Shakespeare's Macbeth

IN TWO REELS.

The present run of high class pictures exhibited at the Crescent Picture Palace is winning the favour of the people who nightly attend the big shows. The three reel feature of Monday and Tuesday has set them talking. For to-day and to-morrow Shakespeare's great tragedy, Macbeth, will be the leader. The famous act is divided into two parts and the characters are some of the world's noted performers, the leading lady is Madame Moyiski. The story is a very fascinating one and is bound to create no end of comment and interest. Three other pictures: "The Woman and the Law"—a Crystal drama with Pearl White; "Beautiful Bloritz"—a very interesting play; and "Hypnotized"—a sparkling comedy, are also very good.

The vocalist, Sidney Earnshaw, is certainly an entertainer of merit; his songs are certainly good ones, and for this mid-week bill will sing: "Just a Little Bit of Green."

On Friday and Saturday the feature picture is "The Spect" in two reels. Matinee every afternoon.

Long Life.

"I would not live away," some poet planned to say, when to his humble shack eight in a n-u-scrip-t a m e back. I would not live away, c'en though each passing day brought a o b l e s s i t s to me, and writes fair to see. If daylight never ceased, if in the golden East the setting sun should stand, at Jove's secret command, no longer go its way, and shine day after day, we'd weary of the sight, and we would long for night. And so with life, my friend; if it should never end, how tired we all would grow, of everything below! All things would then seem old, a tale that has been told too oft, without result, the whole world would seem stale, and we would stand and rave: "Ten dollars for a grave! Won't some accomplished guy instruct us how to die? We've hung around too long, a kind of mortal joys, we're tired of drawing breath, we're tired of all but death, which we'd regard a snap, but it is not on tap. We'd like ten yards of doom! Bring on the misfit tomb, the casket and the hearse, for life's become a curse!" I would not live away, my friend, by half a day!

The Big Show at Rossley's.

Notwithstanding the very disagreeable weather there was a crowded house at Rossley's last night. The comedy went with a swing and as usual had the house in roars; Felix Lane is a real live wire, and Tommy Lane is a great every time we see Thursday there will be a complete change of bill, while to-night there is a change of pictures; the pictures are among the finest ever seen here.

WATERWATCH LOADING.—The Waterwatch, Capt. Burke, is now loading codfish at Bowring Bros. for the Brazilian market.

Hr. Grace Notes.

Mrs. John Griffin is now at the General Hospital, St. John's, under treatment. Her friends hope the good treatment of the nurses and skill of the medical staff will cause her to return to them soon in perfect health.

A person who spent some time in the General Hospital a little while ago papers may be purchased at the institution, no copy of the Telegram could be had. This may be the newsboy's neglect. It is worth investigating.

The concert held by the St. Andrew's Christian Endeavour Society in aid of the Disaster Fund on Thursday night was a grand success, and the handsome sum of $44.00 was realized. The young people are to be congratulated.

A baby girl was born to Mr. and Mrs. James Gorman this morning. This makes a family of nine daughters to Mr. and Mrs. Gorman.

Mr. E. B. Thompson received word

Bell Island Notes

The Sealing Disaster was felt at Bell Island, as several of the victims had worked here.

The collection towards the Disaster Fund is very large here. The Council are conducting one. The mining companies are doing likewise and the churches also, so a large amount will be forwarded from Bell Island.

Sickness was prevalent here this past winter, and for the first time we, at the front of the Island had a resident physician of our own in Dr. H. A. Giovanetti, whose medical skill was largely availed of.

Dr. Ames has since started private practice at the mines and he lately assisted Dr. Giovanetti in successfully performing two difficult operations, one being Mr. T. Dwyer, for cancer of the lip, and the other a child named Crawley for club foot. These were the first operations of the kind performed here and it goes to show that the medical skill of the Island is able to cope with these cases without sending them to hospital.

The C.L.B. had a church parade on Easter Sunday morning, and the C.C.C. last Sunday afternoon.

The ladies of both organizations presented a smart appearance.

Mr. Murphy and troupe performed an Irish drama Easter Monday night very successfully in St. Joseph's Hall. The Salvation Army Citadel was crowded on last Wednesday night when their annual Sale of Work was held.

The C.L.B. entertainment in the L.O.A. Hall last week was a most successful affair and was enjoyable socially and financially.

The S.U.F. Masonic and L.O.A. Lodges here have all contributed nicely to the Disasters' Fund.

Mr. W. Squires is, we are pleased to know, fast recovering from his recent serious illness.

shows little or no warning of the coming storm. The reason of this, I think, was that we were just on the margin of the storm. We use an Aneroid and also one of Adie's Mercurial. The readings of these instruments were practically the same as this recorded on the sheet. The only steamers I have known to carry barographs are the Allan Lines, some of them, and the White Star Boats. They cost from $30 to $75. A barograph would not be as satisfactory on sealing steamers as an Aneroid. The hitting or going through ice may interfere with the tracing by the needle or pen on the chart of the barograph. The barometer carried by sealing steamers is from eight to ten inch dial Aneroid with an oak case. I am acquainted with the Admiral Fitzroy Barometer. This instrument is used principally in halls and clubs and in observatories. It always carries with it a thermometer. It has other instruments for scientific purposes with it. I know that directions are given as to the reading of the barometer and thermometer at the same time. With a low barometer and low thermometer we would take that as an indication of a wind from north to N.E., and visa versa on the other hand, with a high glass from S.W. to S. The Fitzroy is not used in marine purposes in Newfoundland. At the sealshery the only steamers that carry bridge thermometers are such steamers as the Stephano and Florizel, and those engaged in the Atlantic trade. The ordinary sealer does not carry a bridge thermometer. There are of course thermometers carried in the engine room for the use of the engineers. I cannot assign any reason why this is so. The principal reason is that they are lying up all the summer and they have no Atlantic work for them. When the steamers like the Florizel and Stephano come out here from England, they are fitted with the thermometer. It is a usual thing to fit steamers with them, leaving the Old Country. I am acquainted with the act that the ordinary log book contains a column for recording the thermometer at different hours of the day. In any foreign work it is usual for the navigator to observe the thermometer and record it in the log. I have not known the thermometer to be used very much at the ice. I cannot give any reason, but I know that it is only since the steel ships that engage in an Atlantic trade have come out here that the thermometer has been used at the ice at all on the deck. My opinion why thermometers are not carried on the wooden steamers is because the masters are without certificates, and not passing the Board of Trade examinations have never learnt the use of thermometers in their barometer calculations. I think if a mariner at the sealshery as a good barometer, a good reliable one, the non use of the thermometer would not affect him in getting the right idea of approaching storms by strict attention and watchfulness of his barometer. For all practical purposes, I think the careful use of a barometer, without the use of the thermometer in navigation generally, would be sufficient, although the Board of Trade Log Books calls for both. There are sealing steamers that leave for the ice with their barometers not adjusted for sea level reading. The record of my own barograph and that of the Board of Trade are of the same.

To the Judge.—I would not say that the reading of the barometer as I had for Tuesday morning the 31st of March, without the thermometer would indicate a mild spurt. It was not snowing in St. John's on Tuesday morning about 9 o'clock. I do not know when it began to snow here, but I believe between 11 and 12 the snow was falling very fast, with a very high wind.
