

persons English. Both in the interests of Canada and of this country it is necessary to preach greater tolerance towards the English newcomer. Every immigrant who goes out to Canada and, meeting with inconsiderate treatment, feels dissatisfied, writes discouraging letters home to his friends. Scores do it regularly. And what is the good of proclaiming to the residents of this country the advantages and possibilities of a land of promise—such as in all sober truth it is—to be reached with the cheapest of cheap fares, if the trusting immigrant on his arrival comes face to face with the notification whose truth is soon borne in on him that “No English need apply”?
