

Two simple white wooden seats that invite to idling; out-of-doors ought to be liberally furnished with such as these

Following the same lines a single seat of the semicircular type occupies another focussing point in the same garden