and he will be brought to this city for a hearing. The horse has changed hands three or four times since it was stolen. The animal brought $65 at auction in Strathcona, and the new owner promptly crossed the Saskat-chewan river and sold it in Edmonton for $135, making a tidy little sum in the two deals. Then it developed that the last buyer had a horse in his pos-session that belonged to a farmer near Leduc, and he is out $185 besides.
