leaves of absence and come over by the next ship, and we'll be married. I'll be the happiest fellow alive, Stuart, the day after tomorrow.

"This is all nonsense, you know, Hammond," he said, gravely, "folly—madness, on your part. A week ago, when we thought of the case before, the case looked very different, you see; then I would have shaken hands with you and bestowed my blessing upon your future mediocrity.

"My family may go—hang it!" burst forth the young man. "What the deuce have they got to do with it? If I'm willing, I'm willing."

Next day, a gray overcoat, gloomy day, the ship sailed. Captain Hammond went down to the pier, and there he met the young man, who was waiting for him.

"A postponed marriage is the most unlucky thing in the world."
"Let me tell you, I do in commonsense," he returned, "and you'll be a spoiled child, Victor, crying for the moon."

"There was nothing for it but obedience," he said, "and I was obliged to do as I was told. It was his first parting from Edith.
How he felt it, no words can tell. But the fact remained."

She drew a long, deep breath as she said, "I was obliged to do as I was told.
It was his first parting from Edith. How he felt it, no words can tell. But the fact remained."

Fainted in Church.
THE DEPORTABLE CONDITION OF A YOUNG LADY IN BROOKVILLE.

A Case that Created Much Interest—Weak Almost Bloodless and Frequently Fainted by Her Bed—Again Enjoying Complete Health.

Readers of the Recorder have no doubt followed with interest the many instances related in these columns of recovery—sometimes of a very remarkable nature, of persons affected with dis-ease of different kinds, by the use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Apart from the marvellous recoveries, the accounts were interesting to the people of Brookville and vicinity, from the fact that this town is the home of the Dr.
Williams' Co., and the place where the celebrated medicine is made.
