie's Cross Country team blew away the competition at Point Pleasant Park, adding to Dal's streak of victories

In the women's race, Kristin Lewis took advantage of the perfect conditions to be the first varsity runner in the shoot, a mere second behind independent runner Heather Goodfellow. Goodfellow was lucky to escape with the win after Lewis' inspired kick with 500 metres to go. Because Goodfellow is not a member of an AUAA team, Lewis continues her six-race undefeated streak in AUAA competition. Taking the number two position was Sandy Smith. Despite the fact that Smith refers to herself as one "giant slow twitch muscle", she put in a very solid effort to overcome the challenge posed by Andrea MacDonald (independent) over the final meters. Team captain Juliet Thornton finished fifth.

The Tigers were thrilled with their 36 point victory over Memorial University, which they achieved without core team member Kelly McKean, who was sidelined by illness.

In the men's race, Dal finally fielded their entire squad and were determined to take the Dalhousie meet.

Open title - which they did by a stunning margin of 59 points. Leading the way were veterans Dan Hennigar and Neil Manson. The two duked it out over the ten kilometre course, with Manson shielding Hennigar from the harsh wind for most of the race. Hennigar passed his teammate down the final straight to take the title. A relaxed looking Scott Simpson finished third. Tom Wallace, a transfer student from Queen's who is ineligible to compete for the Tigers this year, finished seventh.

Next weekend, the Tigers travel to the University of Maine to compete in a NCAA Division One
