PREY OF BANDITS

Sophia of Bavaria Bound and Gagged on Train and Robbed of all her Jewelry.

Act Committed by Three Well-Dressed Fellow-Occupants of the Compartment.

Vienna, July 29.—Italian railroads seem destined to maintain their reputation for insecurity, and those who travel on them are just as much in danger of brigands as were the tourists who in times gone by were wont when traveling by post chaise and by stage coach to be held up on the banditti-infested high roads of the Italian peninsula.

The latest victim of these Italian railroad brigands is the Duchess Sophia of Bavaria, married to Count Hans Torring, daughter of that Duke Charles Theodore of Bavaria, who is so famous as an oculist, and who is the eldest brother of the late Empress of Austria.

While traveling the other day on the line between Milan and Genoa she and her maid were suddenly seized, bound, gagged, and blindfolded by three well-dressed fellow-occupants of the compartment and robbed of all the valuable jewelry the Duchess had with her. The crime was not discovered until the train was on the point of reaching Milan, and in spite of every effort, no trace has been found of the robbers.

Duchess Sophia, whose sister is married to Prince Albert, the heir-apparent to the Crown of Belgium, and her third sister to the heir-presumptive to the throne of Bavaria, is a very attractive young woman, who, until her marriage, used to assist her father in his operations and in nursing his patients. Her husband, Count Torring, is the chief of one of those mediatized and formerly reigning families, who at one time exercised sovereign sway over the petty States of Germany, and who retain a number of Royal prerogatives, including that of making on a footing of equality with the reigning house of Europe.

W. E. Rispi, City Passenger and Ticket Agent, 115 King street, will issue tickets July 24th, 25th and 26th to Chicago and return at $2.70 each, good returning July 31st, and extension of time can be granted on payment of 50 cents in Chicago, good until 24th of August. He is also selling cheap tickets to Pan-American Exposition, Buffalo, and to Winnipeg and all points in the Northwest, special excursion July 23rd.

DISPOSE OF HER RELICS

How England Could Take Much Money Off Her War Bill.

The Americans Would Gladly Use Them for Commercial Purposes.

If England liked she could knock off a few noughts of her war bill by selling the relics of her great men to the United States. I know a man writes an American now "doing England" on the profits of the recent Wall street boom, who would gladly head a syndicate for the disposal of Shakespeare's house, the Carlyle, Cowper and Wesley museums, the Chesham House and all the other homes and haunts of dead English celebrities, and rebuild them as a suitable site within a twenty minutes car ride of Madison square, New York.

At half a dollar admission we (I should be one of the syndicate) would run an exhibition which, with the help of a water chute, a roof garden and a few artistically disposed Chinese lanterns, would put the Pan-American show in the shade as far as promoters' profits go.

We Americans are dying to buy up some of these tumble-down buildings that once sheltered brainy Englishmen. You pass them every day without a side glance at them. They do not appeal to you, and yet you refuse good, honest dollars for them!

In doing the sights of London, where I have come to rest a while after the recent "bum" in Wall street, I came across a boarding house under whose roof there used to live one of England's greatest actresses. For $2 a week you can eat and sleep in rooms once occupied by a woman whose name is known in every corner of the civilized globe! If we had had this house in New York, that old house is worth $10,000 to any go-ahead American who knows how to transpire it across the water.

Yesterday I lunched at the Chesham House, and I saw a woman sitting in Dr. Johnson's seat having a half-crown lunch. The fact that she was squatting on the exact spot where Dr. Johnson once sat, and that she was big things did not interfere with her appetite in the least.

I have a standing order from a restaurant keeper in New York to buy the seat of Dr. Johnson's chair, which he liked for it up to $5,000; but all he did was to smile and order a waiter to bring me some more potatoes.

I reckon that woman was having a cheap half-crown's worth. In New York we could get 500 people every day to take their turns sitting in that seat for one minute each at more money than she paid for that privilege and her lunch combined. I know as an absolute fact that the late Phineas T. Barnum paid $50,000 for the Chesham House as it stands. His idea was to take it to pieces and rebuild it in New York or Chicago. His check was refused. Then, again, could anything be more unbusinesslike than the way you ignore the money-making possibilities of Shakespeare's house? It is worth a cool two million dollars, if it is worth a cent.

And yet you leave it in a thinly populated place like Stratford-on-Avon! Why not transport it to Leicester square, where the people could go in their scores of thousands and see their shillings to see the desk at which the great man learned his A B C, and the sword and ring he wore on the day he was crowned?

