> According to Esther Materkuler, the wife of H. Kowshin, the fire was started by the accidental overturning of a pan of goose grease which she was preparing for the Passover ceremonies. Mrs. Kowshin's home is at 1469 Garnier street, and is owned by Aloof's wife. The flames, which spread rapidly in the one-storey premises, soon reduced the whole place, consisting of three tenements, to ashes

Commissioner Latulippe adjourned the enquiry to permit Detective Armand Brodeur to secure the presence of two witnesses who, it is believed by the Court, can give evidence that will assist in establishing the loss on the property.
