Russet and Gold.

The leaves are russet and gold

Summer has said good-bye. The year is fast growing old, I The same, dear, as you and I. Side by side through the springtin With garlands upon our brow, Through summer's glad day We have passed on our way,

But it's russet and gold for us

Russet and gold, russet and gold,
That is the time when the leav
growing old,
Smile 'neath the sun Smile 'neath the sun Of life's work bravely done, And rest comes, and peace, with the russet and gold.

The winter will soon be here, Donald, Bringing the frost and the snow; And yet we never need fear Donald, For through it together we go. We are ent'ring the autumn of life,

And our fiedglings have fied fro the nest.
Looking back, hand in hand, Ve can now understand
That the russet-and-gold time

Condor is King of Air.

ROOSTS ON LOFTY LEDGES-HAS WING EXPENSE OF 12 FEET.

Scientists have determined that the California condor exceeds in size its cousin, the condor of the Andes of South America, and is larger than the giant or wandering albatross, which travels the ocean lanes of the Pacific, south of the equator. The extreme wing expanse of the California condor is close to 12 feet. Through careful measurements, the scientists learned that the condor of the southern countries is smaller in all respects.

One of these largest birds that fly is on exhibition in the Natural History Museum at San Diego, Cal. Beside the condor, the turkey buzzard, a smaller relative, appears to be a dwarf. Both birds are carrion eaters, a fact which has contributed substantially to the near-extinction of the condor. Naturalists of earlier years record that the condor was once fairly common in Ranchers and settlers have been indirectly responsible for the killing of many condors through the placing of poisoned meat intended for consumptien of coyotes, bobcats and panthers. Large numbers have also been wantonly killed through the indiscriminate use of firearms.

The condor's favorite haunts for roosting and breeding are at elevations of 10,000 to 16,000 feet. There. during the months of February and March, on inaccessible ledges of rock, a deposits two white eggs, from three) four inches in length, its nest coneisting merely of a few sticks placed around the eggs.