I am prepared to give $2,000 for the sword alone. Hung over the bar of a certain Broadway saloon, it is calculated that the exhibit would increase the takings by 10 per cent. The sword would pay for itself in a little over a month. After that, of course, it would become a source of clear profit.

I figure it out that in ten years this ornament of the immortal William would have enhanced in value to something like $55,000—about as much as the House and good will of the restaurant is worth. Where it is now the sword is not producing more than 30 shillings a week. A stuffed maid would fetch more in New York than the sword. I discussed this side of England's commercial degeneracy with the minister of a leading Nonconformist chapel in Kansas. He told me that his deacons were willing to give $12,000 for Wesley's hymn book every first Sunday in the month, the congregation being expected to keep cool by HOT WEATHER WEAR at Weldon's. Ladies to make collars, also all styles made up. New style Bustles just in to suit any form. Girls' Corsets from 50c to $1.25. White wear for ladies and children; have all prices and sizes. pected to put only silver on the collection plate on those days. At the other services the hymn book would be loaned to the pew-holder who bid most for the use of it. When this scheme had been worked out, the hymn book would be raffled, or its separate leaves framed and sold for about $100 each. The minister was full of his idea, but I doubt if it will appeal to the trustees of the Wesley museum.

Carlyle would not prove so good an investment in the States as either Shakespeare or Wesley; but in the museum at Chesham is well worth $150,000. Transplanted to a suitable site in New York or Chicago, 1,000 persons could easily be got to visit the show every day. This would provide a 10 per cent. dividend after paying working expenses.

Cowper's place at Olney is also wasted. I could not find Olney when I set out to look for it, but I dare say the man at the Cowper house pay-box does not gather in more than $50 a year. It is enough to make "the gentle poet" sear in his grave to think he is not worth more than that.—Tit-Bits.

SHE DENIES IT NOW

Mrs. French, Who Confessed to Poisoning Her Husband, Evidently Demented.

Some Very Strange Letters Addressed to a Neighbor Found on Her Person.

Leslie, Mich., July 27.—Mrs. John D. French last night confessed that she administered poison to her husband, who is now at the University hospital, undergoing treatment and is in a fair way to recover. Her reason for the act is that her husband abused her abominably, and she fed him poison that would produce paralysis, so that he would be unable to continue beating her. The case is a strange one and develops a peculiar mania on the part of the woman. Before her marriage she was charged with attempting to poison the members of a family near Springfield, where she was employed. She was tried and acquitted. Less than four months after her marriage her husband developed symptoms of partial paralysis. Four weeks ago the strange affliction again developed, and she said he was suffering from a dose of poison administered by a neighbor. This led to an investigation, resulting in her confession.

French denies ill-treating his wife and says she is after his property.

UPROAR IN HOUSE

Noisy Early Morning Scene in the British Commons—Members "Named."

London, July 30.—There was a wild uproar in the House of Commons between one and two o'clock this morning on the conclusion of the debate on the taxation of agricultural property. Conservatives interrupted Mr. Walton, Liberal, with cries of "Divide." William Redmond, on a point of order, called the attention of the Speaker to the interruption, but the Speaker ruled the point was not well taken. Mr. Walton resumed, but quite inaudibly, owing to the persistent cries of "Divide." Mr. Redmond shouted "Police! police!" The Speaker said this expression was disorderly. Mr. Redmond: "Why don't you keep order?" Speaker directed him to leave the House, and named him. Mr. Balfour, the government leader, moved Mr. Redmond's suspension, and this was carried by a vote of 303 to 71. Patrick O'Brien persisted in the same point of order, and was in turn named and suspended. The bill was adopted.

There is more catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials.

ATTACKED BY TIBETANS.
London, July 30.—"The Russian government has been advised," says a despatch to the Daily Mail from St. Petersburg, "that 2,000 Tibetans on July 16, attacked Major Kosloff's expedition of 20 men, half of whom were shot down and the others severely wounded. The government will demand satisfaction."

THE BEST WORSTED SUITS

When we say "best" we mean something thoroughly high-class; something that shows the happiest union of quality and style.

The difference between best and other qualities of course begins at the mills. Fine suits must have fine cloth, and a big purchaser gets finer cloth for a given price than a small purchaser does. These great rolls of English worsteds that are labeled T. & D. at their very birth mean the plumpest value for your money, Mr. Retail Customer.

Then, having right material at a right price, the factory coins the suit and puts the guinea stamp on it. A clear cut, unmistakable stamp. "Fineness" it says, "fit, finish and long satisfying wear."

