IS TO OFFER

Better Goods at Fairer Prices Than any Opposition can Give

The more we buy the cheaper we buy.

The more we sell the cheaper we sell. As we are now buying for two stores, we can buy in larger quantities, and thus sell cheaper. We desire to run Fair Price Drug Stores, where prices are not high enough to yield exorbitant profit or low enough to make purity and full strength impossible.

Better deal with us than where cut prices must mean cut quality.

Mail and 'Phone Orders given prompt attention.

F. B. CARVELL MAKES A FAIR OFFER.

Wants to See Proof That Real Emergency Exists.

Ottawa, Feb. 19-"Englishmen are not all la-di-dahs, with round pane of glass stuck over one eye, ah-ing and oh-ing, and talking empire-saving. Many of them have two eyes, clear eyes, and have them open. They are doing their part in empire build-

Mr. Carvell was dealing in his characteristically direct and determined way with the naval sit uation. The sturdy New Brunswicker resumed the debate when the house met today. Like other Liberal speakers, who have preceded him, he took strong exception to the patronizing-meddling to which Canada has been subjected at the hands of an indiscreet and ill-advised wing of the British Unionist party who mistake jingoism for imperialism. By the conduct of these voluntary evangelists a majority of the Canadian people were being arrayed in suspicion against much of what the party which they essaved to represent stood for.

These men, he pointed out, however, did not represent British thought. They were not men engaged in the practical and patriotic work of empire building. They had no part in the great reforms which were doing so much to inspire the whole of civiliza tion, the grappling with the land problem, the protection and care of old age, the people's budget and the emancipation of Ireland.

The men who were guiding the destinies of the motherland were

Mr. Carvell's arguments were directed to proving that no emergency existed and to show that Canada was both capable and equal to building her own navy. He condemned the idea of Canada participating in Britain's matters of peace and war by representation on the imperial naval defence

Mr. Carvell said that if there was any emergency, imminent danger, need, or call it what you like, no men would be more ready than the Liberals to take any action to allay an imperial peril. It the premier or any minister in authority would definitely assure parliament and the country that the admiralty said such a condition existed they would find none more ready to lend assistance than the Liberal opposition. Or it it were a matter in which the premier could not make a public declaration if he informed Sir Wilfrid Laurier, who was himself an imperial privy councillor, the result would be the same. But this Mr. Borden, Mr. Foster. Mr. Pelletier and none of the other ministers was able to do.

He quoted the opinion of the London Daily News, which recently said that the action of Canada in the matter of the navy was most unfortunate as it tended to jeopardize the arrangement | elated. recently made with Germany to keep the balance of fleet strength on the basis of sixteen British to ten German warships, and said that it would be far better for Canada to go ahead and create a navy of her own. This would be far more useful and less invonvenient to British statesmen in dealing with Germany. It was poor patriotism which paid a substitute to do its fighting. What was needed was a strong stock friends. rugged imperialism that wrought
