FIVE-MINUTE SERMONS FOR EARLY MASSES

By the Paulist Fathers. reached in their Church of St. Paul the Apostle, Fifty-ninth Street and Ninth Avenue, New York.

SIXTH SUNDAY AFTER PENTECOST.

"And they had nothing to eat."

The people who crowded about our Lord had nothing to eat, because out of love of the word of God they had for a time quit their work and their homes. This docility, this constancy argues well for their earnestness in the fulfilment of all their other duties. They were out of food, not through laziness, but because of set purpose they preferred spiritual to temporal nourishment. Hence they merited this extraordinary and unlooked for manifestation of our Lord's goodness and providence in supplying them with food.

mention distributions, which introduces for mainfestation of our Jord's goodness and providence in supplying these with the first much. I guess it will be the last time, Jerry, for I feel awful weak to-day. Now, The sesistance of God even in temporal want and necessity four housest endeavors fail. We are not to be overselled to the search of the session of the search of the session of the search of the se great law of labor.

Now, I have frequently noticed one peculiarity about many of those who say they have nothing to eat, and that is, they cannot be said to have nothing to drink; and the presence of this kind of nourishment explains very often the lack of all other. No, my brethren, let us be industrious, mindful that the law of God has imposed labor on us; let us try to help ourselves; then, if we fail, heaven will surely help us, even in ways as truly miraculous as our Saviour did the multitude in the desert.

There is no preparation before the people to-day that commands their confidence more, or meets with a better sale than does Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry—the infallible remedy for all forms of Summer Complaints.

There is no remedy known to medical science that can excel Dr. Fowler's Extract of Wild Strawberry as a cure for Cholera Morbus, Diarrhœa, Dysentery, or any form of Summer Complaint affecting children or adults. Unknown.

An Invisible Foe.

The poisonous germs of disease are lurking in the air we breathe and in the water we drink. The system should be kept carefully purified and all the organs toned to proper action. This can best be done by the regulating, purifying and conic powers of Burdock Blood Bitters.

ONLY A NEWSBOY.

I know that deep within your heart of hearts You hold me shrined apart from common things.

And that my step, my yoice can bring to you a gistances that no other presence brings.

And yet, dear love, through all the weary days you never speak one word of tenderness. Nor stroke my hair, nor settly elasp my hair, berhaps, I should be all content to know so well the loving place I hold within your life, and so you do not dream flow much I loag to hear the story told.

I weary sometimes of the rugged way, But should you say, "Through thee my life is sweet," The dreariest desert that our path could cross would suddenly grow green beneath my freet.

Where he came from, nobody knew and few cared. His parents, he said, were dead and he had no friends. It was a hard life. Up at four c'clock in tend morning after sleeping in a dry goods box or in an alley, he worked steadily till late at night. He was misused at first. Big boys stole his papers or crowded him out of a warm place at night, but he never complained. The tears would well up in his eyes, but were quickly brushed away and a new start braying made. Such conduct won him fried is, and after a time no other dared play tricks upon little Joe. His friends he remembered, and his enemies he for gave. Some days he had especially good luck, Kind-hearted people pitied the little fellow and bought papers whether they wanted them or not. But he was sure to get my first appeared on the story of New York two years ago. He was a smile. Where he came from pointed light, with great brown eyes and pinched light, with Little Joe first appeared on the streets enough to buy a supper as long as Joe had a penny.

But the hard work and exposure began to tell on his weak constitution. He kept growing thinner and thinner, till there was scarcely an ounce of flesh on his little body. The skin of his face was drawn closer and closer, but the pleasant look never faded away. He was uncomplaining to the last. Two weeks ago he awoke one morning after working hard selling "extras" to find himself too weak to move. He tried his best to get upon his feet, but it was a vain attempt. The vital force was gone.

"Where is little Joe?" was the universal inquiry. Finally he was found in a secluded corner, and a good-natured hackman was persuaded to take him to the hospital at Flatbush, where he said he once lived. Every day one of the boys went to see him. On Saturday, a newsboy who had abused him at first and learned to love him afterwards, found him sitting up in his cot, his little blue-veined hand stretched out upon the coverlet.

"I was afraid you wasn't coming, Jerry," he said with some difficulty, "and I wanted to see you once more so much. I guess it will be the last time, Jerry, for I feel awful weak to-day. Now, Jerry, when I die I want you to be good for my sake. Tell the boys."

But his message never was completed. Little Joe was dead. His sleep was calm and beautiful. The trouble and anxiety on his wan face had disappeared. But the expression was still there. Even in death he smiled.

It was and news that Jerry bore back to his friends on that day. They feared the end was near, and were waiting for him with anxious hearts. When they saw his tear-stained face they knew that little Joe was dead. Not a word was said. They felt as if they were in the presence of death itself. Their hearts were too full to speak.

That night 100 boys met in front of the City Hall. They felt that they must express their sense of loss in some way, but how they did not know. Finally, in accordance with the suggestion of one of the larger boys, they passed a resolution which read as follows:

Why suffer from weak nerves, want of appetite, and general debility? letting the loss of sleep and rest impoverish the system and thin the blood, when such a really meritorious remedy as Northrop & Lyman's Quinine Wine may be had at any drug store. This article is recommended by the highest members of the medical faculty in cases of indigestion, general debility, loss of appetite, and nervous affections of all kinds. It is also specially beneficial to children and delicate females, and to business men, students, and those who have much brain work. We would say, Never be without it. It will strengthen you, keep your system in regular order, and enable you to successfully grapple with the work you have to do. It is pleasant to the taste, and contains nothing injurious to the most delicate constitution. Remember to ask for the Quinine Wine, prepared by Northrop & Lyman, Toronto, and we are sure you will be astiafied that you have full value for your money. Druggists sell it.

To most children the bare suggestion of a dose of castor oil is nauseating. Why not, then, when physic is necessary for the little ones, use Ayer's Cathartic Pills? They combine every essential and valuable principle of a cathartic medicine, and being sugar-coated are easily taken.