Three Prices by way of Example—

Here's a line of suits, in dark blue clay worsted, to realize the inner excellence of this suit you'll need a sample of the cloth, reveal it out and see how even, fine and tough the yarn is, made with double breasted vests, raised trouser seams and full equipment of side, hip and watch pockets, not a hint of ready-made anywhere about it. Men's Suits, of fine, even worsted, in either blue or brown mixture, made with choice of single or double breasted vests, raised trouser seams and both side and hip pockets in trousers. Men's Very Natty Suits, of fancy check worsted in black and gray with red hair line. This suit single breasted, step collar vest, side and hip pockets, raised trouser seams and a general air of expensive tailoring about it, the price is $12.00, $13.00, $15.00.

BACK FROM SOUTH AFRICA.

Quebec, July 29.—The S. S. Numidian, of the Allan Line, arrived in port at 5 o'clock this afternoon. Among the passengers were five officers and sixty-five men, of the Canadian Scouts, from South Africa. The names of the officers are as follows: Lieut. Callaghan, Lieut. Macdonald, Lieut. Ross, Lieut. Ryan, and Lieut. Thompson. Most of the men came straight from South Africa. They are all healthy. They speak of the hostilities in South Africa as being nearly over. Five of the privates, being from Quebec, have landed here. The fifty-five others are starting to-night on board the Numidian for Montreal.

BOAT OF FIRE

A New Yorker Proposes to Navigate Niagara Whirlpool and Rapids.

Niagara Falls, Ont., July 29.—Walter Johnston, of New York, announces that he proposes to navigate the whirl pool rapids and whirlpool in a boat of fire, and hopes to arrive the next day to tell the tale of his voyage to a wondering world that is ever looking to Niagara for a new sensation. Captain Johnston arrived at the Falls last Friday and immediately set out the preliminary details of his astounding scheme. He has already interested the mayor and prominent citizens of both sides of the river, and there is no doubt but that the attempt will be made shortly. Captain Johnston is 45 years of age. His early life was spent in England, where he developed a taste for aquatic sports, and became acquainted with Capt. Webb, with whom he often enjoyed a sail on the Thames. One of Capt. Johnston's first was the swimming of the rapids of the St. Francis river, near Wexon, Quebec. For some years he was employed by the fire department of New York, as a specialist in explosives, from the knowledge of which he will rely to a great extent in carrying out his new exploit. The craft he proposes using will be sixty feet long, thirty feet beam, and will draw three or four feet of water. It will be schooner rigged, and in place of sails will have a network of asbestos which will be converted into a seething mass of flames. The first three trips will be made as far as the cantilever bridge, and the fourth and last one will be continued through the rapids and through the whirlpool.

AERIAL NAVIGATION.

Paris, July 29.—M. Santos Dumont made another successful experiment this afternoon with a dirigible balloon, sailing it from St. Cloud to the Longchamps race course, around which he steered the balloon and ascended and descended, occupying 20 minutes of time. Though he was asked to make an attempt to go around the Eiffel Tower, the aeronaut declined, saying his motor was not yet working as well as he wanted. The weather was cloudy, which may have influenced his decision.

CANADA KEEPS THE CUE.

Montreal, July 29.—Canada keeps the Seawanhaka yacht cup. That was decided this afternoon, when the Canadian boat Sennerville defeated the English boat, Grey Friar, in the final race of the races, making three straight races for the Canadian boat. To-day's race was a two-mile race to windward and return, sailed three times. The start was made at 2:30 o'clock. The Sennerville got slightly the better of the start, by using the windward position. In the final heat to windward the Sennerville made a big gain, making the mark 6 minutes 23 seconds before the Grey Friar. On the run to the Grey Friar knocked off a couple of minutes, but the Sennerville had sufficient lead to give her the race, and she increased the lead until she was 6 minutes 50 seconds ahead. The Grey Friar reduced her lead a little on the last round, but the Sennerville finished 4 minutes 55 seconds before the Grey Friar. Lorne Currie, owner of the Grey Friar, after the race to-day, signified his intention of going to St. Paul, Minn., for a match race with the White Bear Club.

Why Catarrhozone Cures Catarrh

Because it is carried by the air you breathe to diseased parts, because it destroys the germ life that maintains the diseased condition, because it powerfully stimulates the mucous membrane to its normal action, because through its oxidizing power it burns up rapidly the old tissue and stimulates the formation of new healthy tissue. Catarrhozone is an absolute specific for Catarrh of every form, and never fails to cure. Catarrhozone is the only remedy sold with a guarantee. At all dealers, 25c. and $1.00.
